Mideast Truce Extended

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Suez Canal cease-fire will continue after its expiration time tonight, but there is no prospect for a resumption of peace talks despite the U.N. General Assembly resolution urging Israel and the Arabs to start negotiating again.

The semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram said President Anwar Sadat had ordered Egyptian forces to continue the truce for "a further short period," but not for another 90 days unless progress is achieved in the current peace efforts at the United Nations.

Sadat coupled this with an order for a full alert on the canal front "regardless of any political developments."

Al Ahram said Egypt will continue to observe the cease-fire "until the completion of current discussion at the United Nations and accompanying international efforts." This was seen as a reference to Egypt's campaign in the U.N. General Assembly to force the Israelis to return to the indirect negotiations for which U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring is the go-between.

Israel had said earlier that it would continue to observe the cease-fire until fired on, even if there was no formal agreement to extend it. But the Israelis remained firm in their refusal to return to the negotiations until Egypt pulls back antiaircraft missiles which Israel charges were shifted forward in the Suez area after the standstill agreement went into effect Aug. 7.

Egypt has been just as adamant in its insistence that its redeployment of missiles along the canal has not violated the cease-fire and that none of the rockets would be pulled back.

The Jordanian government also was considered certain to extend the cease-fire though there has been no formal announcement from Amman. Since the 1967 war, the Jordanian army has left offensive action against Israel to the Egyptians and the Palestinian guerrillas, and now it is so occupied trying to keep the guerrillas from overthrowing King Hussein that it probably could not take effective action against Israel if it wanted to.

The first 90-day cease-fire period ends at midnight in Israel and Egypt—5 p.m. EST.

Yugoslavia and 20 Asian and African supporters of Egypt pushed a resolution through the General Assembly Wednesday calling for a 90-day extension and immediate resumption of the Jarring talks. The resolution was approved 57 to 16 with 39 abstentions. The United States and Israel opposed it.

Israel had two objections to the resolution: It included a specific call for her to withdraw from the territories seized in the 1967 war and it calls for resumption of negotiations while ignoring the cease-fire violations charged by Israel.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Assembly that this emphasis on Israeli withdrawal threw off balance the Security Council resolution of November 1967, which laid down the framework for a Middle East peace agreement.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost told the assembly that the resolution was "clearly ... put forward in behalf of one side to the conflict and represents the views of that side." He said its adoption constituted a "step backward, not a step forward."

Special Session Called

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today called a special session of the Missouri Legislature to begin Friday, Nov. 13.

The governor said the special session was being scheduled to consider emergency appropriations for the fiscal year which ends next June 30 and other matters to be recommended in the governor's message to legislators.

Under Missouri's constitution, a special session may last no more than 60 days and may consider only the matters put before it by the governor.

The state's most pressing need is for more revenue. Appropriations were held to bare bones basis for 1970-71 after a proposed income tax increase failed at the polls last April.

The governor has not indicated what kind of taxes he would recommend. He said earlier it would be foolish to resubmit the same income tax proposal defeated by the voters.

Since then he has reported that a private poll showed people would favor a sales tax rather than an income tax. Some legislators also suggested that beer, liquor and wine taxes could be raised to meet part of the financial need.

The governor's alternative would be to leave it up to the legislators to decide what kind of revenue measures the legislature should adopt.

This could be done with an "open ended" message opening the door to any kind of fee or tax increase.

More money for the Medicaid and other welfare programs is regarded as a must. Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter has indicated he would run out of money for the aid to dependent children, old age assistance and other programs sometime next spring under present appropriations.

In addition, the federal government has threatened to cut off funds unless the medicaid program is funded at the same rate as last year.

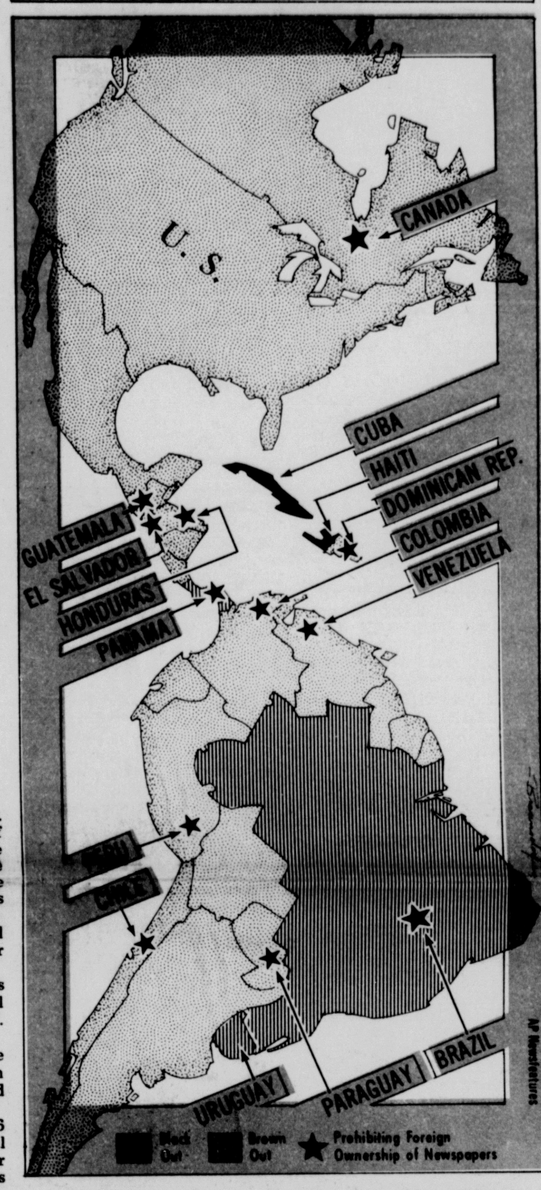
Welfare needs are reported to be between $9 million and $1(million for the rest of the fiscal year.

School administrators have complained because state aid was held to the same level as last year, although the Legislature had pledged a $35 million a year increase for four years.

The special session will be a "lame duck" session with holdover senators and representatives from the 1969 Legislature, some of whom did not run or were defeated this year.

PRESS RESTRICTIONS IN THE AMERICAS

Freedom of the press, a basic right in the United States, is not so universally recognized throughout the rest of North and South America. Some form of restrictions are applied in 15 nations in the Americas.



Press Freedom Set Back

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Inter-American Press Association ended its 26th annual meeting in Mexico City recently with a dire warning.

"The curtain of silence, censorship and oppression which separates the nations where there is no freedom of the press from those where there is still a free press came down over more countries in the course of the last year," the IAPA's Freedom of the Press Committee said.

The committee's report said Haiti and Cuba are the countries where there is a "total eclipse of press freedom."

The situation has improved somewhat in Brazil, where the military regime has lifted some of its restrictions on freedom of the press. But Panama was described as "one of the dark spots in the panorama of the hemispheric press."

In Uruguay, the IAPA report said, newspapers still are prohibited from using the word "Tupamaro," the name of a terrorist guerrilla group that has been responsible for a number of political kidnappings and assassinations.

The report also listed a number of countries where there are limitations in freedom of the press caused by laws prohibiting foreigners from owning newspapers in those countries.

Those countries are: Brazil, Canada, Chile, El Salvador, Panama, Honduras, Guatemala, Peru, Paraguay, Venezuela, Colombia and the Dominican Republic.

A number of Latin American countries have enacted such laws specifically to silence newspapers that were owned by foreigners or persons in exile.

However, some countries with such laws argued that their purpose is to prevent foreign elements form gaining great economic influence in underdeveloped nations.

20 Jet Riders Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — A Paris-bound Pan American World Airways 747 jumbo jetliner carrying 163 persons including Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., was forced to return here Wednesday night after being buffeted by severe clear air turbulence that injured 14 passengers and six stewardesses.

Six passengers and one stewardess were admitted to hospitals, the airline said. One man suffered a heart attack, a spokesman said, and injuries to the other 19 ranged from lacerations to broken bones.

Those with minor injuries were treated at the Pan Am terminal or the hospitals and released.

Four ambulances met the plane, the largest commercial aircraft in service, on its return to John F. Kennedy Airport at 11:30 p.m. It had taken off at 9:14 p.m. and hit the turbulence over Nantucket, Mass.

Javits was not among the injured but said he was "a little shaken up because it took a long while to get out of the turbulence."

Javits, who was on his way to a NATO meeting at the Hague, said "A lot of people who were in their seats literally hit the roof of the plane."

A veteran Navy pilot who was a passenger, Lt. Cmdr. J. L. Meiling, told newsmen, "We must have fallen anywhere from 2,000 to 5,000 feet in a matter of no more than five minutes."

Javits praised crew members "for their cool-headed control in handling the situation."

Other passengers praised Meiling, of Provo, Utah, who was traveling with his wife Sheila and 6-month-old son, Neal.

They said Meiling made a "circus catch" to save his son from injury after the boy was hurled out of his bassinet.

Passengers said that Meiling then turned to help others including a stewardess who was bleeding from the back of the head.

The airline spokesman had no immediate comment on Meiling's report that the plane had fallen 2,000 to 5,000 feet. He said the plane was at about 30,000 feet when the incident occurred.

He said the crew would be questioned by Pan Am officials and by investigators for the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board.

When the plane landed newsmen could detect no evident damage to the exterior but the cabin was littered with broken dishes, pillows, handluggage, blankets, clothing and other items.

The captain "explained to us that the turbulence did not show up on the plane's radar or at JFK," another passenger said.

Later, 119 of the original 148 passengers, including some persons who received minor injuries, boarded another 747 to resume the journey to Paris. The plane took off at 4:32 a.m.

Four Treated

Four were treated in Missouri Delta Community hosptial Wednesday:

Brian Edward Chance of New Orleans, La., slammed car door on right thumb; Anthony Gene Kelley of Oran received a cut above right eye while playing basketball; Wanda Gene Copland of Sikeston, injured knees; and Jami Margaret Ward of Sikeston, car accident.

Wilson New East Prairie Manager

EAST PRAIRIE — James Wilson, a retired navy lieutenant, has accepted the position of city manager and will be sworn in officially Nov. 16.

Wilson, 44, was reared on a farm in central Illinois and joined the navy in 1944, serving as radioman and yeoman on destroyers and submarines. He received his commission in the navy supply corps in August of 1958 and retired as a lieutenant July 1, 1970 in Charleston, S. C.

He has received training in public management, finance and administration. This will be his first experience in city management.

His wife, Dorothy, and their two children, Darcy, 11, and Gordon, 17, will remain in Charleston, S. C. until next June, when his son will graduate from high school.

Wilson is working with Glenn Huntington, former city manager who resigned last month to accept a position in Colorado.

North Viet Supply Buildup Detected

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. reconnaissance jets have detected an extensive buildup of war materials in the southern provinces of North Vietnam awaiting shipment to Cambodia and South Vietnam, Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans said today.

Concluding a three-day inspection visit to Vietnam, Seamans said American bombers have stepped up raids along 200 miles of the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos. However, he said that to the best of his knowledge U.S. planes were not attacking the staging areas in North Vietnam.

The United States halted all offensive bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1, 1968, but has continued reconnaissance flights over the North.

"This is a very, very crucial time for air war," Seamans said. "As a result of the Cambodian invasion, a large number of supplies were wiped out.

"For that reason, the North Vietnamese, to continue to operate in South Vietnam as well as Cambodia, must get in a major increase in ammunition and other supplies. They don't have this year the alternative of using the ports in Cambodia ...

"So far we haven't seen enough to really know what is going to happen. The North Vietnamese have been severely hampered up to now by very heavy rains so we're just at the beginning of a critical period. I think it's too soon to try to make a projection as to what is going to happen over the next six months."

Despite the new enemy buildup, the secretary said the program to phase down American air operations and turn over more of the war to the South Vietnamese air force "is solidly based and progressing, if anything, ahead of schedule."

Since last January, the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam has been reduced to about 175 fighter-bomers operating from four bases in South Vietnam. More than 200 fighter-bombers and reconnaissance jets have been transferred out of the country.

Thuy Calls Nixon Liar

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnamese Ambasador Xuan Thuy used the Paris peace talks today as a forum to say that President Nixon "has lied to the American people."

U.S. Ambassador David K.E. Bruce, taking this as an inadmissible insult to the President, delivered an immediate rebuke to the North Vietnamese envoy.

Telling newsmen what no other delegation spokesman would reveal, Nguyen Thanh Le, Hanoi spokesman, said Thuy told Bruce: "What I must say and what I will say is that Mr. Nixon has lied to the American people.

"The reactionary policy he practices is tied to the prolongation of the war in Vietnam and in Indochina."

U.S spokesman Steven Ledogar would not reveal what had annoyed Bruce but recounted that "in a sharp exchange at the end of the meeting personally insulting remarks by Ambassador Xuan Thuy were made about the President of the United States of America."

17 Died in Aged Home Fire

MONTREAL (AP) — Fire raced through a home for the elderly today in the Montreal suburb of Pointe-aux-Trembles and 17 persons perished. Police said all died of asphyxiation.

Seventeen other residents of the Foyer Ste. Bernadette home managed to escape the flames, which broke out at 4 a.m., after a furnace exploded in the basement of the three-floor brick and stone building. The survivors were taken to a hospital where their condition was listed as satisfactory.

Pierre Gariepy, Pointe-aux-Trembles chief of police, said a great deal of smoke was pouring from the building when firemen arrived. He said the victims probably died in their sleep.

The owner of the home, Lucien Paradis, said it had passed a government safety inspection two weeks ago.

Hartke Claims Win in Senate Cliff-Hanger

There was no immediate comment from Roudebush, who has remained in seclusion since election night—as had Hartke until his appearance at a news conference.

With all but three of 4,440 precincts accounted for, the unofficial tabulation showed Hartke with a 3,698-vote lead—865,439 to 861,741.

Around the state, voting machines and ballot boxes were sealed and under armed guard in anticipation of a recount.

Reasoner to Change Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Reasoner will leave CBS to join ABC on Monday, Dec. 7, as co-anchorman of the network's evening news show, replacing Frank Reynolds.

ABC said today that Reasoner would share duties on the show with Howard K. Smith, another former CBS newsman, who is in Washington.

An industry source said Reasoner had signed a five-year contract with ABC for a salary of about $200,000 a year.

Reasoner, who joined CBS News in 1956, is cohost of "60 Minutes," with Mike Wallace, and anchorman of the CBS Sunday News.

ABC said Reynolds would become a special correspondent and would do occasional documentaries. He became anchorman in May 1968.

Boy Caught After Report of Breakin

Police Sgt. Jack Patterson apprehended a 16-year-old boy Thursday afternoon while in a house at 104 West Gladys St. Police said the house was unoccupied but owned by a Mrs. Albritton.

Patterson had received information there had been a breakin at 108 West Gladys. The officer proceeded to the vicinity in his patrol car and spotted the youth nearby.

He acted as if he was ignoring the youth and proceeded away from the area, but turned and left his patrol car at Scott and West Gladys.

The officer heard noises inside the house at 104 West Gladys. When near the front door, the boy started running. Patterson caught him in the back yard.

Investigation showed a front door glass and a large window near the door had been broken. There was no other damage.

Patterson reported an unoccupied house at 108 West Gladys owned by Lonnie Hodges also was found to have been broken into. There was considerable damage including writing on bedroom walls, removal of locks from doors, removal of a bell from a telephone. A fire had been set in the dining room and there were knife marks on woodwork and floor.

The house was entered by breaking a back door glass with a brick.

The youth was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Magistrate Hears Four Venue Cases

CHARLESTON — Judge T. J. Brown, Jr. heard four change of venue cases from Scott county in magistrate court this week.

William Jerry Moore waived arraignment and pleaded guilty to his second offense of driving while intoxicated and was assessed a $123 fine; six month suspended jail sentence and placed on parole for one year.

Larry Franklin Babb, charged with driving while intoxicated, waived arraignment and pleaded quilty to an amended charge of careless and reckless driving. He was fined $126.60.

A $123 fine was levied Curtis Mack Williams on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. A speeding charge against James Jerry Grisham brought a $91 fine.

The following fines were assessed on speeding charges: Roy Patrick, $44; Londell Williams, $28; Walter Hunter, $29; Jerry L. Luther, $26; Hillory Alfred Davenport, $28; Ollie Halbert, $26; Thomas H. Stringer, $24; Charles Randy Lane, $35; Jerry Atwater, $26; and David Lee Calhoun, $31.

Betty Louise Dunigan paid a $21 fine for driving while operator's license were suspended and a charge of no operators license against Obie Pehm, was dismissed by the court and costs certified to Mississippi County.

Edgar Harmon entered a plea of innocent to a charge of felonious assault with intent to kill at a preliminary hearing and was bound over to circuit court. Harmon is accused of shootingJimmie Robinson twice in the side with a .38 calibre pistol on August 15. The defendant was released on his own recognizance.

A $21 fine was assessed Martha Glenn Wasson for littering.

A charge of defective brakes brought a $21 fine to Ralph Paul Scudder and a $16 fine to R. J. Johnson.

Jim Bob Goff paid a $26 fine for making an improper left turn and Jim Lee Taylor was fined $16 for overlength.

Judge Brown assessed a $36 fine and stayed a ten day jail sentence to Coy Yabor for failure to have operator's lincense.

A charge of careless and reckless driving while drinking brought a $29 fine to Gerald P. Summers.

In an account suit brought by Montgomery Ward against Eluctine Hines and Bobby L. Hines, judgement was awarded the plaintiff to recover a total of $253.33 at 7% interest from date of judgment, together with $11 costs.

East Prairie LumberCo. was awarded judgement in an account suit brought against Bill Anderson in the amount of $146.47 at 6% interest and costs.

Winchester Chevrolet Co. was awarded judgement to recover $260.84 principal, $39 attorneys fee and $10 costs from Paul Long in a suit on contract.

House Demos Talk of Taking Economic Reins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reinforced House Democrats may present their own economic program if the Nixon administration does not change its policies, according to Rep. Carl Albert, the chamber's prospective new speaker.

Albert took issue in an interview with two interpretations of Tuesday's election—that the smaller-than-average Democratic House gains for off-year elections were not significant and that voter concern with inflation and unemployment did not play a major role.

"We are going into the new Congress with the biggest Democratic majority since the Johnson landslide of 1964," Albert said.

Democrats picked up at least nine House seats, for a total of 254. This contrasts with 243 at the beginning of the last Congress and 248 at the start of the one four years ago.

It is, however, well short of the 295 seats Democrats won in 1964 when Lyndon B. Johnson overwhelmed Sen. Barry Goldwater in the presidential election.

"I would hope this would encourage the administration to take the state of the economy more seriously," Albert said.

"They haven't done so up to now."

Albert said the Democrats in the House already have taken some legislative steps. Over administration opposition, they have passed standby credit, wage and price controls which have not been used.

"We could do more," Albert said. "I would hope that we could work together with the administration, but if not we will have to go ahead on our own."

Albert said his party will benefit not only its gains in the House but by a heightened sense of unity resulting from the deep involvement by Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the congressional campaign.

$125 Theft at Service Station

Police reported property and cash totaling $125 was taken during the night from Leonard's Shell Service Station.

Reported stolen were four radios, a portable television set, two cartons of .22 caliber bullets and $26 in cash.

A tire tool believed used in the burglary was found near the station.

Miner Board Talks Stop Sign Needs

MINER — The town board of Miner last night took under consideration a petition signed by 27 residents to erect a stop sign at the intersection of Hux and Ross Streets for north and southbound traffic.

The board discussed erecting six other stop signs for street intersections.

Chairman Harold Lewis appointed Charles Hill, John Burton, and Clarence Scott to serve on a committee for blacktopping streets.

It was brought out that a police car may be available to the city through federal aid.

The board was told that the state highway department wants the board to pass an ordinance to have the speed limit at 45 miles per hour from Frank Ferrell's home south to Ira Dodd's home. From Dodd's home to the end of the city limits, the speed limit would be 55 miles per hour. The speed limit is now 45 miles per hour for both areas.

Lewis said he thought it was a good idea but said he would have to draw a plat explaining the limits of the city and the footage to present to the highway department before action could be taken.

The board voted to continue an insurance policy for firemen.

General collections by the city for October were $1,900.59.

The largest items were for water bills, $1,053.08, and the street fund, $581.26.

County Taxes Must Be Paid at Court House

BENTON — Scott County Collector of Revenue Tom Marshall has announced that his office will not make tax collections in any town or city in Scott Count except at his office in the courthouse in Benton.

Harris D. Rodgers, presiding judge of the Scott county court, said collections have been taken in towns 35 to 40 years.

In the past collecting offices have been up in the smaller communities of the county on half- day and day basis during November. In December the collector has set up offices in the Sikeston city hall.

Collector Marshall has published advertisements in all the newspapers in the county to inform the people of the plan.

Marshall has a letter from Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Thomas R. Gilmore telling the collector and county court judges that there is "No statuatory authority for such branch offices in our county. It is my legal opinion that such offices are in violation of Missouri Law."

The prosecutor's letter continued, "Even if the maintenance of such branch offices was permitted under the law as a matter of discretion I feel that it is important in our county to avoid any innovations in the collection process that would interfere in any way with the maintenance of complete accurate records concerning all transactions in the collector's office.

"I have found during my previous investigation of the office earlier this year that the branch office operation militates against the maintenance of such complete and accurate records and for that reason I would be opposed to any effort to perform the collection process outside of the collector's Office in Benton at the county seat."

Collector Marshall said he could see many chances for errors in the collection of taxes with the collector's staff having to "split the tax books to take them from town to town and at the same time leaving some of the records in the courthouse at Benton."

Marshall urged that taxpayers make their payments by mail using bank checks if possible. He said his office will respond promptly in sending the paid receipt by return mail.

The Prosecutor's letter concluded, "If experience shows after one year of such operation that it is a serious inconvenience to the people, not to have such a branch office collection then the local State Representative can be requested to sponsor and submit appropriate legislation that would allow such a branch office."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Every mother of a son believes that her daughter- in-law is not living up to her marriage vows unless she is constantly worrying about her husband's appetite.

* * *

THE FRAUDULENT SLOGAN

One of the favorite phrases used by critics of America is the slogan: "Human rights, not property rights." It has been used particularly in regard to the attacks made upon property by the "new left" extremists who have, increasingly, been busily engaged in the burning, bombing and destroying of property valued in the millions of dollars. The argument has been that law enforcement authorities should use "restraint" in seeking to stem the law- breakers, and that under no circumstances should the criminal be shot, if such force should be necessary to halt his lawless behavior. Reason given: because "human rights are more important than property rights."

But the argument is phony, for several reasons. First, acts of bombing, burning, rioting, and the like are not "human rights"; they are criminal acts, and thus have absolutely no protection under the law. To alibi that such criminal behavior should be permitted if it is "politically motivated" also has no basis whatsoever; a criminal act may have any number of "motivations" - greed, jealousy, hate- none of which excuse the deed. If the act was intentional, the person is guilty.

Furthermore, there is no such thing as a "property right." Property, in and of itself, has no "rights"; there is only the human right to own and control property. Thus, an assault upon property is an assault upon a basic human right protected by our Constitution.

Human rights exist only so long as the right to property is invested in the individual. Once the right to ownership and control of property is shifted to the government - as in the Soviet Union - then all human rights are negated.

Wittingly or unwittingly, those who parrot the slogan "Human rights- not property rights" are frauds, and should be so labeled.

THE MAYFLOWER COMPACT

In the mid- 19th century, Massachusetts blueblood Rufus Choate remarked that "the courage of New England was the courage of conscience." This sometimes unendearing quality was manifest in such diverse New Englanders as the fanatic, Samuel Adams; the crusader, William Lloyd Garrison; and the propagandist, Harriet Beecher Stowe. It was perhaps best exemplified by that hardy band of Pilgrims who left Plymouth, England, aboard the Mayflower in September 1620. Unwilling to submit to the established Church of England, these nonconformists undertook the dangerous journey to the New World for the freedom to worship God in their own way.

Their sailing was not a pleasant one. Two vessels, the Speedwell and the Mayflower, were scheduled to make the journey. Barely out at sea, the Speedwell collapsed and the Mayflower had the dubious distinction of making the first Atlantic crossing without a "consort" ship. The 104 passengers -- religionists, laborers, shareholders and homeless children -- and the liquor- loving, ungenteel crew were "packed like sardines" into the three - masted, 180- ton ship. Rough seas lessened, but by no means eliminated, the tension and squabbling among those aboard.

When the Mayflower sighted land in early November 1620, the infighting increased. To hold the community together for the arduous tasks ahead, the Pilgrim leaders called together most of the adult males to sign a covenant in which all agreed to submit to the decision of the majority. Wednesday, Nov. 11, marks the 350th anniversary of the signing of this document, known as the Mayflower Compact. The participants agreed to "covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation ... and to enact and constitute such just and equal laws ... into which we promise all due submission and obedience."

The compact, which was modeled on church covenants long in use among separatists, provided for annual elections in which all freemen were eligible to vote. John Carver, the first Pilgrim governor, was the first colonial governor in the New World and perhaps the first in history to be chosen by the people themselves in free elections. The Mayflower Compact remained in effect until the Plymouth colony was absorbed by Massachusetts in 1692. Under it, the Pilgrims enjoyed a remarkable degree of independence and self- government. Some historians have viewed the Mayflower Compact as the precursor of the New England town meetings. D. Kenelm Winslow in the Mayflower Heritage (1957) states: "It might be said to have incorporated, quite unconsciously, the seed of Republicanism."

LEGALITY OF THE WAR

More than 40,000 young Americans have been killed in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961. The conflict has lasted longer than any other in American history. But under the Constitution, the United States is not at war. Without equivocation, that document states: "Congress shall have power... to declare war." And there has been no declaration of war.

The intent of a measure passed overwhelmingly by the Massachusetts legislature on April 1 and signed into law the following day by Gov. Francis W. Sargent is to challenge the legality of undeclared wars such as Viet Nam. It provides that "no inhabitant of the Commonwealth... shall be required to serve" in foreign wars where there has been no Congressional declaration of war.

The law's anti- war sponsors hope it will force the Supreme Court to rule that the conflict is being waged by the President without legal authority. Constitutional authorities such as Professor Alexander M. Bickel of Yale doubt whether the Massachusetts law is anything more than a symbolic gesture. But it spotlights what has become a key issue in American life-- the increasing tendency of Presidents to assume control over decisions involving peace or war.

The framers of the Constitution debated the question of war power at length in 1787. Having escaped a British King with power to declare war, they abhorred the idea of such power vested in an individual. They gave it to Congress. An approving Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1789: "We have already given... one effective check to the dog of war by transferring the power of declaring war from the executive to the legislative."

The expansion of Presidential power to use troops abroad began in the Caribbean under Theodore Roosevelt. Woodrow Wilson sent the army in pursuit of Pancho Villa without authorization of Congress. President Franklin D. Roosevelt cited his powers as Commander- in- Chief as authority for several pro- allied acts prior to the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor. President Truman never asked Congress for a declaration of war in Korea -- and waited until six months after the outbreak of hostilities to proclaim a state of national emergency.

President Johnson looked upon the Tonkin Gulf Resolution approved by Congress on Aug. 4, 1964, as his authority for expanding the war in Viet Nam. In 1967, Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach called the resolution the "functional equivalent" of a declaration of war. But Sen. Albert Gore (D- Tenn.) rejected this interpreation, declaring: "I did not vote for the resolution with any understanding that it was tantamount to a declaration of war."

Recently, attempts have been mounted to repeal -- or at least examine -- the Tonkin Gulf Resolution. The effort is spearheaded by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., (R-Md.), to "signal a new determination by Congress to exercise fully its powers on the vital questions of war and peace."

Significantly, the Massachusetts effort to determine legality of the war is being supported by both hawks and doves. The conservative Dallas Morning News has said: "The war should be declared. Until it is, the use of draftees could be legally questionable." And the liberal Boston Globe states that: "If... the President alone can send draftees into foreign combat under his powers as Commander- in- Chief, then it is part time for the people to be apprised of it."

Book Fellowship wrote the following to a Georgia lady: "You inquired about the place where you could get news bulletins with truly inside information, and from a Christian point of view. It is a newspaper called Life Lines... It's really great!... We have no connection with them whatever, they probably don't know we exist, but we recommend them in keeping with our policy of letting our people know where they can get the most helpful literature to help the Christian cause." NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could do without:

City-written country music.

Real estate dealers who describe a quarter-acre plot as "an estate," and 1½-room apartments as "junior suites."

Discussions of world problems by politically illiterate movie stars.

Any new cocktails which try to marry the grape and the grain.

Hostesses who invite you to dinner and then serve a storebought pizza pie.

Restaurant patrons who think it is a panic to mock the pidgin English of Chinese waiters.

Actors who think the quickest way to stardom is to imitate Cary Grant.

All dishes made with either squash or eggplant.

Hat check chicks who make a fellow feel like Benedict Arnold if he only has 20 cents in change to leave as a tip.

Rouge prints on a highball glass.

Saucer-sized sunglasses worn by girls who lack the ingenuity to find more interesting ways to attract attention.

That "one for the road."

College presidents who speak of their students as the hope of tomorrow but personally find them the despair of today.

Cemeteries with fanciful names such as "Final Gardens," "Everlasting Heath," or "Gateway to Nirvana." (I'd rather be buried in one called "Moor to Come.")

Any "new" deodorant, toothpaste or laundry detergent put on the market only this morning to replace a deodorant, toothpaste or detergent that was "new" only the day before yesterday.

Women Santa Clauses.

Overly chummy ministers who like to be regarded as "just one of the boys."

Men who brag about how they keep their beards in shape by sleeping with them in hairnets.

The new arithmetic.

Lectures on sex by so-called authorities who seem to be determined to turn everybody else's boudoir into a public clinic.

Any humorous birthday greeting cards sent to a woman over 30 or a man over 40.

People who think they can brighten your life during the morning coffee break at the office by telling you in detail the plot of an old movie they saw the night before on the boob tube.

DEAR READERS. A friend of mine, Pat Snyders, of LaGrange, Illinois, sent me the following letter which was found in her mother's attic. The subject matter does not relate to recipes — but it certainly relates to ladies — so I thought my lady readers would find it amusing:

DECATUR, ALABAMA, JAN. 22ND, 1918

MESSRS. MARSHALL FIELD & CO.

GENTLEMEN,

WE HAVE YOUR LETTER OF THE 20TH, BEING IN REPLY TO OUR LETTER IN WHICH WE ADVISE YOU OF THE RETURN OF LADIES DRAWERS, LOT 3802, BECAUSE THEY WERE MINUS BUTTONS AND BUTTON HOLES. WE NOTE YOU SAY YOU DO NOT PUT THESE ON THIS PARTICULAR NUMBER AT THE LOW PRICE.

WE HARDLY THINK THE AVERAGE RETAILER OR CUSTOMER COULD APPRECIATE THE EXPEDIENCY OF LEAVING OFF THINGS LIKE THIS ON AS IMPORTANT A GARMENT AS DRAWERS, FOR THE SAKE OF A PRICE. ON THE SAME THEORY, YOU MIGHT LEAVE OFF ONE OF THE LEGS, AND MAKE THE PRICE STILL LOWER, AND BY THE SAME ANALYSIS OF REASONING TO LEAVE OFF BOTH LEGS, YOU COULD GIVE US A GENUINE BARGAIN IN PRICE, BUT IT WOULD BE NOTHING IN DRAWERS.

DRAWERS — THE PRICE — SHOULD NEVER BE LOWERED FOR THE LACK OF BUTTONS AND BUTTON HOLES. THE AVERAGE LADY OF OUR COUNTRY WOULD PREFER TO PAY A PRICE THAT WOULD KEEP HER DRAWERS UP. WE CERTAINLY THINK YOU HAVE UNDERTAKEN TO SKIMP AND TO ECONOMIZE AT AN ILL CHOSEN POINT.

PLEASE LET US HAVE AT ONCE, THE DRAWERS WE RETURNED WITH BUTTONS AND BUTTON HOLES IN THEM, OR SOME OTHER STYLE EQUIPPED AT THE SAME PRICE.

VERY TRULY,
WILLIAMSON & NICHOLS

THERE IS NO ESCAPE

Where there is smoke, there is fire- so goes the old expression. It appears particularly applicable to present discussions of federal tax reform. One of the last official acts of the Johnson Administration was to submit proposed changes in the tax laws to make the system more equitable and to extend its reach to incomes that it has been claimed escape their share of the tax load. The Nixon Administration is also concerned with tax reform.

For longer than most of us can remember, there have been proposals of one kind or another to improve and reform the tax laws, but instead of reform, taxes have gotten higher and the rules more complicated year after year.

Perhaps at last, the pressure of taxpayer resentment will force change, but no miracles should be expected -- and least of all a substantial lessening of the tax burden. As long as the cost of government continues to rise disproportionately to the productive capacity of the people, taxes will become increasingly burdensome. Reform of the tax laws may mean more equitable treatment of taxpayers. But, reform should not be confused with reduction. Because of their number, the great body of U.S. citizens of modest means, in the future as in the past, will remain the main target of the tax collector. There is no other way.

RENT A CASTLE, SERF?

Talk bout castles in Spain.

The Castles Association, which counts about 1,000 castle buffs around the world as members, reports that the area which today is the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) once had as many as 18,000 castles and palaces.

Surprisingly, 15,500 of these edifices are still around. Of the original number, 2,500 have disappeared entirely and 8,500 are more or less in ruined condition. But 5,000 are still inhabited and 2,000, while unused, are habitable and available.

Give you any ideas? Forget it.

The association says that many of these castles change hands with regularity, generally because the initial enthusiasm at so romantic a possession is soon followed by discouragement at the high cost of upkeep.

They just don't make serfs like they used to.

As the plane headed for the runway, the front- seat pest handed her a key and a slip of paper on which he had written his address. "Here's the key and my address," he whispered. "See you tonight?"

"Okay," she whispered back with a smile as she headed for the drunk at the rear.

She handed him the key and slip of paper and said, "Don't be late."

H.L. Hunt Says

Officer Harold L. Hamilton of San Francisco lost his life in a gun battle with bank robbers. Tragedies like these are happening with increasing frequency all over the country.

But Officer Hamilton was not to be laid to rest in peace. A time bomb planted before his funeral rocked St. Brendan's Church, throwing nails, screws and bolts as far as 400 feet. Fortunately there were no injuries, althoug an officer stood withing 10 feet of the explosion.

Governor Ronald Reagan described the bombing as part of the "fiendish tactics" of revolutionaries. The act did bear the savage earmarks of the anarchists who are bombing buildings, both public and private, without regard to dangers to human beings.

There may have been serious injury or murder at Officer Hamilton's funeral had not the service been delayed 10 minutes for the late arrival of the San Francisco mayor.

For the criminal element of his country, especially the subsersives and treason-minded cells of the extremist groups, life has become cheap. We read personal histories of some of the se anarchists who seem willing to bomb and die, if necessary, to overthrow our government. Governor Reagan is right when he called the San Francisco bombing the tactics of the revolutionaries.

It is past time for all of us to demand that these criminal acts not go unpunished. The law and the enforcers of the law must be tough. We must insist that our elected officials put teeth into enforcement.

There have been too many Officer Hamilton cases in recent months. If something isn't done to stop them, there will be no need for brave men like Officer Hamilton. There will be nothing left to defend. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The Peace Corps' noble experiment with American Indian recruits has ended in wholesale resignations, firings and a clumsy effort to cover up the debacle.

The disaster was so embarrassing to the peace Corps that its formal evaluation report on the "Peace Pipe Project" has been classified "Confidential, Authorized Eyes Only."

This column has now obtained a copy of the 54-page document, which blames the administrators, not the Indians, for the failure. "Racism.... bungling...bureaucratic deafness (and)...sheer ignorance," destroyed the Peace Pipe program and embittered many of the young Indians, charges the Office of Evaluation report.

The idea of sending Indians overseas as Peace Corps volunteers was adopted by the former director, Jack Vaughn, with the encouragement of Sen. Fred Harris, D—Okla., and his Comanche wife. The program finally fizzled out just after the new director, Joseph Blatchford, took office.

PEACE PIPE FLICKERS OUT

"Peace Pipe II" was supposed to profit by the mistakes. Some 33 optimistic Indians enrolled. During training in Puerto Rico, four quit. Six more dropped out after the group moved to California for advance training. When the survivors were assigned to Colombia, ten more quit. Firings, the draft and medical problems forced out most of the rest. In less than a year, only four remained.

Declares the report: "If one could imagine a totally evil man and suspect him of the worst sort of motivations toward American Indians, it would be difficult to conceive of him doing a more thorough job of messing with lives than the Peace Corps has accomplished...

"The Peace Corps has extremely limited capacity to tolerate, much less to include, people of minority backgrounds--in fact, the system has been designed to reject them, one way or another."

The report charges the Indians were not trained for Colombia, were discriminated against on draft deferments, were lied to about assignments and got such miserable medical care that many were ill for weeks with diarrhea, chills, cramps and fever.

The Peace Corps director for Colombia, in fact, didn't even know how many Indians had been assigned to him or where they had been sent. The deputy director thought there was only one volunteer in Colombia, when in fact there were five.

"No one was in control of it. The buck was passed rapidly, sometimes back and forth"...The administrative bungling was unbelievable," states the report.

DOOMED TO FAILURE

The young Indians were told by one training official that "the program was doomed to be a failure." Another Indian youth grumped: "Peace Pipe seems like an effort to make us nice little WASPS so that we can fit in."

An outside consultant, according to the evaluation office, viewed the program with open disgust. Said the consultant: "Anyone who doubts there was racism can look at what Peace Corps did to help the two Indians who had draft problems. Nothing at all--while everyone was killing themselves for some of the white trainees."

Meanwhile the young Indians began to drift. "During 12 weeks of training, the trainees learned virtually nothing about what they would be doing or where they would be doing it." says the report.

"Does Peace Corps really believe that white 23-year-old, urban college graduates constitute our only manpower supply?" ask the evalutors. Quite the contrary should be true, they reply.

"Young American Indian men and women....have the basic skills and the savvy our host (countries) are asking for--in agriculture, in animal husbandry and in general knowledge of the possiblilities for change in rural life."

The report urges another try at Peace Pipe, which Blatchford has rejected. However, Peace Corps insiders say that Blatchford has at least learned from the Peace Corps report. His handling of minority volunteers is more sensitive than in the days before the Peace Pipe program's "unqualified disaster."

In fact, this week Blatchford named William Tutman, former Peace Corps country directoy in Tanzania, as head of a new Office of Minority Affairs. Tutman is supposed to guide minority business to Peace Corps contracts and to press recruiting of minority volunteers into the Peace Corps.

EGYPTIAN MISSILES

Intelligence reports partially confirm the Cairo claim that Egyptians are manning the missiles in the Suez truce zone. Apparently the Russians will remain only long enough to teach the Egyptians how to operate their sophisticated new missiles.

The Russians have tried to keep their men out of combat in the Middle East except in emergencies. Soviet pilots, for example, flew some combat missions during the final stages of the fighting and a number of Soviet pilots were shot down.

Proof of this was picked up by the U.S. monitors which listened in on the secret radio frequencies that the pilots used. There is evidence, however, that the Soviets want to keep their men out of the fighting.

Shoot to Kill Police -Fire Fighters' Fury Over Militants Threatens Liberal-Labor Coalitions Strength

Washington: -- These are tough times. There's blood in the gutters -- policemen's blood. So there's tough talk. Just a few days ago husky Ed Kiernan, leader of the New York City's 25,000-member Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn., jabbed a finger at this columnist and said his men want the right to "shoot back and to shoot to kill."

They do not have this right. But, says Ed Kiernan, "my men are engaged in guerrilla warfare just as the soldiers are in Vietnam and they should have the same latitude as the soldiers in the field to protect themselves..."

Neither Ed Kiernan nor any of the nation's 325,000 uniformed patrolmen want anyone's blood on their hands. But cops scare, too. Especially in ambush. And today there are young cops -- averaging between 24 and 28 years of age in many big cities. So in New York the other day the PBA demanded a shotgun be standard equipment in "every radio patrol car."

This came shortly after the unaffiliated patrolmen's union had asked Mayor John Lindsay for what appears to be a $250 million annual wage-fringe-pension increase in exchange for the old 27-month pact expiring New Years's Eve. Later Ed Kiernan -- himself still a cop -- told me, "I don't doubt for 30 seconds there will be job action if we don't get what we want."

That's shop talk for strike. The cops are angry. So are the unionized fire fighters. They are polarized. They say there's just not enough money to compensate for the assualts on them, the sneak attacks, the killings while they're on duty -- not killings by thieves or thugs or organized gangsters but by militants.

It was to end this polarization, I believe, that Al Barkan, National Director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), invited into his office a month ago John Cassese, former PBA chief who now is organizing the International Brotherhood of Police Officers.Also asked in was William Howard McClennan, president of the International Assn. of Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO). Here in COPE'S office, Alex Barkan, his publicists and the two men personifying the nation's cops and firemen developed some depolarization plans for the interim between that day and Election Day.

Director Barkan's point had simple political logic. The cops -- some 30 of whom have been killed since July 1 and some 600 injured -- have been fighting mad. They have blamed the assaults and the lack of authority to shoot back automatically on incumbent office holders. The uniformed men have equated this with "permissiveness" -- and permissiveness with the liberal-labor coalition.

So strategist Barkan asked "Howie" McClennan and John Cassese to do a team bit. He urged them to hit the hustings for the following week and speak to uniformed men and their families in states with close senatorial and gubernatorial races. In these states a few thousands votes could make or break a candidate.

So Messrs. Casses, whose national union now has 41 police locals, and McClennan went on the road, shuttling between New York and Washington at one end, and Utah and Califronia at the other -- with stops, of course, in Ohio and Indiana.

They barnstormed for such liberal-coalitionist as Indiana's Vance Harke, California's John Tunney, Ohio's Howard Metzenbaum and John Gilligan (gubernatorial candidate) and Utah's Frank Moss.

Their argument as they went side by side pivoted on the belief that the labor coalition candidates would support bills already in committees on the Hill which would make it a federal offense to attack a policeman or fire fighter while on duty.

These bills would also guarantee an adequate income to widows and families of police and fire fighters killed on duty. Also for the men themselves if they survived the assaults but were disabled.

Labor.s politicos appeared indeed satisfied with the duo's campaign appeal. For, on Oct. 28, fire fighters chief McClennan received the following telegram from Alex Barkan:

"Reports I have had from our people in California, Utah, Indiana, Ohio and elsewhere indicated excellent results from their meetings and from the special program you have helped establish. This could be extremely significant in these key states. I really appreciate your help in this and I am convinced it will be most effective."

Just how effective was the appeal to the cops and firemen can't. be judged. Not for weeks until the election's final figures are broken down precinct by precinct, union by union.

Strength of this vote, however, will only measure the anger of men being moweddown in unprovoked attacks. The unformed men are polarized, all right. Ed Kiernan, for example, now is lobbying for a bill which would give the states or the federal government, the right to set up policemen's human rights commissions. The cops want a tripartite review board of federal or state officials, policemen's leaders and prominent citizens. The police want a board to which to go for redress, just as there are civilian police review boards.

It's true that such cops' unions as the New York PBA want big money -- $88 million in wage hikes alone in one year. But it is also true they want an additional 20 per cent across-the-board hazard pay while on duty -- any duty. This could come to more than $75 million a year.

But the cops say what good is money if you get mowed down in ambush or unprovoked attacks. So say the fire fighters.

What say the people -- all the people, every single one?

Gray Ridge participates in clinic

Friday morning, 58 children participated in a physical examination clinic at the Big Ridge Head Start Center. This clinic was conducted in conjunction with the health program that was initiated in 1964 by Sargent Shriver and Pediatrician J. Richmond, Dean of Syracuse Medical School.

Each child was given a complete and comprehensive physical examination by Alan S. Gubin, M.D., Medical Director for the Delta Area Program. Dr. Gubin was assisted by Mrs. Jeanne Littell, Nursing Coordinator; Mrs. Darlene Gilliam, Big Ridge Center Nurse and Mrs. Mary Malone. Mrs. Malone was in charge of taking blood samples to check for anemia.

Twenty of the children examined were from Gray Ridge Head Start. they were brought to the Big Ridge Center by Mr. Max Owens, Center Coordinator, in order that they might participate in the clinic.

The clinic was completed by noon. After lunch, the children were given a Halloween Party. Each child had a gingerbread man, games and a sack of Halloween candy to take home.

Mrs. Jean Geske is coordinator for the Big Ridge center.

Ann Landers

Sex education not plot by Communists says reader

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who lives in California. I am just sick about what has happened to the sex education program out here. A bunch of people got together and decided sex education was a Communist plot and they threw the whole program out of the public school system.

The idea that children should learn the facts of life from their parents is beautiful.. It also is impossible in most families. For example, my mother is a lovely lady but she is the last person in the world I'd talk to about sex. When I asked her some questions two years ago (I was 12 then) she blushed and got flustered. Finally, she offered to make an appointment with our family doctor because "he could explain things better." I told her not to bother. He is older than my grandfather and has a very stiff personality.

Not one of my girl friends has been taught about sex by her parents. Either the parents are too embarassed or they goof it up by tring to scare the kids to death. I asked a teacher in school (she is against sex education) if she really believed it was a Communist plot. She said, "No. The real reason is that adults are afraid if they talk about sex in school the kids will get aroused and go out and experiment!" What do you think about this? ---Ignorant In Orange County.

Dear I.I. O. C.: While I do not endorse all the material which has been prepared for use in public schools, most of it is excellent. I'd hate to see the entire program scrapped because of some tasteless cartoon of chickens and dogs copulating and a mama doll and papa doll in bed.

The ideal place for children to learn about sex is at home. But for the reasons you stated, very few children DO learn at home. The information they pick up on the street is often incomplete or incorrect and it makes kids think sex is dirty. The notion that sex, if discussed in school, will arouse kids and encourage experimentation is a joke. Kids ARE experimenting, they have always experimented and they will continue to experiment. Sex drives are inborn. Pretending they do not exist will not cause them to disappear. Kids need to accept their sexuality as part of a well intergrated personality. Moreover, they must be taught to handle their sexual impulses in a socially acceptable manner.

Dear Ann Landers: May I comment on the letter from Mrs. 888-- the woman who was mad because the 3-year-old boy next door ran around the yard naked and "cheapend the neighborhood."

As a mother of eight children I can tell you that boys are a lot harder to raise than girls. I had four of each. Every one of my boys used to take off his clothes and run outside whenever my back was turned. The girls never did this.

Our youngest boy was the worst. He could get his clothers off faster than a streak of lightening. We'd be on the way to church, Ann, our son walking a few feet behind (in cold weather, too) and when we'd arrive at the church steps we'd discover he was stark naked and his clothes had been dropped piece by piece for blocks.

So tell Mrs. 888 that the boy's mother might not be to blame. Kids do peculiar things. ---One Who Knows

Dear One: Never having had a boy, I can't say from experience that you are right or wrong. I do have a four-year-old grandson, however, and so far as I know he has always kept his clothes on outside. Thanks for writing.

NEW YORK (AP) — Guns have entered the fashion world.

Designer Rudi Gernreich didn't crack a smile as his models came out Wednesday in buff knit pants outfits, toy shoulder rifles, GI dog tags, goggles and caps. No one else smiled either.

Finally, Gernreich said, "At this point you probably all think that I'm a member of the silent majority," and the audience laughed.

If there was puzzlement, at first, over Gernreich's militant look, perhaps it was because so many designers are doing old world clothes with ruffles and flounces for spring.

Not Gernreich. As always, his clothes are pared down for action.

This season's fashion mood is meant to reflect the times in general, he said.

However, when one model saw the collection for Harmon knitwear- $35- $85 - she commented, "Oh, you're doing a back to school collection:"

Gernreich said, "Some people will say that I'm for war. I'm not... I certainly hope that guns won't become chic...

"I do know that clothes must relate, and designers today are totally funking out. In a way, I'm saying to them, 'Don't you know what's going on?"

BUILDING CHANGES

NEW YORK (AP) — "By the middle of the 70's almost no one will be building single-use building spaces for individual congregations," says the Rev. Dr. Edward S. Frey, head of an architecture commission of the Lutheran Church in America.

Most future church "building and remodeling and salvage will be carried out by clusters of congregations under consolidated denominational boards," he said, with separate denominational agencies left to concentrate on planning, education and ministries rather than buildings.

Wig News

by Dorothy Wardlaw

In our study of Wigs we find that the custom of wearing wigs dates back to ancient times, and down thru the years they have been a fashionable item of dress. But to many wigs are still one of our newest beauty accessories. One reason this is true, until in recent years they were so expensive only the very rich could afford them. But much progress has been made in the manufacture of wigs, both in quality and price.

Hair fashions today and for the future will be one of the most comforting beauty accessories of all time when the facts of ease and beauty are brought to your attention.

Next week we will start our discussion on how wiga are made.

to the credit of the community

A Committee Chairmen Workshop was the program when King's Highway Chapter DAR met with Mrs. F. D. Rolwing in Charleston, November 2. Members from East Prairie, Charleston and Sikeston attended the meeting.

Mrs. Alex C. Waters, Jr. accepted the Motion Picture Chairmanship for 1970 - 71. This committee was restored to national status in April, 1966. Purposes of this Committee are: encourage motion pictures favoring the American ideals and emphasize parental responsibility in motion picture selection. Pictures are previewed by a workshop Committee of 12 national organizations, including DAR, called the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations. The resulting composite opinion forms "Film Reports" (published monthly) is available without charge to libraries, schools, community centers and similar institutions. This national Board meets once a week to discuss films and give a suggested classification of motion pictures.

In addition to chapter committee plans, Miss Margaret Harris gave a study of the Resolutions adopted by the Seventy- ninth Continental Congress of the National Society.

Flood's Pact Needs Approval

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Curt Flood's contract with the Washington Senators is a conditional pact that still requires the approval of attorneys involved in his suit against baseball, The Associated Press learned today.

At the same time, it also was learned that the contract calls for a salry of $110,000 for the 1971 season—$20,000 more than Flood was paid in 1969 during his last active season with the St. Louis Cardinals.

In announcing Flood's signing, the Senators implied that all outstanding issues had been resolved. But a source close to the controverial outfielder, who still has a $4.1 million antitrust suit pending against baseball, disputed that.

According to the source, "the contract is conditional because of a special covenant which says attorneys on both sides must agree on the wording of a stipulation that the signing is without prejudice to the lawsuit."

The Senators said Flood has signed the standard player's contract containing the reserve clause that binds a player to the club which signs him until he is either traded, sold or released, and that Commissioner Bowie Kuhn had approved.

"The legal aspects were worked out with the help of Arthur Goldberg, Flood's attorney," the club said.

"Mr. Goldberg has not seen the contract," the source explained. "All that he has seen is a special covenant which simply states that the entire contract is conditional on the attorneys for both sides agreeing on the language with respect to the fact that the contract-signing would not prejudice the law suit."

The wording is considered extremely important because Flood has signed a contract that contains the same reserve clause that he is challenging in court. He sat out the 1970 season while his case was heard in Federal Court in New York.

The Federal Court ruled against Flood in the first phase of the case and an appeal now is pending. It is expected that there will be no final determination until the issue is set before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The $110,000 contract would make Flood the third member of the Senators to be paid in excess of $100,000 a year. The others are slugger Frank Howard and controversial pitcher Denny McLain, another recent addition.

According to the Senators, Flood signed the contract in New York Tuesday night after Kuhn cleared the way by approving a trade with Philadelphia that sent utility outfielder Greg Goossen and minor leaguers Gene Martin and Jeff Terpko to Philadelphia.

The Phillies, who originally acquired Flood from St. Louis in the Richie Allen trade, had given the Senators permission to negotiate with Flood with the proviso a trade would be concluded in compensation if Washington could get him to sign.

The schedule for Flood calls for him to get his belongings together in Copenhagen, Denmark, where he has personal business, then report to the Senators' team in the Florida Winter Instructional League at St. Petersburg.

Jones Boys Pace Pros

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was another perfect night for the Utah Stars and the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association, something the Cougars could do without.

The Stars rolled up their eighth victory this season without a loss by staving off the Indiana Pacers 102-99 at Indianapolis, Ind., in a battle of Western Division contenders.

But on the other end of the court, the Cougars were running their record to 0-9 by collapsing before the Kentucky Colonels 127-105 at Louisville, Ky.

In the only other game, the Memphis Pros held off the Floridians 112-106 at Memphis, Tenn.

In the National Basketball Association, Phoenix clobbered Cincinnati 133-115, Boston nipped Philadelphia 115-113, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 110-108, Seattle mauled Buffalo 126-101, Detroit moved past Atlanta 117105, San Francisco whipped Baltimore 111-100 and New York downed San Diego 109-100.

The Stars, expected to battle the Pacers and Denver for the West crown, took an early lead, but Indiana pulled even at 83 with seven minutes left. However, Don Freeman, who scored 24 points, put the Stars ahead to stay with a basket moments later.

Freddie Lewis had 28 points for the Pacers, now 7-4 after winning the East and the ABA title last season and then switching divisions.

The hapless Cougars fell behind midway through the first period and never caught up, although Kentucky played most of the contest with high-scoring center Dan Issel on the bench in foul trouble. Louie Dampier led the Colonels with 20 points while Joe Caldwell had 22 for the Cougars.

Memphis jumped to a 61-41 lead, then 76-53, only to have Mack Calvin, the ABA's leading scorer, and Warren Davis pull the Floridians within 106-102. But Steve Jones hit two baskets and Jimmy Jones one to pull the Pros ahead 112-102.

Alcindor Scores 53

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Alcindor seems to have shifted into high gear as the Milwaukee Bucks begin to pick up speed in their chase after Detroit, but the Pistons don't seem to be slowing down.

The Pistons, the surprise club of the National Basketball Association, beat the Atlanta Hawks in Atlanta 117-105 Wednesday night for their 11th victory in 12 starts this season.

The Pistons, picked to finish far behind the Bucks in the Midwest Division, thus held onto their lead, although Alcindor poured in 53 points to lead the Bucks past the bedraggled Cleveland Cavaliers 110-108 in Cleveland.

The Cavaliers are now 0-12, three defeats shy of the NBA record for consecutive losses at the start of a season and six short of the record for any time.

In other games, Seattle added to the woes of Buffalo, another expansion team, beating the host Braves 126-101; Boston nipped Philadelphia 115-113; visiting Phoenix outshot Cincinnati 133-115 and on the West Coast, New York trimmed San Diego 109-100 and San Francisco turned back Baltimore 111-100.

The hero for Detroit this time was reserve guard Howard Komives, who hit three baskets in a row at the start of the fourth period to turn an 83-81 lead into an eight-point spread, leaving the Hawks behind to stay.

Dave Bing led Detroit with 25 points, and Lou Hudson had 21 for Atlanta, the Central Division favorite now saddled with a 2-6 record.

Cleveland took a 62-51 lead at halftime despite Alcindor's 35 points. However, the Bucks, now 6-1, pulled ahead 101-96 with four minutes left. The Cavaliers got within 106-104 and then 110-108, but John Johnson missed a final shot and Alcindor grabbed the rebound with 11 seconds to go.

Seattle shot into a 23-5 lead and Buffalo never got closer than 13 again as the Braves lost their seventh straight for a 1-8 mark. Tom Merschery had 22 points for the SuperSonics and Don May 23 for Buffalo.

John Havlicek, who totaled 37 points, and rookie Dave Cowens scored seven straight points in the final minute, 34 seconds to lift Boston from a one point deficit to its third straight victory.

Clem Haskins, Dick Van Arsdale and Connie Hawkins each scored 25 points as Phoenix took a 15-point lead in the first quarter and sailed in.

Walt Frazier powered New York's 11th victory in 13 games at the expense of San Diego with 25 points, 16 in the first half. Substitute Mike Riordan contributed 23 points for the Knicks, who built a 56-46 halftime lead. Stu Lantz topped the Rockets with 28.

San Francisco's triumph over Baltimore broke a three-game losing streak as Jeff Mullins led the way with 35 points for the Warriors. Earl Monroe of the Bullets captured game scoring honors with 30.

Breathless Situation

BRANSON — For the last several years, the fabulous trout fishing in Lake Taneycomo has had fishermen gasping. Now, water pollution has the trout doingthe same.

Fish, just as humans, need oxygen to stay alive. Because of a continuing flush of low-oxygen water from Table Rock Lake, there is barely enough oxygen in the entire 21-mile length of Taneycomo to keep the famed trophy trout alive.

The condition apparently started about the first week in October when fishing success suddenly ceased and may continue until December when the annual "turnover" of Lake Table Rock mixes enough oxygen to revive Taneycomo.

The situation came to light when oxygen tests by the Department of Conservation showed readings below three parts per million of oxygen in Lake Taneycomo.

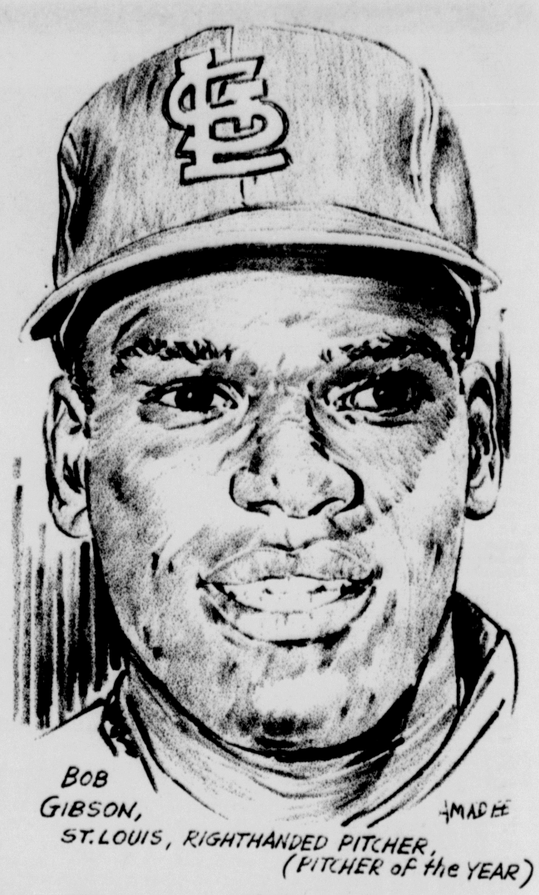
The Department has launched an intensive investigation into the cause of the drastic oxygen loss. It immediately requested the Corps of Engineers, which operates Table Rock Dam, to pump water through no more than two of the four generators which take water through the bottom of the dam, and mix in an amount of water equivalent to the flow through the other two generators by letting oxygenrich surface water over the top of the dam.

The Corps did pump water over the top for one night, Oct. 27-28, but then shut down and resumed pumping low oxygen water the next morning.

Lake Taneycomo runs for 21 miles below Table Rock Dam and water levels fluctuate considerably, depending on how many of the four generators at the dam are running.

Always before, oxygen tests of Taneycomo showed saturation of about 12 parts per million. Virtually all fish life is threatened any time readings fall below four parts per million. In the past year, two state record fish -- rainbow trout and carp -- have been caught from Lake Taneycomo. Last year, one of the nation's largest walleyes (16 pounds, eight ounces) was caught in the lake.

A stopgap solution of sorts could come when Table Rock Lake "turns over" in December. Lakes, such as Table Rock "turn over" or exchange layers of cold warm water twice each year (spring and fall) at which time oxygen is thoroughly mixed in the lake.



A-State Pads Grid Poll Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas State, after boosting its record to 7-0 with a 69-7 rout over Lamar Tech last Saturday, increased its first place lead over Montana this week in The Associated Press College Division Football Poll.

With five first-place votes, one more than last week, Arkansas State compiled 242 points in the balloting by sports writers and sportscasters throughout the country while Montana had two top votes and 199 points.

Arkansas State led only 257251 the previous week when Montana also had four firstplace votes. Montana, 8-0, squeaked past Portland 31-25 last Saturday.

Montana also stood in danger of drooping as North Dakota State, 7-0-1, took third place, switching places with Tampa on the strength of a 35-0 victory over South Dakota State. North Dakota totaled 194 points; Tampa, with one top vote after a 1410 victory over Louisiana Tech for a 7-0 mark, had 181.

Western Kentucky, No. 5, switched places with Tennessee State, No. 6, while Southwest Louisiana made the biggest jump from ninth to seventh after a 9-7 victory over Northeast Louisiana.

Delaware dropped one uotch to eighth; Wofford, No. 9, moved up one place, and Southern Illinois dropped two places to 10th despite mauling Bradley 69-3.

Eastern Kentucky made the biggest jump in the Top Twenty, from 19th to 14, while Boise State dropped from 15th to a tie for 19th.

The only new team is Jacksonville, Ala., No. 18, while Springfield, Mass., which held that slot, fell from the rankings.

Barber, Gibson Top Area Scoring

The Southeast Missouri prep grid scoring race shapes up between members of the southern division as the season moves into its ninth week Friday.

Charlie Barber, Malden's hard-charging back, has accumulated 16 touchdowns and 16 extra points for 112 points in eight games while Dexter's Terry Gibson has totaled 13 TD's and six extra points for 84.

Barber and Gibson will clash in the season final at Malden when Dexter calls in a battle for the Southern Division title, that could also take on the battle for the district scoring championship as Gibson will likely move in on Barber, who's team is idle this week, in a game with Kennett tomorrow evening.

East Prairie's Henry Franklin is a distant third in the race, with 54 points on nine TD's while the Northern Division's lead is held by Poplar Bluff's J. B. Hayes with 36 points ad the Bootheel is headed by a tie between Amick and Dodson of Illmo-Scott City.

Carl Cross, Cape Central's extra point specialest, tops the district's kickers with 16 extra points and four field goals. Caruthersville's Mike McKaskle has 15 extra points and one field goal while Mike Girvin of Portageville has 13 extra points and four field goals.

The Northern Division has only three players scoring over 30 points this season while the Southern has 14 players past that mark, including seven with 40 or better, one with 50 or better, one with 80 or better and one over 100.

Ali-Bonavena Fight Expected

NEW YORK (AP) - There's big doings in boxing today.

Madison Square Garden is hosting a press conference, with all the fixings, at which formal announcement is expected to be made that Muhammad Ali and Oscar Bonavena will meet in a 15-round heavyweight bout at the Garden on Monday night, Dec. 7.

Harry Markson, director of boxing at the Garden, did not specify the principals or the date in announcing the press conference.

The Associated Press learned that the occasion was to be the setting for the formal signing for the fight by Ali also known as Cassius Clay, and by the South American socker from Buenos Aires.

Bonavena was scheduled to leave Buenos Aires Wednesday, but his departure was delayed until today because his mother-in-law underwent an operation.

Thus Bonavena is not expected to be at the press conference which Markson said would go on as scheduled.

"Ali will be there and Bonevna's manager," Markson said, pointing out that under New York rules a manager can sign a contract for his fighter.

Markson, a veteran in the sport, said "I never said the fight would be on Dec. 7." He added: "I have learned not to announce anything until the contract are signed."

"I'm going to beat Clay," Bonavena said in Buenos Aires Wednesday night. "I'm not going to repeat Quarry's mistakes. I intend to attack and hit hard. Clay had better take care to avoid my punches if he doesn't want to be beaten by a knockout."

He referred to Clay's three round TKO over Jerry Quarry in Atlanta on Oct. 26 in the first bout for the former heavy champion in 3½ years.

The Bonavena fight would be Ali's second on the road he hopes will lead to a title bout with Joe Frazier, the current heavy king of the world.

Irish Are The Best!

CHICAGO (AP) — Which is the better team — Notre Dame or Ohio State or possibly Michigan?

The Ohio State-Michigan argument will be resolved Nov. 21 when the two teams meet. But what about second-ranked Notre Dame and third-ranked Ohio State?

They don't play, but a couple of coaches who took their lumps from both teams shed some light on the matter.

Northwestern's Alex Agase, who opened the season by losing to Notre Dame 35-14 and last week lost to Ohio State 2410, flatly says, "On the days we played them, Notre Dame was the better team and Joe Theismann was a more effective q7arterback than Rex Kern."

Agase's thinking apparently has been reflected in The Associated Press poll which has seen Om8o State slip from No. 1 to No. 3 behind Texas and Notre Dame 8n two weeks despite the fact the Buckeyes have remained undefeated. 6D7ffy Daugherty of Michigan State apparently also leans towards Notre Dame although his Spartans lost to both powers.

Northwestern's Alex Agase, who opened the season by losing to Notre Dame 35-14 and last week lost to Ohio State 2410, flatly says, "On the days we played them, Notre Dame was the better team and Joe Theismann was a more effective

N. Pemiscot Is Favorite

WARDELL---North Peniscot was placed in the favorite role by the eight coaches who have entered teams in the annual North Pemiscot invitational basketball tournament, which begins Nov. 16 at the Ross high school gym.

Holcomb, Caruthersville and Risco were rated in that order behind the host in the tournament which will feature a losers bracket.

Action gets underway on the 16th as North Pemiscot goes against Clarkton at 6:30p.m. and Risco meets Naylor at 8p.m. First round action ends Tuesday as Holcomb collides with Campbell at 6:30p.m. and Caruthersville faces Gideon at 8p.m. Winners move toward the title while the losers go into the losers bracket.

Tourney Play Resumes at Bell City

BELL CITY---Tournament action resumes here tonight, with Advance and Bell City squaring off at 7 p.m. in the first of two semi-final round games. Oran and Puxico tangle in the 8:30 p.m. game.

quarterback than Rex Kern."

Agase's thinking apparently has been reflected in The Associated Press poll which has seen Ohio State slip from No. 1 to No. 3 behind Texas and Notre Dame in two weeks despite the fact the Buckeyes have remained undefeated.

Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State apparently also leans towards Notre Dame although his Spartans lost to both powers by identical 29-0 scores.

"Ohio State is more explosive on offense," Daugherty told the Chicago football writers via a telephone hookup Tuesday. "Notre Dame is stronger defensively, has more consistent quarterbacking in combining the running and passing games."

Daugherty's Spartans also lost to fifth-ranked Michigan, 34-20, and he said of the Wolverines:

"Michigan defensively is equal to or better than both teams and its quarterback, Don Moorhead, is great on third down plays against Wisconsin and he did the same thing against us.

"A quarterback of this stature inspires a team," added Daugherty. "And he also gets you on the scoreboard."

Ara Parseghian, who makes no bones about the fact that Notre Dame's main objective is to win the national championship and to do so, a team has to finish No. 1, had an explanation for Ohio State's slide from first to third.

"Pollsters are influenced by the method of winning," said Ara. "Polls at best are guesswork which distinguish teams which are winning.

"There is small, if any, difference between teams ranked No. 1 or No. 2 or even No. 9 or No. 10 for that matter."

Parseghian agreed that the possibility is strong for a rematch of top-ranked Texas and Notre Dame in a postseason clash.

"So many things can happen," cautioned Parseghian. "It is conceivable the two teams could again meet in the Cotton Bowl. It is conceivable Notre Dame might go to another bowl and it is conceivable that Notre Dame will not go to any bowl."

Glance At Poetry

By Charles Francis Brady

Today's column contains an interview with a contributor to this column, the second time I've conducted something like this.

Charlotte Rae Brady, 23, Monett, Mo., is my guest. She is also my sister.

Miss Brady is a very energetic person, very much caught up in today's world, and very much concerned with American society with all its trials and tribulations.

She is a very sensitive person with definite religious beliefs who cares about her fellow man. Although strongly a part of America and being a young person in an explosive epoch of time, she strangely blends a part of the past in her life.

She is very much a supporter of America and all it stands for -- the democratic government system, law and order, freedom of all kinds, and the stars and stripes. I guess you could call her super patriotic for whatever connotation that word has applied to it now when it seems every belief has some sort of name tag or double standard. I just call her an American. We need more people like her.

Now to the interview:

Ed. - When did you first get interested in poetry as near as you can remember?

C.R.B. - During my senior high school English class when we were studying Canterbury Tales by Chaucer.

Ed. - Why do you write poetry? By that, I mean, what motivates you to write?

C.R.B. - My own inner feelings.

Ed. - Do you write any specific type of poetry? Why or why not?

C.R.B. - No. Because I write my poetry about the way I feel when I'm writing.

Ed.- What is your favorite theme in writing a poem?

C.R.B. - Life.

Ed. - Is there any particular style of poetry that you like to write best, such as a sonnet, free verse, blank verse, etc.?

C.R.B. - Lyric poetry.

Ed.- Do you need to be in a certain mood to write?

C.R.B. - Yes, usually depressed to write my best poetry.

Ed.- What is your most common poetic mood?

C.R.B.- Lonely.

Ed.- What is your favorite type of poem to read and your less favorite to read and why?

C.R.B. - My favorite type to read is humorous. My less favorite is free verse by contemporary poets. Humorous because I like to notice the originality of poets adapting poetic styles to humor. Free verse is my less favorite because free verse today seems to pertain to subjects that don't interest me.

Ed. - Do you have a favorite poem or poet and, if so, what and whom?

C.R.B. - Yes, "The Epitaph" by Dorothy Parker, is my favorite poem. My favorite poet is William Blake.

Ed.- There is much talk these days about poetry in popular music. Do you think there is any relation?

C.R.B.- Yes, I do. The free verse that's in popular music is the best poetry there is. An example is "Summer Rain" by Johnny Rivers.

Ed. - What is your favorite poet- songwriter?

C.R.B. - Neil Diamond.

Ed. - Do you think there can be poetic expression in music without the words?

C.R.B. - Yes.

Ed.- Can you cite an example?

C.R.B. - "Love is Blue" by Paul Mauriet. Music expresses personal feelings the same as poetry.

Ed. - Have you had any of your poetry published?

C.R.B. - In newspapers, yes.

Ed. — Do you plan to sell some of your poetic works?

C.R.B. - No.

Ed. - Are you interested in any other type of writing?

C.R.B. - Yes, I'm interested in composing music.

Ed.- What are your future plans concerning poetry, writing, and music?

C.R.B. - Probably I'll use my free time for those interests.

AND THE POET...

The web of words is spun within her mind
And empty pages begin to live once more.
With each new song she shows a sign
Of need inside her private door--
And the poet spins her lore.

Silent now, she takes her rest
But her mind is not at peace.
The cobwebs have met a new test
Whose torture will not cease.
And the poet must find release.

The world has offered her new life
But she must conform and thus would lose
Her free soul amid the strife.
There is no compromise or truce--
And the poet has to choose.

Everywhere there are hands to touch--
She accepts a solitary embrace
And the pain involved is very much
Like the end of her own life's race
And the poet sees a new face.

Reaching out she removes the mask
And finds peace-- the flying dove.
It is finished-- complete is her task.
Two Hearts embrace in the darkness above
And the poet meets her love.

Inflation Alters Light On Savings

NEW YORK (AP) — It is an honored American tradition to save one's pennies until they accumulate to one dollar and then put the dollar into a savings account.

Everybody has been taught the story. The dollars grow into hundreds and then thousands. It may take many years, but through the magic of compound interest, those pennies eventually become a fortune.

The savings tradition still exists in frugal America, which in recent months has been putting about 7.5 per cent of take-home pay into savings of one sort or another, an extraordinarily high rate.

Savings banks vigorously promote the concept of small savings being the road to security. Who in the past few months hasn't seen a chart showing how money invested in certificates of deposit can double in less than 15 years?

But there is a perceptible change now in the old tradition. Inroads have been made, perhaps permanently. Savers have become more sophisticated, a bit more cynical and much more impatient.

Rising inflation and taxes have been major factors behind the change. Social Security has lessened fears of insolvency in old age. And there has been a quite perceptible broadening of the attitude that money should be used now rather than at some later date.

Analyzing the old tradition, a good many savers have concluded that the process of turning pennies into dollars may have made some enduring fortunes, but for the heirs rather than for the savers.

And most Americans suspect, if they don't know for sure, that while the bank may tell them their money will double in a specified number of years, the truth is it may not grow at all or may even decrease if inflation isn't contained.

One thousand dollars placed in a commercial bank in 1959 was worth, in real dollars,only $1,124 in 1969, which is hardly the road to wealth. An equivalent in U.S. Savings Bonds gained only $19.

Among the most frugal of the penny savers have been those with whole life insurance policies which they expected to provide cash value in their retirement years. But millions have found the payoff shriveled by inflation.

At the same time, none but the unsophisticated could fail to understand the forces at work in equity markets.

In the same 10-year period in which $1,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds earned only $19, the same amount in industrial stocks grew to more than $1,700. And even larger increases were common in real estate investments.

This realization is forcing changes in financial institutions.

Secret Service Exhibits Dents In Nixon Car

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) -- The Secret Service has exhibited dents in President Nixon's limousine as proof that it was the target of a barrage by anti-war demonstrators during his appearance in San Jose Calif.

Lilburn E. Boggs, assistant director of the Secret Service for protective forces, said Tuesday the visible damage "could only have been caused by rocks or other hard objects."

Arthur Godfrey, deputy special agent in charge of presidential protection, said that at a guess the vehicle was hit 10 times while running a gauntlet of missile-throwing dissidents.

Following statements that reports of the violence were exaggerated, the Secret Service took a group of newsmen to the Western White House and asked them to inspect the vehicle which came under attack on Thursday night following a speech by the President.

The inspection showed the limousine was marred or dented in several places.

San Jose Police Chief Ray Blackmore had said Monday the President never was in danger, only a few rocks were thrown and reports of the violence had been exaggerated.

Elaborating Tuesday, Blackmore said, "I was in the lead car and it wasn't hit. The President was in the second car right behind me and I have verified that it was hit several times and had to be repaired."

White House Press Secretary Ronal L. Ziegler issued a statement in which he said, "published and broadcast reports of the incident were in no way exaggerated.

"It was a serious and unfortunate incident that I personally hope never would occur again around the President of the United States and those accompanying him."

Nixon had appeared in San Jose for a speech in behalf of Sen. George Murphy, R—Calif., running for re-election.

Hearnes Urged To Probe K.C. Police Dept.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was asked Friday for an investigation of the Kansas City Police Department. The request was in an open letter sent by the executive committee of the Police Officers Association and said "The low morale of rank and file members brought about by loss of confidence in the leadership of Chief Clarence M. Kelley is reaching a critical point."

The letter added "We feel that Chief Kelley has wasted men and money on unproductive projects and is more interested in his public image than solving our department problems.

"We urgently request that you send a representative or appoint a committee to conduct an investigation of these conditions."

The letter was signed by the executive committee.

Total Enrolled at Four MU Campuses Reaches 46,966

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Total enrollment at the four campuses of the University of Missouri has reached a record high of 46,966.

School officials announced the figure shows an increase over a year ago of 524.

This fall's enrollment by campus include:

Columbia 21,680, an increase of 599 over a year ago.

St. Louis 9,681, up 83.

Kansas City 9,515, down 159.

Rolla 6,089, a gain of one.

The figures show 30,201 male students and 16,765 female.

Word's Origin

The word "gimmick" originated in carnival slang to describe a device to control the speed of a spinning "wheel of fortune." By use of the gimmick — which was always hidden—the operator or grifter could control the pay-off, if any.

Briton Says Soviets Testing Satellite to Erase U.S. Vehicles

LONDON (AP)--A British Scientist says the Soviet Union has been testing satellites designed to destroy U.S. military satellites. Kenneth Gatland, vice president of the Britian Interplanetary Society, said in an interview Monday that this was the mission of Cosmos 373, 374 and 375, launched in the past two weeks.

He said Cosmos 373 was launched into an orbit 300 to 350 miles above the earth and that Cosmos 374 was put into a higher orbit but then descended into 373's orbit and blew up. He said six large fragments from it have been identified.

Gatland said Cosmos 375 launched Oct. 30 was another test of the same system.

Space scientists say that if U.S. military reconnaissance and navigation satellites were destroyed in orbit, America's ability to retaliate to a nuclear attack would be made negligible. A U.S. official and a British space scientist, Geoffrey Perry, said in February that the Soviet Union had successfully tested a satellite that could destroy other spacecraft.

Oddball Shirley MacLaine Publishes Autobiography

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As is its custom, Hollywood was quick to categorize Shirley MacLaine when she came to films. She was a kook, a pixy, an oddball with a marriage that made no sense to anyone but her and Steve Parker.

Miss MacLaine has now written an autobiography, "Don't Fall Off the Mountain"—her husband's suggestion when she left for the Himalayas. The book will probably not change the Hollywood assessment of her. But less prejudiced readers will find her a warm, compassionate, perceptive woman.

Also a good writer, if we can believe her publisher's claim that nobody ghosted the 270 pages for her.

"Don't Fall Off the Mountain" is actually two books of equal length. The first details her childhood, her rise to stardom and the hell that ensued.

The second half concerns her travels: "My life expanded and opened up on all levels when I began to travel," she writes. "I've always felt that I would never develop into a really fine actress because I cared more about life beyond the camera than the life in front of it."

Her wanderings took her into black life in the Deep South, to a Paris brothel to research "Irma La Douce," to village existence among the Masai in Africa, and to the Hiltonesque—James, not Conrad—Bhutan on the roof of the world.

Her accounts of these adventures demonstrate that the girl has guts, as well as a keen, observing eye.

The author's tone is generally kind, but there are some heavies in her book. One is the late columnist Mike Connolly, whom she slapped—her lawyer had warned her that a closed fist would be assault.

Other victims of Miss MacLaine's pen are her father and producer Hal Wallis.

Her father, Ira O. Beaty, is pictured as an uptight Southerner who did everything possible to humiliate her ambitions to become a performer. In later years he declined to allow Shirley to bring Sidney Poitier to dinner—"It's not that I wouldn't be delighted; it's the neighbors ... I have to live here when dinner is over. You don't."

Producer Wallis brought the actress to Hollywood after seeing her on Broadway in "The Pajama Game"—she was the understudy for Carol Haney, who had broken a leg. She complains about her servitude to Wallis—nine pictures at an average of $15,800 each. Shortly after she bought her freedom from him, she was making $8 00,000 per film.

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

WE WASTE OUR TRASH

As a nation that produces an estimated 720 billion pounds of household waste alone every year, we are in danger of being buried under our own trash.

The problem goes beyond just the question -- difficult though it is - of where to put everything we discard, from bread wrappers to abandoned automobiles. It also involves the need to conserve some dwindling natural resources.

Though it may sound silly, we waste our trash. It has become evident in recent years that much of what we throw away and either burn or bury could be "recycled," or turned back into reusable materials.

Not only that, but it has become equally evident that we can no longer keep exploiting our natural resources on the false assumption that they are limitless - they are not -- especially when other economical ways to obtain materials could be developed.

USE TECHNOLOGY

Recognizing this, Congress enacted into law, and the President signed last week, the Resource Recovery Act of 1970, a bill that will significantly alter the way this nation handles its trash.

The emphasis will be on developing ways to extract everything usable from trash, as well as on finding new ways to dispose of the non- reusable residue.

For centuries trash disposal was simple: Burn it. But in recent years, because of the foul odors and the air pollution caused by open burning, both big cities and less urban areas have turned in large part to landfills.

But even these dumping sites are fast disappearing, and the oceans have already become partly contaminated from dumping.

And, besides, this is strictly a disposal, not a recovery, method.

RECYCLING

The Resource Recovery Act will provide incentives, to American science and technology backed by federal money for research and for innovative projects, to develop not only environmentally safe ways of disposing of unreclaimable trash, but also ways of reclaiming what could be used again but is now lost.

In Japan, for instance, some kinds of solid wastes are compacted and used as building blocks. In Sundeburg, Sweden, trash from a 250- unit apartment complex is put into a pipe and swept along in an air stream 1.7 miles to an incinerator which is part of a heating system for the apartment complex. These are the kinds of things we can and will be doing in this country.

Special emphasis will be given to research on the recovery and refuse of agricultural crop wastes, which amount to an estimated 550 million tons annually, with the purpose of improving the farm economy through the resultant savings.

Canalou News

CANALOU — Mrs. John Chaney was chairman of the annual Unicef party which was held in the Canalou School gym Saturday evening. This event is sponsored each year by the 4-H club with refreshments being supplied by the Women's Club. The program was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. Terzah Perry

Mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Quinton Malloy

Parade of Costumes (judges, Sister Perry, Floy Gruen and Marguerite Harrison)

Pledge to Flag, Treasa Malloy

Pledge to 4-H Flag, Mary Chaney

HIGH-RISE AND FALL in Buenos Aires. This apartment house complex in the Argentine capital's fashionable Belgrano district has been declared unsafe for occupancy. Police stand guard against return of evacuated tenants. In the last few months, at least two of Buenos Aires' modern skyscrapers have crumbled, killing 35 persons. Many other new buildings have been torn down after being condemned by the government. Nobody has yet determined or given an official explanation for the rash of collapsed buildings.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Shortening May Remove Lipstick, Grease Stains

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR OLLY—Coleen could probably get the pink lipstick off her white spread by doing as we do at our motel. Spread vegetable shortening on the stain and rub, rinse it off well, then wash the bedspread in the usual way. Bleach in the wash water also may help if the spread can take bleach. This method can often be used for other grease stains, too. —SUSAN

DEAR POLLY—In a home economics experiment, I found that smearing petroleum jelly on lipstick stains and then scrubbing with an old toothbrush takes it out. This should be repeated two or three times to make sure every trace is out and then wash the article as usual.—SONYA

DEAR GIRLS—Both the readers and I were at a disadvantage in answering the question as Coleen did not say what material was used for making her bedspread. Both the above were tested on white cotton, which naturally is washable. Specific information is needed for really specific answers.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My good wool carpet needs its first cleaning. I would like to get down on my hands and knees and do this myself but do not want to get it too wet because of the waffle-design rubber pad underneath. I know that if this pad got too wet it would never dry out under the carpet. If someone has solved this same problem, I would like to know what sort of soap they used and how they went about scrubbing the carpet.—MRS. P. K.

DEAR POLLY—When my family goes to a carnival, fair or festival, I buy a helium-filled balloon for each child and adult in the group. There is always a balloon man selling them. I tie the end of each balloon string to a suit strap, child's bracelet, purse handle, etc. If one person strays away from our group, he can be located in the crowd because of the colorful balloon floating at the end of the long string several feet above his head. This technique saves a mother from the panic of searching for a lost child and helps a frightened child locate his parents. Simple though it is, this has been the most useful of my collection of homemaker hints.—MRS. B. W.

Pilot Wounded by Hijacker Enjoys Dual Life as Farmer

PERRY, Kan. (AP)—Dale C. Hupe is a Kansan with his head in the clouds and his feet on the ground.

He is in the clouds when he is flying—he has logged about 23,000 hours in the air and has been a Trans-World Airlines pilot 23 years.

The rest of the time he is a man of the soil, operating a 1,000-acre farm near Perry in northeastern Kansas. At the moment he is processing about 1,000 animals in his pig feeding operation.

The contrast between Hupe's dual careers was never more clear than when his TWA 727 with 51 passengers aboard was hijacked last June 4 en route from Phoenix, Ariz., to Washington, D. C. Hupe, 51, was shot in the stomach trying to disarm the hijacker.

Now fully recovered and back flying, Hupe reflected on the closest call in his career and said he has been unable to come up with a complete answer to hijackings.

Such measures as armed guards on planes, electronic devices to detect weapons and selective searches of baggage can reduce the number of hijackings, he said, but they can't stop them completely.

Hupe said he can think of nothing he would have done differently during the hijacking experience.

Nothing?

"Well, maybe move a little faster when I went for the gun," he said.

Hupe's tense, eight-hour ordeal started while his plane was still over Arizona. A stewardess came to the pilot's cabin and told Hupe a man wanted to see him.

"He has a gun," she said.

The man showed a revolver—Hupe could see the bullets in the chamber--and said he wanted some messages sent. Hupe agreed, although he hadn't had time to decipher what was written on the piece of paper handed him.

The message was to federal officials. It demanded $100 million ransom for the plane, its passengers and crew.

"I knew from the time I heard the demand for money that we were dealing with an irrational man," Hupe recalled. "We could only try to humor and pacify him."

A compact man of medium height, Hupe said there was one moment he might have been able to get close enough to disarm the hijacker. He didn't try because "you have to think of your passengers."

He added, however, he never had any doubt about the outcome.

"I always knew we were going to come out on top."

When the plane landed at Dulles International Airport in Washington, a bag containing more than $100,000 was taken aboard the jet.

It was the first time a ransom was paid a skyjacker.

But it was not the end. When the man saw some dollar bills in the bag he said he had been cheated and ordered Hupe to "put the plane in the air" without letting the passengers off.

As the plane circled over the Eastern Seaboard the crew talked further with the man. Finally, another demand was relayed to Washington, This time the hijacker wanted 100 mail sacks filled with $100 bills.

After the jet landed at Dulles the second time, FBI agents shot out its tires and a fire truck was moved in to block its path.

"Then I heard shots and I tried to get behind the man and get the gun," Hupe recalled, "but he turned and it went off in my stomach."

In the ensuing scuffle, the man identified as Arthur G. Barkley of Phoenix was subdued. Charges still are pending against Barkley.

Hupe refused to undergo surgery until he telephoned home.

"I wanted them to know I was okay.

Hupe and his wife, Doris, have two children, Dennis, 19, and De Ann, 11.

Hupe still is very much the Belvue, Kan., native who moved 50 miles to Perry to work the land.

Hupe, who was released from the hospital June 18, said he has no hobbies; the farm claims all his time not spent flying. And that's the way the holder of a BS degree in agriculture from Kansas State University wants it.

He said he treasures the life of a small town of 500 after the pressures of piloting a commercial jet in crowded airways and of the bustle of big city airports.

Asked once about being both a farmer and a flyer, Hupe replied:

"When I get disgusted with farming I can go fly. And when I get tired of flying I can go to the farm."

UN Sponsors Auto Race to Promote Road

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — The United Nations is going in for big- time auto racing. Fantastic as that may seem, the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East is sponsoring one of the toughest auto rallies on the international circuit, the Teheran-Dacca race. Set for Saturday through Nove. 15, the Second Asian Highway Motor Rally will serve to publicize completion of the Asian highway project.

It took more than 10 years and $2 billion to complete the 37,300 mile network, which spans the whole Asian continent. In connecting 14 countries, the highway crosses such rugged terrain as the Luk Desert of Iran, the Hezarajat Mountains of Afghanistan and the water-locked regions of Bengal. In April 1969 a trial rally was held from Vientiane in Laos to Singapore. However, this first race was something of a joke, with trucks and chauffeured limousines taking part alongside professional teams.

The 1970 rally is not for the amateur: It covers more than 4,150 miles of often- grueling territory. Although the rally's regulations state that its purpose is to dramatize "the fact that the Asian Highway is a reality, ready to serve the economics of the countries through which it runs," to most spectators and competitors it is a nine- day test of stamina and endurance. For the hardy, the rally is merely part of the larger London - to - Tokyo race which takes drivers from England to Calcutta, on to Tokyo by boat, and finally to Osaka. However, ECAFE is only underwriting the $7,500 in prises for the Teheran - to-Dacca run. Considering the United Nations' finances, it can't afford much more than that.

SHEILA by Gunard Solberg (Avon N338/95cents/224pp.)

A Literary Guild Selection and soon to be an important motion picture, SHEILA is Gunard Solberg's novel about two young people in love and each seeking his identity.

Shelia is Black, but not Black enough. She is an honor student who would rather push grass than pull A's...a dynamite child-woman who is afraid of really getting involved with anything or anyone--and terrified of being left alone. A little girl lost, Shelia is struggling to come to terms with her middle class backbround and her longing for status as a member of her race who is "cool" and "hip."

Wayne, a troubled young white student, yearns for Sheila's love and fights against his own guilt and the warning voices out of his white past as he reaches out to her. United in their battle against the confining suburban world of parents, teachers and things, Wayne and Shelia embark on an odyssey of mutual exploration, seeking their own particular freedom----

Dear Sir,

As President of the Gatooma Chamber of Commerce I was delighted to receive your message of goodwill and friendship.

This was presented to me by Pastors SINGLETON, QUILLEN and HACKNEY.

On behalf of the Gatooma Chamber it is with very much pleasure that I convey through your emissaries the sincerest greeting of all people in this district.

For your interest Gatooma is the center of a large cotton growing area and, within the precincts of the town we have a well equipped and modern ginning plant. This is coupled with textile manufacturing in its various divergent forms.

We are also the centre of intensive cattle ranching and allied industries.

It is fortunate that we also have closely to us rich mineral deposits which support a large mining complex.

Once again, my sincerest greetings to the people of your town.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,

FAST FOOD

NEW YORK (AP) Americans will spend about $124 billion for food and beverages this year, and meals at "franchised fast food outlets" will account for between $5 and $6 billion of the total, according to Arthur D. Little, Inc., a research, engineering and management consulting firm. "Drive-in" restauranis with a limited menu and little service have grown from about a half-billion dollars in sales 10 years ago, and are expected to reach $11 or $12 billion in the next five years.

The cure for cancer.
If you put up the money, we'll put up the brains.

The people and the tools it will take to find the final cure for cancer are going to cost a lot of money. Hunting the cause of cancer...and ways of preventing it ...are expensive. As research goes forward and new leads open up, costs snowball. And today's research funds, like all budgets, buy less than they did a few years ago.

There are no bargains in cancer research.

Nerves Bother Fifth of Adults

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service has reported evidence suggesting nearly one in five American adults has experienced a nervous breakdown or felt one coming on.

In disclosing some findings it termed surprising, the agency reported nearly 60 per cent of the adult population is fidgety and tense at times to the point of being bothered.

The agency questioned 6,672 adults representing the nation's 111-million population of civilian, noninstitutional persons between 18 and 79. Eighty-eight per cent were white; 10 per cent black.

Persons interviewed were questioned not only on their history of actual, or threatened, nervous breakdowns, but also on whether they had ever been bothered by:

Nervousness, psychological inertia, insomnia, trembling hands, nightmares, perspiring hands, fainting or blackouts, headache, dizziness or heart palpitations.

In one of its major findings, the report declared:

"The over-all per cent reporting having had a nervous breakdown was 4.9 per cent and an additional 12.8 per cent reported having felt an impending nervous breakdown ... without its actual occurrence ... for a combined rate of 17.7 per cent —or almost one out of five with an estimated 20 million adults having experienced such severe psychological distress."

The survey found proportionately more women than men reported nervous breakdowns. Black women had a significantly higher rate than white women.

Women reported breakdown threats almost twice as frequently as did men, and had significantly higher rates for the 12 distress symptoms.

But the report found only two symptoms with significant differences by race for the same sex for both men and women.

"These were nervousness, with white men and women having a rate more than 15 per cent higher than Negroes; and dizziness, wherein Negro men and women had slightly higher rates than whites ..."

The survey found more symptoms of distress among less-educated and lower-income groups. On a geographic basis, Northeastern adults had lower rates, while Southerners had higher rates than average.

Among unexpected findings, the Public Health Service reported lower rates of breakdown among persons who had never married—especially white women—and among working men and women compared with retired men and women housekeepers, respectively.

Farmers and service workers tended to experience more nervous symptoms than did professional, clerical and operating workers.

Jarvis Thankful For Scout Support

In the tradition of Thanksgiving, appreciation was extended this week to those who support Scouting in this area by Earl Jarvis, president of the Southeast Missouri Council, Boy Scouts of America.

"We are most thankful to the thousands of men and women in Southeast Missouri who make it possible for boys to have the advantages of Scouting," he said.

"More than 200 chartered institutions sponsor Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops, and Explorer Posts so that over 7,000 boys may be Scouts in their own neighborhoods.

"At this significant time of year, we pause to give grateful thanks to so many people who support Scouting with their time and money."

He also expressed "heartfelt appreciation to the 271 leaders of Scout units who have dedicated themselves to deeply involve boys in a quality Scouting program.

"We say that 'America's Mainpower Begins with BOYPOWER,' but it is only through the devoted attention of parents, Scouting's volunteers, and those who support the Southeast Missouri Council financially that we can do our share to help boys be mentally and physically fit and to become men of character trained for citizenship."

The Southeast Missouri Council is a member agency of Cape Giradeau, Jackson, New Madrid, Butler County, Kennett, Senath, Cardwell, Malden, Charleston, and Dexter United Funds.

Future of Agnew Still Speculative

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political future of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew remains a question mark following what President Nixon has described as a Republican victory in Senate and House contests.

Some members of Nixon's inner circle remain divided on whether Agnew should be nominated for second place on the ticket in an expected Nixon bid for re-election in 1972. Some of Agnew's critics within the administration say they will be watching how the vice president conducts himself in the months immediately ahead.

The subject of Agnew's future was much discussed in the closing days of the 1970 campaign, following publication of a report he might be supplanted two years hence by Rep. George Bush of Texas, provided Bush won his Senate race against Democrat Lloyd Bentsen.

Bush's loss to Bentsen has not ended speculation about Agnew's prospects. While it is true talk of "dumping" the vice president has been common to almost all recent administrations, at least some Nixon associates continue to have that question very much in mind.

Following Tuesday's balloting, Nixon limited his victory claim to Senate and House races "in which I have been campaigning." Talking briefly to newsmen Wednesday at the California White House before flying back to Washington, the chief executive made no mention of Agnew's more strenuous —and controversial—campaigning.

Herbert Klein, the administration's communications director, spoke to reporters Tuesday night about "a lot of criticism in terms of the vice president's role in the campaign."

However, Klein added that Nixon looks upon Agnew as the GOP campaigner who was out front where the heat was hottest and felt the vice president had been very effective on the stump.

In his post-election statement, Nixon claimed Republicans had gained "a working majority in both the House and the Senate for national defense and also for foreign policy."

He referred to the ideological attachments of members of the Congress that will meet in January rather than party labels. Democrats, of course, will continue to control both houses.

He predicted the election results, "as far as the Senate is concerned, will not go unnoticed abroad."

The chief executive noted both Democrats and Republicans are making victory claims "as is usually the case in an off-year election." He even bolstered the legitimacy of such a claim by Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, saying O'Brien "with justification points to the fact that in state races his party picked up several governorships."

But then he went on to draw a distinction between these contests and "national races" in which he said he had campaigned. Actually, Nixon put in a good word for GOP gubernatorial candidates in all 23 states along his campaign route.

Burial will be in Forest Hills Memorial Gardens near Morley.

Senath Pastor Found Dead of Heart Attack

SENATH — Church of Christ Minister Fred Killebrew was found dead Tuesday afternoon at the steering wheel of his car.

Family freidns said the Rev. Mr. Killebrew died of an apparent heart attack, and had been dead about two hours before he was discovered by his wife in his car in the driveway of his Senath home.

Formerly associated with the Binghampton Church in Memphis, the Rev. Mr. Killebrew moved to Senate in 1945, where he assumed his duties at the Senath Church of Christ. He was a member of the Senath Ministerial Alliance.

State Student Will Keynote Sales Parley

CAPE GIRARDEAU — For the fourth time in five years, a Southeast Missouri State College student has been selected to keynote the annual sales conference of the Sales and Marketing Executives Association of Metropolitan St. Louis.

The 44th annual conference, expected to attract about 2,000 persons, will open Nov. 24 at the Chase Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

The student from Southeast Missouri State is 24- year-old Gary J. Cannella. He was chosen over representatives from St. Louis University, Washington University, Florissant Valley Community College, and the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses of Southern Illinois University.

Each gave a talk on the topic "Why I Chose Selling as a Career" at a recent meeting of the Sales and Marketing Executives Association in St. Louis. Neither the students nor the colleges they represented were disclosed until after all had spoke and the winner chosen.

Cannella will kick off the annual sales conference with the same talk he delivered in the competition.

The president of the Southeast Missouri State chapter of the American Marketing Association, Cannella won the right to represent Southeast Missouri State in the St. Louis competition by first competing against other members of the organization he heads.

Three semi- finalists were selected, and the final choice was made by the Cape Girardeau Toastmasters' Club.

The membership of the Sales and Marketing Executive Association consists of sales managers and sales personnel that headquarter in the St. Louis area.

Cannella, who is also a member of the Veterans Corp. at Southeast Missouri State, is majoring in marketing and minoring in economics. Originally from St. Louis, he is married and lives at 315 North Frederick in Cape Girardeau.

Watercolors Go on Display

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A collection of watercolors by John Bisignano, a faculty member of the Art Center of Orange, N.J., will go on display Friday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The exhibit, consisting of paintings of an experimental nature and on unconventional textures, will remain up through Nov. 21.

It may be viewed by the public Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the hall gallery of the Art- Home Economics Building on the campus.

According to Roy Schoenborn, associate professor of art and education at Southeast Missouri State, Bisignano's paintings have taken many awards and are included in many public and private collections. Bisignano has exhibited widely, Schoenborn said, in both one- man shows and national group exhibitions, and he works equally well in all media.

All of the paintings to be displayed at Southeast Missouri State are for sale. The exhibit is circulated by the Old Bergen Art Guild of Bayonne, N.J.

Republicans Improve Position in State

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Republicans went a long way Tuesday toward making Missouri a truly two-party state.

By winning one statewide race by a wide margin and losing the other in a close contest the GOP now has two state officials in vital positions to keep a critical eye on the administration of Democratic Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Young Christopher "Kit" Bond of Mexico, Mo., rolled up a 200,000-vote margin to snatch the office of state auditor away from Democrat Haskell Holman.

Bond is in a position to look into the financial actions of all state offices as well as those of local government officials.

U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., was re-elected to a fourth term but with less than 40,000 votes. He knew he had been in a battle with Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, the 34-year-old Republican who two years ago became the first of his party to win statewide in 22 years.

Now by losing he remains in the attorney general's office and he, too, is in a position to have a hand in the major decisions of the state government. He is a member of the State Board of Public Buildings and helps decide what the structural picture of Missouri's government will be.

Bond and Danforth must depend on a Democratic Legislature to provide the financing for their offices. Such situations have caused difficulties in the past and with the austerity situation in Missouri's government financing they can't expect to be treated on any more than a survival basis.

Hearnes announced today he will call a special legislative session to convene Nov. 13 but has not yet indicated what sort of revenue producing measure he might recommend. But he has said in the past that defeat of the income tax proposal last April has suggested to him the people might more easily accept a sales tax increase.

Bond has said he hopes to meet with the governor on a plan to change the system of depositing state funds in banks around Missouri.

Now it's strictly on a partisan basis, with the benefitting banks those which have been friendly to the administration.

Bond has also said he would see to it that certified public accountants would man the supervisory positions in the auditor's office after he takes over in January. And that he would seek standard accounting procedures to be used by state agencies and local government officials.

Holman hasn't any CPA's on his staff now although some are accountants of considerable experience. He regularly returns money to the state treasury at the end of the fiscal year because, he has said, he has not been able to get the sort of men he wanted for the money he has available.

Holman will be 62 late this month and when he leaves office in January he is almost certain to be given a position in the Democratic administration somewhere so he can finish out those last three years, retiring at 65 with full pension benefits.

Another important effect of the Tuesday election is that Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, will start another term in January.

He is the controversial senator who led the successful fight last winter and spring against the administration's income tax increase plan.

Cole Grand Jury in Recess

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Cole County grand jury was recessed today while Judge James T. Riley considered a motion to quash an effort to get a look at State Treasurer William E. Robinson's income tax returns.

Thomas J. Guilfoil, Robinson's attorney, argued Wednesday the subpoena for income tax records violated the dictates of the Supreme Court.

Riley gave attorneys for both sides time to show whether the material is needed for the grand jury to proceed in its investigation of alleged wrongdoing in the treasurer's office.

Danforth Rules Vote Hauling Not Illegal

CARUTHERSVILLE — "In the opinion of this office, there is no law regulating or prohibiting the hiring or persons to haul voters to the polls in a primary or general election in a third class county" according to Missouri Attorney General John Danforth.

Through State Representative Vic Downing, the Pemiscot County Fair Election Committee had asked the Missouri Attorney General to clear up several questions. Two of these included: legality of the hiring of cars to haul voters to the polls in primary and general elections and the duties and methods of appointment of 'poll witnesses' in primary and general elections.

In a letter to the Attorney General Representative Downing said, "I believe the Fair Election Committee is doing a good job in our County in their efforts to see that we have fair elections, and I will appreciate your opinion on these questions as soon as possible."

Danforth pointed out that Pemiscot is a third class county. "In regard to the first question, we enclose herewith Opinion No. 253 issued by this office September 9, 1969, holding that Section 78.550, RSMo prohibits candidates or other interested persons from hauling voters to the polls with the intent and purpose of influencing their vote. Section 78.550, supra, applies to city elections in a third class city with city manager form of government. It has no application to the state and county primary or general election. There is no statute prohibiting or regulating the use of automobiles as such in hauling voters to the polls in primary or general elections in a third class county."

In answer to the second question concerning poll witnesses Danforth answered, "Section 111.501, provides in part, "no person, other than the judges and clerks of election, shall be admitted into the room or office where ballots are being counted except that a political party may select a representative person who may be admitted as a witness of the counting."

"We are unable to find any express statutory provisions setting out the method to be used by a political party in selecting a person to witness a counting of the ballots. It is our view that a person to be admitted to the room where the ballots are counted, must be selected by the party committee in the manner and in accordance with their constitution and bylaws and the judges of the election should admit such person into the room to witness the counting if they are satisfied such person has been selected by the party committee," said Danforth.

The question of hiring cars to haul voters was brought up during the August primary election.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Andrew Dale Wheeler Jr., Sikeston, and Michael Walter Wehmeyer, Chaffee, are enlistees in the navy, according to Petty Officer S. R. Breland.

Wheeler, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, 714 Davis road, enlisted in the navy's seaman recruit high school program, and will be sent to a technical school or may go directly to the fleet after recruit training.

Wehmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Wehmeyer, enlisted in the navy's junior college program and will be assigned to a technical school or to the fleet.

Both have been sent to naval training center in San Diego.

If You Were The Judge

Homosexual Can't Be Denied Library Job

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Mike applied for a job at a state university as a librarian and was advised that he had the position. But then he applied for a marriage liscense and, while applying for a marriage license might not otherwise have raised an eyebrow, Mike's application was to marry another man.

Bizarre? The University officials thought so and, consequently, refused to hire him. In a tizzy, Mike took the matter to court, where he demanded the job.

"Because I'm a professed homosexual," he told the judge," is no reason to prevent me from earning a living for myself and my intended spouse. I don't advocate homosexuality nor do I suggest it for anyone else. Therefore, to deny me the position is outright discrimination."

"While we concede that Mike's qualifications to be a librarian are just fine," responded the university officials," as a homosexual, he's going to commit a criminal act with his bride and we just can't have that sort of thing on campus."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the state university to give Mike the librarian's job?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held that public employemnt is a constitutionally portected right. That a homosexual is a human being and a citizen of the United Stated and, despite the fact he finds his sex gratifications in what most would consider to be an unconventional manner, he is entitled to that protection.

In this case, noted the judge, since Mike is a qualified librarian and his position will not expose him to children of tender age who conceivably cound be influenced or persuaded to his penchant, to deny the job would be unconstitutional

What's more, added the judge, homosexuality is a broad term involving different kinds of sexual activity. Until Mike is caught, it is only speculation that he will commit the particular criminal act feared by the university officials.

Mrs. Hearnes Talks at Dexter

DEXTER — Missouri's First Lady, Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, spoke Tuesday night at the fall general meeting of the Women's Council for County Improvement held at the high school.

Mrs. Hearnes was keeping an appointment of one year ago, when in the fall of 1969 she was scheduled to address the same group of Stoddard County women when she suffered a fall and a broken arm.

"And how do you say gracefully that you fell over a saw in the dining room?" Mrs. Hearnes asked the audience with a smile.

"There is no dignified way," she continued, adding that the restoration of the Governor's Mansion to its original state had been "well worth all of the work."

And on a light note of humor she added "Tonight I wanted to come in the worst way -- I traveled Highway 67."

But the lightness and humor was brief as Mrs. Hearnes talked to the group concerning the importance of such organizations as the WCCI -- people who care, people who see a task that needs to be done, and then do it.

"We are all aware of the problems in Missouri -- and Missouri women have met problems before -- for kindergartens, the right to vote and now we have a new battle, to get out the vote November 3."

She pointed out the crises our country faces with its riots and undeclared war, adding that "hate has reared its ugly head with lawlessness, inflation and an unsettled war."

"Passion and distemper flood our land and undermine the structure of our government," she continued.

"An uncomprising attitude, an uncompromising political attitude is resulting in a person not being able to speak his opinion and everyone has a right to a difference of opinion and we must defend his right to speak, she added in her commants.

"We must not only let him speak, we must listen," she said.

She stressed the importance of "one vote, one volunteer on election day," and reminded the women "that for a better state and a united nation it will take many groups such as the WCCI working to solve the problems of our state and nation."

As she spoke quietly and seriously of the problems Missouri and the nation face, her audience matched her mood, listening carefully and quietly to her thoughts and her ideas.

Her talk was not long.

But she impressed her listeners with her solemn words, her voice of concern.

And as she finished her remarks with "The First Family of Missouri thanks you for all of your support, we want you to know we appreciate all that has been done in our behalf. It is a privilege to have served as Missouri's First Family."

As Betty Hearnes took her seat on the platform, she received a standing ovation.

Mrs. Lehman Godwin introduced Mrs. Hearnes.

A reception under the direction of the Monday Club, was held from 6 to 7 p.m. as the guests arrived.

Decorations for the event were on a fall and Halloween theme and brought many comments from the guests. The pumpkins were styled in many faces, wore gay hats and were bedecked with felt, yarn and jewels to complete their character portrayal. The stage in the auditorium further carried out the fall motif with shocks of corn and bright orange pumpkins.

Junior Civi Club was in charge of table and stage decorations and the place mats of fall and Halloween were also bedecked with cutout figures for the season, styled and made by the Jaycee Wives.

The Dexter Civic and Study Club had charge of reservations and name tags.

Music for the program was provided by Miss Louise Swinger and a group of fifth grade girls who sang selections from "Sing With Me,' published by Rose Marie Cooper, a sister to Mrs. Warren Hearnes.

Mrs. Stanley Land accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ben Cowan Jr., delighted the audience with her performance on the marimba and also sang a repertoire of music from Carousel.

Brief reports were heard from Mrs. Joe Welborn co-chairman of the Cultural Arts Committee and Mrs. Robert Boon, environmental chairman, who announced a public affairs forum on enviromental problems set for 8 p.m. Nov. 19 at the High School with Dr. Carl J. Merianfield as speaker.

Mrs. Wilson Jarrell, president of the WCCI, introduced officers of the organization as follows: Mrs. Hal Jean, Dexter, secretary; Mrs. Wayne Richmond, Bloomfield, treasurer. Mrs. Dean Swallows, Puxico, vice president. was unable to attend the meeting.

Approximately 160 women attended the meeting from throughout Stoddard County.

Kansan Hurt

Darrell Duggins, 28, Wichita, Kan., suffered head cuts and possible broken ribs at 9 p.m. yesterday when he lost control of his northbound 1967 Ford pickup truck, ran off the road, and overturned, the highway patrol said.

The accident occurred on route B, one mile south of Wardell.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. (I John 1:8)

PRAYER: O God, we confess that we have sinned against You many times by thought, word, and deed. Forgive us our sins. Instill within us a hatred for all evil and give us a sense of righteousness. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Show & Tell

Last night I courageously donned my black leather jacket plus my protective helmet and ventured to the Malone theater to see HELLS ANGELS ON WHEELS and ANGELS UNCHAINED. WHOOPEE!!

In previous weeks this column has leaned over backwards praising films, but they deserved it. Today is different. My conscience will not allow praise of these two disasters.

HELLS ANGELS ON WHEELS, I must admit, is a pure comedy of errors. As a matter of fact it was so bad that I didn't stay to see ANGELS UNCHAINED, but I honestly don't think I missed much.

ANGELS UNCHAINED was billed as "a war of survival against the cycle freaks and the dune buggy straights." If that isn't enough to make you sick I don't kwow what is.

HELLS ANGELS ON WHEELS does have a few (very few) redeeming factors. The co-star is Jack Nicholson. Most of you will remember him as the pot-smoking lawyer in Peter Fonda's Easy Rider.

Nicholson was obviously just beginning his career when this film was made. He rumbles across the screen playing a young degenerate, running around with other degenerates - and that is the best part.

The movie actually features - now get this - the real Hell's Angels of Fresno, Calif. I'm sure that that thrills you about as much as it does me. Any movie that has to use those slobs to get an audience isn't going to get any brownie points in my book.

The film lasts for 98 long long minutes. At least 75 per cent of that time features this band of merry men and women riding their bikes. The rest of time they are killing sailors, killing cops, killing themselves — really great fun.

I must remind you that the Malco is featuring MASH and PATTON, and that is the most obvious hint that I can give you.

Senses Are Different

All insect senses function through organs far different from ours. The main organs of smell for insects are the antennae. They contain olfactory pits or cones that enable the insects to detect odors.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 1970. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first U.S. president to be elected to three terms in office.

On this date—

In 1605, a conspirator, Guy Fawkes, was seized as he was about to blow up the House of Lords in London.

In 1872, Susan B. Anthony voted for Ulysses S. Grant in a presidential election. She was fined $100 for illegal voting.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected president, defeating former President Theodore Roosevelt and President William Howard Taft.

In 1930, American novelist Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

In 1940, election returns were telecast for the first time.

In 1946, a new career in politics began as 29-year-old John F. Kennedy was elected to the House of Representatives.

Ten years ago—A controversy raged at the United Nations over the return of many Belgian officials and technicians to the Congo.

Five years ago — The U.N. General Assembly voted overwhelmingly, over British objections, for a demand that Britain use military force if necessary to assure complete political freedom in Rhodesia.

One year ago — South Vietnam's Vice President Ky said his country intended to take over the Vietnamese war at a pace which would permit the withdrawal of all American combat troops by the end of 1970.

MOPPING UP OIL, this vessel demonstrates an advanced system for cleaning up leaks such as the one that occurred recently offshore near Santa Barbara, Calif. System incorporates a catamaran-type barge towed by a high-speed power boat. Deployed from the barge, at an acute angle, are two 100-foot flotation booms, constructed of plastic-coated nylon fabric and designed to provide continuous wave contouring in any sea state. Area is transversed to trap oil within angle of the booms, forcing it into a self-contained gravity oil separator tank, capable of processing up to 800 gallons a minute. Oil recovered within a half-hour of spillage can be reclaimed.

Nixon, GOP Able to Claim Little But Historical Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — esident Nixon and the Republicans have overridden history but very little else with the divided verdict of the midterm elections.

The White House may find the new, still-Democratic Senate a bit more tractable—but not that much.

And a Democratic state house sweep of unexpected magnitude confronts Nixon with an array of practical political problems for 1972.

It also gives Democrats crucial strength in the coming struggle over the reshaping of congressional districts to match the 1970 census figures.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Nixon's campaign deputy, said the elections awarded the President "a working majority in the Senate" on ideological lines.

He said Nixon agreed with that assessment.

It seemed optimistic.

The Democratic Senate majority was cut by at least two, and possibly three seats, depending on the outcome in a see-sawing Indiana race.

But even ideologically, the outcome was mixed.

For example, Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., who won a Connecticut Senate seat for the GOP, is not, by the record, a down-the-line administration man.

He succeeds Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, a hawkish Democrat who voted with the administration on virtually every question of defense and foreign policy.

As Agnew pointed out, a Republican critic of the administration was supplanted in New York by a Conservative—James L. Buckley, a solid Nixon man on defense and foreign policy but likely to differ with the administration on the conservative side of such issues as welfare reform.

In Texas, conservative Democrat Lloyd Bentsen takes over a seat now held by a liberal Democrat, and Agnew cited that as a plus for the administration. Both Agnew and Nixon campaigned for Rep. George Bush, the GOP loser.

Democrats, in one election day, overturned what had been a 32-18 Republican statehouse lead.

This victory could be translated into an organizational base, fund raising potential, political manpower, patronage—the stuff of which White House campaigns are fashioned.

For the Democratic presidential prospects, the plurality was the story.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie scored a 63 per cent showing in Maine, big but not towering.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy piled up 63 per cent of the Massachusetts vote, better than the 60 per cent his own men had staked out as their goal to prove he had overcome the political problems raised by Chappaquiddick, but well short of the nearly 72 per cent he commanded in 1964.

Hubert H. Humphrey scored his Senate comeback in Minnesota with 58 per cent of the vote.

There were other names to consider, too, as possible prospects for national tickets: Sen.elect Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois, Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan of Ohio, Sen.-elect John V. Tunney of California.

The two biggest states, New York and [illegible] California, reelected Republican Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan. But if the conservative victory of James L. Buckley in New York was an immediate boost for the administration, it also seemed likely to foretell a split in New York Republican ranks.

The administration gained Senate allies to supplant Democratic critics in Maryland, in Tennessee, and in Ohio.

But it lost loyal supporters in the defeat of Sen. Ralph T. Smith of Illinois and Sen. George Murphy of California.

And their seats will be filled by Democrats who are on Agnew's campaign list of certified radical-liberals: Stevenson and Tunney.

Furthermore, in Illinois, California and Utah, Republicans saw the impact of their law-and-order issue brought into question.

It didn't work in any of the three states.

Another possible GOP campaign casualty: the so-called Southern Strategy. It didn't work in Florida, where Republicans drummed away at the issue of their opposition to the busing of school children for the sake of racial balance. It didn't work in South Carolina, where Republican Rep. Albert W. Watson challenged for the State House with Agnew's campaign help and the aid of Sen. Strom Thurmond. John C. West, a moderate Democrat, won.

And in Florida, the new Democratic senator will be Lawton Chiles, generally conservative —but certainly less so than the man he succeeds, Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

Tennessee, however, was a major plus for the Nixon-Agnew campaign; it ousted Sen. Albert Gore, the Democratic dove long ago pronounced a top target by the vice president.

That took care of one of the men Agnew denounced as a radical liberal. But names that were on that bitter list will dot the Senate roll call when Agnew gavels the new Senate into session.

Republicans indeed outdid history; a Nixon spokesman said the President was pleased the GOP had "turned the tide of tradition."

The party of a President has increased its Senate strength in only four off-year elections; no Republican had presided over such gains since Theorore Roosevelt in 1906.

And the White House party has lost an average of 29 House seats in the mid-term elections of the past two decades. This time, the Democratic gain was held to less than a dozen.

On the other side of the historical ledger, Nixon was the first newly elected President of modern times to face opposition majorities in both houses of Congress.

Republicans had, in fact, less to lose this year. And, in contrast to history, the presidential party was the party on the attack in the campaign of 1970.

Furthermore, Democrats were defending 25 Senate seats, Republicans only 10. An opportunity of that magnitude will not soon come again. In 1972, there will be 19 Republican Senate seats up for election, 14 Democratic.

With a lopsided hold on the state houses, Republicans had to risk 24 this year, Democrats only 11. But the proportions of the turnabout were nonetheless a surprise.

Boardman Sentenced on Three Counts

CAPE GIRARDEAU Thomas Harold Boardman, former Sikeston certified public account, was given 90 days in prison on each of three counts of failure to file income tax returns in United States district court. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Boardman who formerly owned businesses in Sikeston and Dexter, previously entered pleas of guilty on the charges for the years 1964- 66.

His gross income for the three years totaled $113,899.30.

U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith gave him until Jan. 4 to get his business affairs in order. He is to report to the U.S. marshal in St. Louis that day to be committed to the custody of the attorney general.

Boardman was indicted by a federal grnd jury Sept. 9, 1970, and pleaded guilty to the three-count indictment Oct. 5, 1970.

The United States government was represented by Robert B. Schneider, assistant to United States Attorney Daniel Bartlett, Jr. The case was investigated by agents of the ingelligence and audit divisions of the Internal Revenue Service.

Boardman's Attorney reviewed the defendant's personal and business records. He said Boardman entered the Air Force in 1943 and during World War II his plane was shot down and he was in a German prison camp for eight months. He also pointed out the defendant lost a son in Vietnam.

He said the defendant, by working on the job, was able to pass certified public accountant examinations and entered business with a partner at Sikeston and Dexter.

The attorney said Boardman went to Dexter to take over that office in 1960 but had financial difficulties which were increased by a fire which destroyed records of the company and "a year's work."

The attorney said while these facts do not excuse the failure to file the income tax returns, he was asking the court to take then into consideration in passing sentence.

Judge Meredith told the defendant that under normal circumstances he would pass sentence of a year on each count, but because Boardman was in the German prison camp and his son was killed in Vietnam, the sentence would be 90 days on each count

The defendant has sold his businesses and moved to Russellville, Ga.

Three other criminal cases came before the court.

Appearing for arraignment, Michael Dudley Childress, 19, was committed to prison for a 60- day evaluation prior to formal sentencing after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of possession of illegal firearms. His attorney was Alfred Holland of Paragould, Ark.

The government alleged Childress had a .410- gauge sawed- off shotgun on his person at Cardwell on April 18, 1970. It was claimed the gun was not registered as required with the National Firearms transfer records.

Childress said he bought the gun from a boy in Paragould. Upon questioning by the judge, he admitted the charge arose after a roommate was shot, but no further details came out in testimony.

Judge Meredith also pointed out while no arrests were made, Childress had been found in possession of dynamite caps while on the campus of a college he attends. The defendant told the judge he planned to use the caps to dynamite fish.

The judge said he received a report from the probation officer but has not had time to study it.

After emphasizing the seriousness of the charge, Judge Meredith told the defendant, "I would like to know more about you." He then committed Childress to the penitentiary for 60 days for evaluation " to know what makes you tick" before making final disposition of the case.

Two defendants in separate cases were sent to the Springfield Medical Center for psychiatric examination.

One, Joe Roy Boshell, appearing for arraignment, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of entering the Bank of New Madrid on Oct. 24, 1970, with intent of larceny. He told the court he was very drunk on that night and did not remember whether or not he broke a window to enter the bank.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert B. Schneider said the defendant previously told a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent he used his elbow to get in the window of the bank. Mr. Schneider said tellers found papers scattered about and a typewriter knocked off a desk. The defendant was found with $221 in currency hidden in his shoes and $9.20 in his pockets, Schneider stated.

Judge Meredith said he would not accept the defendant's plea of guilty on the statement he was drunk and did not remember the facts and directed the U.S. attorney to commit Boshell to the medical center.

The other defendant, George Darnell, was to appear for trial Wednesday on a five- count indictment of violation of the Commodity Credit Corp. Charter Act and the Agricultural Act of 1949.

His attorney, Charles E. Hatley of New Madrid, requested the psychiatric examination. Judge Meredith said as the defendant's attorney had told him he was having difficulty understanding what his client told him, he would grant the request.

Jack L. Oliver, Cape Girardeau attorney, read the names of four area lawyers who the Board of Admissions recommended to be admitted to the bar of the court. One, W. Robert Cope of Cape Girardeau, was in attendance. The others are Joseph P. Fuchs of Sikeston, Hal E. Hunter III of New Madrid and Byron D. Luber of Caruthersville.

The courts began taking up civil matters following the criminal suits. Also here for the government is Maurice H. Harris, chief of lands section, U.S. District Attorney's Office.

There are approximately 9,000 golf courses in the United States.

Physics Teachers Will Converge on Cape Girardeau

CAPE GIRARDEAU — About 50 physics teachers from across the state will be on the Southeast Missouri State College campus Saturday for the fall meeting of the Missouri Section of the American Association of Physics Teachers.

This is the first time the Missouri Section has ever met at Southeast Missouri State, said Dr. Sidney E. Hodges, a professor of physics at the college and program chairman for the conference.

Dr. Hodges, president - elect of the organization, said most of those attending the conference will be college professors. He added, however, "We're trying to build up our high school membership and high school physics teachers, especially those in the Southeast Missouri State service area, are urged to attend."

Except for a luncheon and business meeting at the Holiday Inn, the conference will meet in North Hall of Science on the campus. The morning session will open at 9:30 a.m. and the afternoon session about 1:30 p.m.

Six papers will be delivered in the morning and three in the afternoon. They will variously deal with research in physics and curricular developments and developments in the teaching of physics at both the high school and college levels.

Scheduled to deliver papers are Dr. Hsin-i Wu of Southeast Missouri State; John Leake, Gene Moum, and Brian DeFacio, all of the University of Missouri -- Columbia; Richard Anderson and Daniel Jones, both of the University of Missouri – Rolla; John Northrip of Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield; Joseph Snoble of Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg; and Leonard Livingston of Hazelwood, Mo.

Dr. Hodges will automatically advance to the presidency of the Missouri Section of the AAPT at the spring meeting to be held in Springfield.

President of the organization this year is Dr. Marathon High, head of the physics department at the University of Missouri -- Kansas City.

I find my delight in thy commandments. — (Psalms 119:47)

Divine order in mind, body and affairs means freedom from negative thinking. It means that our minds are peaceful and poised. As we affirm this order, we allow the fullness of all life, all light and all good to come to us. Let us accept the idea that God is working in and through us and that His good is being established in our lives.

Mideast Truce Extended

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Suez Canal cease-fire will continue after its expiration time tonight, but there is no prospect for a resumption of peace talks despite the U.N. General Assembly resolution urging Israel and the Arabs to start negotiating again.

The semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram said President Anwar Sadat had ordered Egyptian forces to continue the truce for "a further short period," but not for another 90 days unless progress is achieved in the current peace efforts at the United Nations.

Sadat coupled this with an order for a full alert on the canal front "regardless of any political developments."

Al Ahram said Egypt will continue to observe the cease-fire "until the completion of current discussion at the United Nations and accompanying international efforts." This was seen as a reference to Egypt's campaign in the U.N. General Assembly to force the Israelis to return to the indirect negotiations for which U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring is the go-between.

Israel had said earlier that it would continue to observe the cease-fire until fired on, even if there was no formal agreement to extend it. But the Israelis remained firm in their refusal to return to the negotiations until Egypt pulls back antiaircraft missiles which Israel charges were shifted forward in the Suez area after the standstill agreement went into effect Aug. 7.

Egypt has been just as adamant in its insistence that its redeployment of missiles along the canal has not violated the cease-fire and that none of the rockets would be pulled back.

The Jordanian government also was considered certain to extend the cease-fire though there has been no formal announcement from Amman. Since the 1967 war, the Jordanian army has left offensive action against Israel to the Egyptians and the Palestinian guerrillas, and now it is so occupied trying to keep the guerrillas from overthrowing King Hussein that it probably could not take effective action against Israel if it wanted to.

The first 90-day cease-fire period ends at midnight in Israel and Egypt—5 p.m. EST.

Yugoslavia and 20 Asian and African supporters of Egypt pushed a resolution through the General Assembly Wednesday calling for a 90-day extension and immediate resumption of the Jarring talks. The resolution was approved 57 to 16 with 39 abstentions. The United States and Israel opposed it.

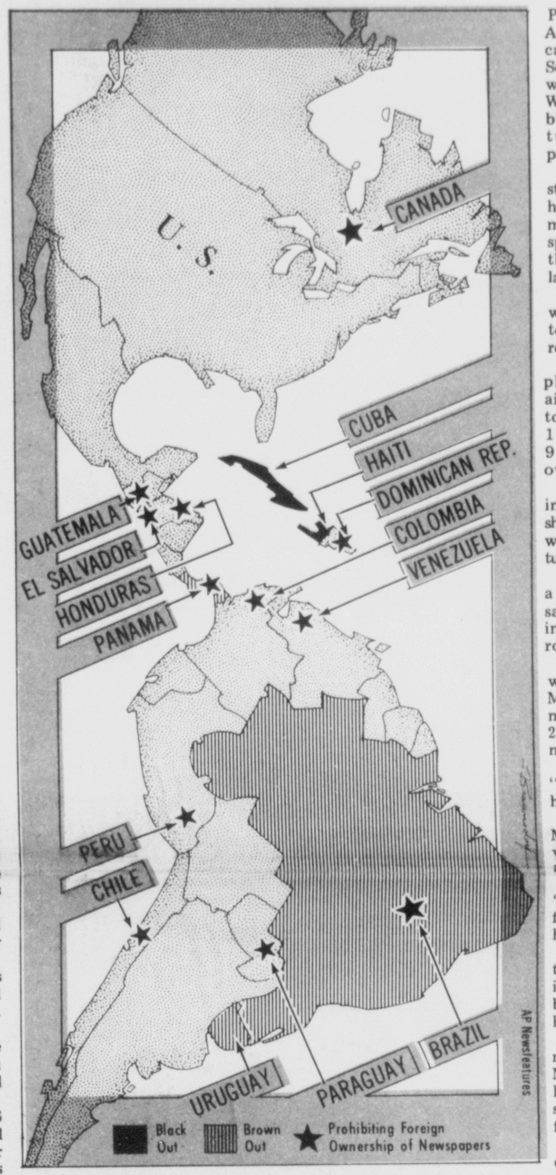
Israel had two objections to the resolution: It included a specific call for her to withdraw from the territories seized in the 1967 war and it calls for resumption of negotiations while ignoring the cease-fire violations charged by Israel.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Assembly that this emphasis on Israeli withdrawal threw off balance the Security Council resolution of November 1967, which laid down the framework for a Middle East peace agreement.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost told the assembly that the resolution was "clearly ... put forward in behalf of one side to the conflict and represents the views of that side." He said its adoption constituted a "step backward, not a step forward."

PRESS RESTRICTIONS IN THE AMERICAS

Freedom of the press, a basic right in the United States, is not so universally recognized throughout the rest of North and South America. Some form of restrictions are applied in 15 nations in the Americas.



Press Freedom Set Back

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Inter-American Press Association ended its 26th annual meeting in Mexico City recently with a dire warning.

"The curtain of silence, censorship and oppression which separates the nations where there is no freedom of the press from those where there is still a free press came down over more countries in the course of the last year," the IAPA's Freedom of the Press Committee said.

The committee's report said Haiti and Cuba are the countries where there is a "total eclipse of press freedom."

The situation has improved somewhat in Brazil, where the military regime has lifted some of its restrictions on freedom of the press. But Panama was described as "one of the dark spots in the panorama of the hemispheric press."

In Uruguay, the IAPA report said, newspapers still are prohibited from using the word "Tupamaro," the name of a terrorist guerrilla group that has been responsible for a number of political kidnappings and assassinations.

The report also listed a number of countries where there are limitations in freedom of the press caused by laws prohibiting foreigners from owning newspapers in those countries.

Those countries are: Brazil, Canada, Chile, El Salvador, Panama, Honduras, Guatemala, Peru, Paraguay, Venezuela, Colombia and the Dominican Republic.

A number of Latin American countries have enacted such laws specifically to silence newspapers that were owned by foreigners or persons in exile.

However, some countries with such laws argued that their purpose is to prevent foreign elements form gaining great economic influence in underdeveloped nations.

Magistrate Hears Four Venue Cases

CHARLESTON — Judge T. J. Brown, Jr. heard four change of venue cases from Scott county in magistrate court this week.

William Jerry Moore waived arraignment and pleaded guilty to his second offense of driving while intoxicated and was assessed a $123 fine; six month suspended jail sentence and placed on parole for one year.

Larry Franklin Babb, charged with driving while intoxicated, waived arraignment and pleaded quilty to an amended charge of careless and reckless driving. He was fined $126.60.

A $123 fine was levied Curtis Mack Williams on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. A speeding charge against James Jerry Grisham brought a $91 fine.

The following fines were assessed on speeding charges: Roy Patrick, $44; Londell Williams, $28; Walter Hunter, $29; Jerry L. Luther, $26; Hillory Alfred Davenport, $28; Ollie Halbert, $26; Thomas H. Stringer, $24; Charles Randy Lane, $35; Jerry Atwater, $26; and David Lee Calhoun, $31.

Betty Louise Dunigan paid a $21 fine for driving while operator's license were suspended and a charge of no operators license against Obie Pehm, was dismissed by the court and costs certified to Mississippi County.

Edgar Harmon entered a plea of innocent to a charge of felonious assault with intent to kill at a preliminary hearing and was bound over to circuit court. Harmon is accused of shootingJimmie Robinson twice in the side with a .38 calibre pistol on August 15. The defendant was released on his own recognizance.

A $21 fine was assessed Martha Glenn Wasson for littering.

A charge of defective brakes brought a $21 fine to Ralph Paul Scudder and a $16 fine to R. J. Johnson.

Jim Bob Goff paid a $26 fine for making an improper left turn and Jim Lee Taylor was fined $16 for overlength.

Judge Brown assessed a $36 fine and stayed a ten day jail sentence to Coy Yabor for failure to have operator's lincense.

A charge of careless and reckless driving while drinking brought a $29 fine to Gerald P. Summers.

In an account suit brought by Montgomery Ward against Eluctine Hines and Bobby L. Hines, judgement was awarded the plaintiff to recover a total of $253.33 at 7% interest from date of judgment, together with $11 costs.

East Prairie LumberCo. was awarded judgement in an account suit brought against Bill Anderson in the amount of $146.47 at 6% interest and costs.

Winchester Chevrolet Co. was awarded judgement to recover $260.84 principal, $39 attorneys fee and $10 costs from Paul Long in a suit on contract.

House Demos Talk of Taking Economic Reins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reinforced House Democrats may present their own economic program if the Nixon administration does not change its policies, according to Rep. Carl Albert, the chamber's prospective new speaker.

Albert took issue in an interview with two interpretations of Tuesday's election—that the smaller-than-average Democratic House gains for off-year elections were not significant and that voter concern with inflation and unemployment did not play a major role.

"We are going into the new Congress with the biggest Democratic majority since the Johnson landslide of 1964," Albert said.

Democrats picked up at least nine House seats, for a total of 254. This contrasts with 243 at the beginning of the last Congress and 248 at the start of the one four years ago.

It is, however, well short of the 295 seats Democrats won in 1964 when Lyndon B. Johnson overwhelmed Sen. Barry Goldwater in the presidential election.

"I would hope this would encourage the administration to take the state of the economy more seriously," Albert said.

"They haven't done so up to now."

Albert said the Democrats in the House already have taken some legislative steps. Over administration opposition, they have passed standby credit, wage and price controls which have not been used.

"We could do more," Albert said. "I would hope that we could work together with the administration, but if not we will have to go ahead on our own."

Albert said his party will benefit not only its gains in the House but by a heightened sense of unity resulting from the deep involvement by Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the congressional campaign.

$125 Theft at Service Station

Police reported property and cash totaling $125 was taken during the night from Leonard's Shell Service Station.

Reported stolen were four radios, a portable television set, two cartons of .22 caliber bullets and $26 in cash.

A tire tool believed used in the burglary was found near the station.

Miner Board Talks Stop Sign Needs

MINER — The town board of Miner last night took under consideration a petition signed by 27 residents to erect a stop sign at the intersection of Hux and Ross Streets for north and southbound traffic.

The board discussed erecting six other stop signs for street intersections.

Chairman Harold Lewis appointed Charles Hill, John Burton, and Clarence Scott to serve on a committee for blacktopping streets.

It was brought out that a police car may be available to the city through federal aid.

The board was told that the state highway department wants the board to pass an ordinance to have the speed limit at 45 miles per hour from Frank Ferrell's home south to Ira Dodd's home. From Dodd's home to the end of the city limits, the speed limit would be 55 miles per hour. The speed limit is now 45 miles per hour for both areas.

Lewis said he thought it was a good idea but said he would have to draw a plat explaining the limits of the city and the footage to present to the highway department before action could be taken.

The board voted to continue an insurance policy for firemen.

General collections by the city for October were $1,900.59.

The largest items were for water bills, $1,053.08, and the street fund, $581.26.

Two Arrests

Police reported James R. Holden, 835 Marion, has been charged with driving while intoxicated and disorderly conduct.

James E. Robinson, 230 Felker, has been arrested on charge of being absent without leave from the armed forces.

20 Jet Riders Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — A Paris-bound Pan American World Airways 747 jumbo jetliner carrying 163 persons including Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., was forced to return here Wednesday night after being buffeted by severe clear air turbulence that injured 14 passengers and six stewardesses.

Six passengers and one stewardess were admitted to hospitals, the airline said. One man suffered a heart attack, a spokesman said, and injuries to the other 19 ranged from lacerations to broken bones.

Those with minor injuries were treated at the Pan Am terminal or the hospitals and released.

Four ambulances met the plane, the largest commercial aircraft in service, on its return to John F. Kennedy Airport at 11:30 p.m. It had taken off at 9:14 p.m. and hit the turbulence over Nantucket, Mass.

Javits was not among the injured but said he was "a little shaken up because it took a long while to get out of the turbulence."

Javits, who was on his way to a NATO meeting at the Hague, said "A lot of people who were in their seats literally hit the roof of the plane."

A veteran Navy pilot who was a passenger, Lt. Cmdr. J. L. Meiling, told newsmen, "We must have fallen anywhere from 2,000 to 5,000 feet in a matter of no more than five minutes."

Javits praised crew members "for their cool-headed control in handling the situation."

Other passengers praised Meiling, of Provo, Utah, who was traveling with his wife Sheila and 6-month-old son, Neal.

They said Meiling made a "circus catch" to save his son from injury after the boy was hurled out of his bassinet.

Passengers said that Meiling then turned to help others including a stewardess who was bleeding from the back of the head.

The airline spokesman had no immediate comment on Meiling's report that the plane had fallen 2,000 to 5,000 feet. He said the plane was at about 30,000 feet when the incident occurred.

He said the crew would be questioned by Pan Am officials and by investigators for the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board.

When the plane landed newsmen could detect no evident damage to the exterior but the cabin was littered with broken dishes, pillows, handluggage, blankets, clothing and other items.

The captain "explained to us that the turbulence did not show up on the plane's radar or at JFK," another passenger said.

Later, 119 of the original 148 passengers, including some persons who received minor injuries, boarded another 747 to resume the journey to Paris. The plane took off at 4:32 a.m.

Wilson New East Prairie Manager

EAST PRAIRIE — James Wilson, a retired navy lieutenant, has accepted the position of city manager and will be sworn in officially Nov. 16.

Wilson, 44, was reared on a farm in central Illinois and joined the navy in 1944, serving as radioman and yeoman on destroyers and submarines. He received his commission in the navy supply corps in August of 1958 and retired as a lieutenant July 1, 1970 in Charleston, S. C.

He has received training in public management, finance and administration. This will be his first experience in city management.

His wife, Dorothy, and their two children, Darcy, 11, and Gordon, 17, will remain in Charleston, S. C. until next June, when his son will graduate from high school.

Wilson is working with Glenn Huntington, former city manager who resigned last month to accept a position in Colorado.

North Viet Supply Buildup Detected

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. reconnaissance jets have detected an extensive buildup of war materials in the southern provinces of North Vietnam awaiting shipment to Cambodia and South Vietnam, Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans said today.

Concluding a three-day inspection visit to Vietnam, Seamans said American bombers have stepped up raids along 200 miles of the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos. However, he said that to the best of his knowledge U.S. planes were not attacking the staging areas in North Vietnam.

The United States halted all offensive bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1, 1968, but has continued reconnaissance flights over the North.

"This is a very, very crucial time for air war," Seamans said. "As a result of the Cambodian invasion, a large number of supplies were wiped out.

"For that reason, the North Vietnamese, to continue to operate in South Vietnam as well as Cambodia, must get in a major increase in ammunition and other supplies. They don't have this year the alternative of using the ports in Cambodia ...

"So far we haven't seen enough to really know what is going to happen. The North Vietnamese have been severely hampered up to now by very heavy rains so we're just at the beginning of a critical period. I think it's too soon to try to make a projection as to what is going to happen over the next six months."

Despite the new enemy buildup, the secretary said the program to phase down American air operations and turn over more of the war to the South Vietnamese air force "is solidly based and progressing, if anything, ahead of schedule."

Since last January, the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam has been reduced to about 175 fighter-bomers operating from four bases in South Vietnam. More than 200 fighter-bombers and reconnaissance jets have been transferred out of the country.

Tape Player Stolen

Cecil Carter Jr., 202 Petroleum, reported a tape player and 21 tapes were stolen from his car Tuesday night. Value of the property was placed at $172.60.

News Briefs

Thuy Calls Nixon Liar

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnamese Ambasador Xuan Thuy used the Paris peace talks today as a forum to say that President Nixon "has lied to the American people."

U.S. Ambassador David K.E. Bruce, taking this as an inadmissible insult to the President, delivered an immediate rebuke to the North Vietnamese envoy.

Telling newsmen what no other delegation spokesman would reveal, Nguyen Thanh Le, Hanoi spokesman, said Thuy told Bruce: "What I must say and what I will say is that Mr. Nixon has lied to the American people.

"The reactionary policy he practices is tied to the prolongation of the war in Vietnam and in Indochina."

U.S spokesman Steven Ledogar would not reveal what had annoyed Bruce but recounted that "in a sharp exchange at the end of the meeting personally insulting remarks by Ambassador Xuan Thuy were made about the President of the United States of America."

17 Died in Aged Home Fire

MONTREAL (AP) — Fire raced through a home for the elderly today in the Montreal suburb of Pointe-aux-Trembles and 17 persons perished. Police said all died of asphyxiation.

Seventeen other residents of the Foyer Ste. Bernadette home managed to escape the flames, which broke out at 4 a.m., after a furnace exploded in the basement of the three-floor brick and stone building. The survivors were taken to a hospital where their condition was listed as satisfactory.

Pierre Gariepy, Pointe-aux-Trembles chief of police, said a great deal of smoke was pouring from the building when firemen arrived. He said the victims probably died in their sleep.

The owner of the home, Lucien Paradis, said it had passed a government safety inspection two weeks ago.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today called a special session of the Missouri Legislature to begin Friday, Nov. 13.

The governor said the special session was being scheduled to consider emergency appropriations for the fiscal year which ends next June 30 and other matters to be recommended in the governor's message to legislators.

Under Missouri's constitution, a special session may last no more than 60 days and may consider only the matters put before it by the governor.

The state's most pressing need is for more revenue. Appropriations were hold to bare bones basis for 1970-71 after a proposed income tax increase failed at the polls last April.

The governor has not indicated what kind of taxes he would recommend. He said earlier it would be foolish to resubmit the same income tax proposal defeated by the voters.

Since then he has reported that a private poll showed people would favor a sales tax rather than an income tax. Some legislators also suggested that beer, liquor and wine taxes could be raised to meet part of the financial need.

The governor's alternative would be to leave it up to the legislators to decide what kind of revenue measures the legislature should adopt.

This could be done with an "open ended" message opening the door to any kind of fee or tax increase.

More money for the Medicaid and other welfare programs is regarded as a must. Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter has indicated he would run out of money for the aid to dependent children, old age assistance and other programs sometime next spring under present appropriations.

In addition, the federal government has threatened to cut off funds unless the medicaid program is funded at the same rate as last year.

Welfare needs are reported to be between $9 million and $1(million for the rest of the fiscal year.

School administrators have complained because state aid was held to the same level as last year, although the Legislature had pledged a $35 million a year increase for four years.

The special session will be a "lame duck" session with holdover senators and representatives from the 1969 Legislature, some of whom did not run or were defeated this year.

Hartke Claims Win in Senate Cliff-Hanger

There was no immediate comment from Roudebush, who has remained in seclusion since election night—as had Hartke until his appearance at a news conference.

With all but three of 4,440 precincts accounted for, the unofficial tabulation showed Hartke with a 3,698-vote lead—865,439 to 861,741.

Around the state, voting machines and ballot boxes were sealed and under armed guard in anticipation of a recount.

Reasoner to Change Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Reasoner will leave CBS to join ABC on Monday, Dec. 7, as co-anchorman of the network's evening news show, replacing Frank Reynolds.

ABC said today that Reasoner would share duties on the show with Howard K. Smith, another former CBS newsman, who is in Washington.

An industry source said Reasoner had signed a five-year contract with ABC for a salary of about $200,000 a year.

Reasoner, who joined CBS News in 1956, is cohost of "60 Minutes," with Mike Wallace, and anchorman of the CBS Sunday News.

ABC said Reynolds would become a special correspondent and would do occasional documentaries. He became anchorman in May 1968.

Boy Caught After Report of Breakin

Police Sgt. Jack Patterson apprehended a 16-year-old boy Thursday afternoon while in a house at 104 West Gladys St. Police said the house was unoccupied but owned by a Mrs. Albritton.

Patterson had received information there had been a breakin at 108 West Gladys. The officer proceeded to the vicinity in his patrol car and spotted the youth nearby.

He acted as if he was ignoring the youth and proceeded away from the area, but turned and left his patrol car at Scott and West Gladys.

The officer heard noises inside the house at 104 West Gladys. When near the front door, the boy started running. Patterson caught him in the back yard.

Investigation showed a front door glass and a large window near the door had been broken. There was no other damage.

Patterson reported an unoccupied house at 108 West Gladys owned by Lonnie Hodges also was found to have been broken into. There was considerable damage including writing on bedroom walls, removal of locks from doors, removal of a bell from a telephone. A fire had been set in the dining room and there were knife marks on woodwork and floor.

The house was entered by breaking a back door glass with a brick.

The youth was turned over to juvenile authorities.

County Taxes Must Be Paid at Court House

BENTON — Scott County Collector of Revenue Tom Marshall has announced that his office will not make tax collections in any town or city in Scott Count except at his office in the courthouse in Benton.

Harris D. Rodgers, presiding judge of the Scott county court, said collections have been taken in towns 35 to 40 years.

In the past collecting offices have been up in the smaller communities of the county on half- day and day basis during November. In December the collector has set up offices in the Sikeston city hall.

Collector Marshall has published advertisements in all the newspapers in the county to inform the people of the plan.

Marshall has a letter from Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Thomas R. Gilmore telling the collector and county court judges that there is "No statuatory authority for such branch offices in our county. It is my legal opinion that such offices are in violation of Missouri Law."

The prosecutor's letter continued, "Even if the maintenance of such branch offices was permitted under the law as a matter of discretion I feel that it is important in our county to avoid any innovations in the collection process that would interfere in any way with the maintenance of complete accurate records concerning all transactions in the collector's office.

"I have found during my previous investigation of the office earlier this year that the branch office operation militates against the maintenance of such complete and accurate records and for that reason I would be opposed to any effort to perform the collection process outside of the collector's Office in Benton at the county seat."

Collector Marshall said he could see many chances for errors in the collection of taxes with the collector's staff having to "split the tax books to take them from town to town and at the same time leaving some of the records in the courthouse at Benton."

Marshall urged that taxpayers make their payments by mail using bank checks if possible. He said his office will respond promptly in sending the paid receipt by return mail.

The Prosecutor's letter concluded, "If experience shows after one year of such operation that it is a serious inconvenience to the people, not to have such a branch office collection then the local State Representative can be requested to sponsor and submit appropriate legislation that would allow such a branch office."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Every mother of a son believes that her daughter- in-law is not living up to her marriage vows unless she is constantly worrying about her husband's appetite.

* * *

THE FRAUDULENT SLOGAN

One of the favorite phrases used by critics of America is the slogan: "Human rights, not property rights." It has been used particularly in regard to the attacks made upon property by the "new left" extremists who have, increasingly, been busily engaged in the burning, bombing and destroying of property valued in the millions of dollars. The argument has been that law enforcement authorities should use "restraint" in seeking to stem the law- breakers, and that under no circumstances should the criminal be shot, if such force should be necessary to halt his lawless behavior. Reason given: because "human rights are more important than property rights."

But the argument is phony, for several reasons. First, acts of bombing, burning, rioting, and the like are not "human rights"; they are criminal acts, and thus have absolutely no protection under the law. To alibi that such criminal behavior should be permitted if it is "politically motivated" also has no basis whatsoever; a criminal act may have any number of "motivations" - greed, jealousy, hate- none of which excuse the deed. If the act was intentional, the person is guilty.

Furthermore, there is no such thing as a "property right." Property, in and of itself, has no "rights"; there is only the human right to own and control property. Thus, an assault upon property is an assault upon a basic human right protected by our Constitution.

Human rights exist only so long as the right to property is invested in the individual. Once the right to ownership and control of property is shifted to the government - as in the Soviet Union - then all human rights are negated.

Wittingly or unwittingly, those who parrot the slogan "Human rights- not property rights" are frauds, and should be so labeled.

THE MAYFLOWER COMPACT

In the mid- 19th century, Massachusetts blueblood Rufus Choate remarked that "the courage of New England was the courage of conscience." This sometimes unendearing quality was manifest in such diverse New Englanders as the fanatic, Samuel Adams; the crusader, William Lloyd Garrison; and the propagandist, Harriet Beecher Stowe. It was perhaps best exemplified by that hardy band of Pilgrims who left Plymouth, England, aboard the Mayflower in September 1620. Unwilling to submit to the established Church of England, these nonconformists undertook the dangerous journey to the New World for the freedom to worship God in their own way.

Their sailing was not a pleasant one. Two vessels, the Speedwell and the Mayflower, were scheduled to make the journey. Barely out at sea, the Speedwell collapsed and the Mayflower had the dubious distinction of making the first Atlantic crossing without a "consort" ship. The 104 passengers -- religionists, laborers, shareholders and homeless children -- and the liquor- loving, ungenteel crew were "packed like sardines" into the three - masted, 180- ton ship. Rough seas lessened, but by no means eliminated, the tension and squabbling among those aboard.

When the Mayflower sighted land in early November 1620, the infighting increased. To hold the community together for the arduous tasks ahead, the Pilgrim leaders called together most of the adult males to sign a covenant in which all agreed to submit to the decision of the majority. Wednesday, Nov. 11, marks the 350th anniversary of the signing of this document, known as the Mayflower Compact. The participants agreed to "covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation ... and to enact and constitute such just and equal laws ... into which we promise all due submission and obedience."

The compact, which was modeled on church covenants long in use among separatists, provided for annual elections in which all freemen were eligible to vote. John Carver, the first Pilgrim governor, was the first colonial governor in the New World and perhaps the first in history to be chosen by the people themselves in free elections. The Mayflower Compact remained in effect until the Plymouth colony was absorbed by Massachusetts in 1692. Under it, the Pilgrims enjoyed a remarkable degree of independence and self- government. Some historians have viewed the Mayflower Compact as the precursor of the New England town meetings. D. Kenelm Winslow in the Mayflower Heritage (1957) states: "It might be said to have incorporated, quite unconsciously, the seed of Republicanism."

LEGALITY OF THE WAR

More than 40,000 young Americans have been killed in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961. The conflict has lasted longer than any other in American history. But under the Constitution, the United States is not at war. Without equivocation, that document states: "Congress shall have power... to declare war." And there has been no declaration of war.

The intent of a measure passed overwhelmingly by the Massachusetts legislature on April 1 and signed into law the following day by Gov. Francis W. Sargent is to challenge the legality of undeclared wars such as Viet Nam. It provides that "no inhabitant of the Commonwealth... shall be required to serve" in foreign wars where there has been no Congressional declaration of war.

The law's anti- war sponsors hope it will force the Supreme Court to rule that the conflict is being waged by the President without legal authority. Constitutional authorities such as Professor Alexander M. Bickel of Yale doubt whether the Massachusetts law is anything more than a symbolic gesture. But it spotlights what has become a key issue in American life-- the increasing tendency of Presidents to assume control over decisions involving peace or war.

The framers of the Constitution debated the question of war power at length in 1787. Having escaped a British King with power to declare war, they abhorred the idea of such power vested in an individual. They gave it to Congress. An approving Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1789: "We have already given... one effective check to the dog of war by transferring the power of declaring war from the executive to the legislative."

The expansion of Presidential power to use troops abroad began in the Caribbean under Theodore Roosevelt. Woodrow Wilson sent the army in pursuit of Pancho Villa without authorization of Congress. President Franklin D. Roosevelt cited his powers as Commander- in- Chief as authority for several pro- allied acts prior to the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor. President Truman never asked Congress for a declaration of war in Korea -- and waited until six months after the outbreak of hostilities to proclaim a state of national emergency.

President Johnson looked upon the Tonkin Gulf Resolution approved by Congress on Aug. 4, 1964, as his authority for expanding the war in Viet Nam. In 1967, Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach called the resolution the "functional equivalent" of a declaration of war. But Sen. Albert Gore (D- Tenn.) rejected this interpreation, declaring: "I did not vote for the resolution with any understanding that it was tantamount to a declaration of war."

Recently, attempts have been mounted to repeal -- or at least examine -- the Tonkin Gulf Resolution. The effort is spearheaded by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., (R-Md.), to "signal a new determination by Congress to exercise fully its powers on the vital questions of war and peace."

Significantly, the Massachusetts effort to determine legality of the war is being supported by both hawks and doves. The conservative Dallas Morning News has said: "The war should be declared. Until it is, the use of draftees could be legally questionable." And the liberal Boston Globe states that: "If... the President alone can send draftees into foreign combat under his powers as Commander- in- Chief, then it is part time for the people to be apprised of it."

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could do without:

City-written country music.

Real estate dealers who describe a quarter-acre plot as "an estate," and 1½-room apartments as "junior suites."

Discussions of world problems by politically illiterate movie stars.

Any new cocktails which try to marry the grape and the grain.

Hostesses who invite you to dinner and then serve a storebought pizza pie.

Restaurant patrons who think it is a panic to mock the pidgin English of Chinese waiters.

Actors who think the quickest way to stardom is to imitate Cary Grant.

All dishes made with either squash or eggplant.

Hat check chicks who make a fellow feel like Benedict Arnold if he only has 20 cents in change to leave as a tip.

Rouge prints on a highball glass.

Saucer-sized sunglasses worn by girls who lack the ingenuity to find more interesting ways to attract attention.

That "one for the road."

College presidents who speak of their students as the hope of tomorrow but personally find them the despair of today.

Cemeteries with fanciful names such as "Final Gardens," "Everlasting Heath," or "Gateway to Nirvana." (I'd rather be buried in one called "Moor to Come.")

Any "new" deodorant, toothpaste or laundry detergent put on the market only this morning to replace a deodorant, toothpaste or detergent that was "new" only the day before yesterday.

Women Santa Clauses.

Overly chummy ministers who like to be regarded as "just one of the boys."

Men who brag about how they keep their beards in shape by sleeping with them in hairnets.

The new arithmetic.

Lectures on sex by so-called authorities who seem to be determined to turn everybody else's boudoir into a public clinic.

Any humorous birthday greeting cards sent to a woman over 30 or a man over 40.

People who think they can brighten your life during the morning coffee break at the office by telling you in detail the plot of an old movie they saw the night before on the boob tube.

The high cost of either high or low living.

DEAR READERS. A friend of mine, Pat Snyders, of LaGrange, Illinois, sent me the following letter which was found in her mother's attic. The subject matter does not relate to recipes — but it certainly relates to ladies — so I thought my lady readers would find it amusing:

DECATUR, ALABAMA, JAN. 22ND, 1918

MESSRS. MARSHALL FIELD & CO.

GENTLEMEN,

WE HAVE YOUR LETTER OF THE 20TH, BEING IN REPLY TO OUR LETTER IN WHICH WE ADVISE YOU OF THE RETURN OF LADIES DRAWERS, LOT 3802, BECAUSE THEY WERE MINUS BUTTONS AND BUTTON HOLES. WE NOTE YOU SAY YOU DO NOT PUT THESE ON THIS PARTICULAR NUMBER AT THE LOW PRICE.

WE HARDLY THINK THE AVERAGE RETAILER OR CUSTOMER COULD APPRECIATE THE EXPEDIENCY OF LEAVING OFF THINGS LIKE THIS ON AS IMPORTANT A GARMENT AS DRAWERS, FOR THE SAKE OF A PRICE. ON THE SAME THEORY, YOU MIGHT LEAVE OFF ONE OF THE LEGS, AND MAKE THE PRICE STILL LOWER, AND BY THE SAME ANALYSIS OF REASONING TO LEAVE OFF BOTH LEGS, YOU COULD GIVE US A GENUINE BARGAIN IN PRICE, BUT IT WOULD BE NOTHING IN DRAWERS.

DRAWERS — THE PRICE — SHOULD NEVER BE LOWERED FOR THE LACK OF BUTTONS AND BUTTON HOLES. THE AVERAGE LADY OF OUR COUNTRY WOULD PREFER TO PAY A PRICE THAT WOULD KEEP HER DRAWERS UP. WE CERTAINLY THINK YOU HAVE UNDERTAKEN TO SKIMP AND TO ECONOMIZE AT AN ILL CHOSEN POINT.

PLEASE LET US HAVE AT ONCE, THE DRAWERS WE RETURNED WITH BUTTONS AND BUTTON HOLES IN THEM, OR SOME OTHER STYLE EQUIPPED AT THE SAME PRICE.

VERY TRULY,
WILLIAMSON & NICHOLS

THERE IS NO ESCAPE

Where there is smoke, there is fire- so goes the old expression. It appears particularly applicable to present discussions of federal tax reform. One of the last official acts of the Johnson Administration was to submit proposed changes in the tax laws to make the system more equitable and to extend its reach to incomes that it has been claimed escape their share of the tax load. The Nixon Administration is also concerned with tax reform.

For longer than most of us can remember, there have been proposals of one kind or another to improve and reform the tax laws, but instead of reform, taxes have gotten higher and the rules more complicated year after year.

Perhaps at last, the pressure of taxpayer resentment will force change, but no miracles should be expected -- and least of all a substantial lessening of the tax burden. As long as the cost of government continues to rise disproportionately to the productive capacity of the people, taxes will become increasingly burdensome. Reform of the tax laws may mean more equitable treatment of taxpayers. But, reform should not be confused with reduction. Because of their number, the great body of U.S. citizens of modest means, in the future as in the past, will remain the main target of the tax collector. There is no other way.

RENT A CASTLE, SERF?

Talk bout castles in Spain.

The Castles Association, which counts about 1,000 castle buffs around the world as members, reports that the area which today is the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) once had as many as 18,000 castles and palaces.

Surprisingly, 15,500 of these edifices are still around. Of the original number, 2,500 have disappeared entirely and 8,500 are more or less in ruined condition. But 5,000 are still inhabited and 2,000, while unused, are habitable and available.

Give you any ideas? Forget it.

The association says that many of these castles change hands with regularity, generally because the initial enthusiasm at so romantic a possession is soon followed by discouragement at the high cost of upkeep.

They just don't make serfs like they used to.

A pretty stewardess on a Washington- Miami flight had her hands full fending off two drunks who would not let up. The one seated in the front of the plane was doing his best to persuade her to come to his apartment. At the rear, the second drunk was trying for an invite to her apartment.

As the plane headed for the runway, the front- seat pest handed her a key and a slip of paper on which he had written his address. "Here's the key and my address," he whispered. "See you tonight?"

"Okay," she whispered back with a smile as she headed for the drunk at the rear.

She handed him the key and slip of paper and said, "Don't be late."

H.L. Hunt Says

Officer Harold L. Hamilton of San Francisco lost his life in a gun battle with bank robbers. Tragedies like these are happening with increasing frequency all over the country.

But Officer Hamilton was not to be laid to rest in peace. A time bomb planted before his funeral rocked St. Brendan's Church, throwing nails, screws and bolts as far as 400 feet. Fortunately there were no injuries, althoug an officer stood withing 10 feet of the explosion.

Governor Ronald Reagan described the bombing as part of the "fiendish tactics" of revolutionaries. The act did bear the savage earmarks of the anarchists who are bombing buildings, both public and private, without regard to dangers to human beings.

There may have been serious injury or murder at Officer Hamilton's funeral had not the service been delayed 10 minutes for the late arrival of the San Francisco mayor.

For the criminal element of his country, especially the subsersives and treason-minded cells of the extremist groups, life has become cheap. We read personal histories of some of the se anarchists who seem willing to bomb and die, if necessary, to overthrow our government. Governor Reagan is right when he called the San Francisco bombing the tactics of the revolutionaries.

It is past time for all of us to demand that these criminal acts not go unpunished. The law and the enforcers of the law must be tough. We must insist that our elected officials put teeth into enforcement.

There have been too many Officer Hamilton cases in recent months. If something isn't done to stop them, there will be no need for brave men like Officer Hamilton. There will be nothing left to defend. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The Peace Corps' noble experiment with American Indian recruits has ended in wholesale resignations, firings and a clumsy effort to cover up the debacle.

The disaster was so embarrassing to the peace Corps that its formal evaluation report on the "Peace Pipe Project" has been classified "Confidential, Authorized Eyes Only."

This column has now obtained a copy of the 54-page document, which blames the administrators, not the Indians, for the failure. "Racism.... bungling...bureaucratic deafness (and)...sheer ignorance," destroyed the Peace Pipe program and embittered many of the young Indians, charges the Office of Evaluation report.

The idea of sending Indians overseas as Peace Corps volunteers was adopted by the former director, Jack Vaughn, with the encouragement of Sen. Fred Harris, D—Okla., and his Comanche wife. The program finally fizzled out just after the new director, Joseph Blatchford, took office.

PEACE PIPE FLICKERS OUT

"Peace Pipe II" was supposed to profit by the mistakes. Some 33 optimistic Indians enrolled. During training in Puerto Rico, four quit. Six more dropped out after the group moved to California for advance training. When the survivors were assigned to Colombia, ten more quit. Firings, the draft and medical problems forced out most of the rest. In less than a year, only four remained.

Declares the report: "If one could imagine a totally evil man and suspect him of the worst sort of motivations toward American Indians, it would be difficult to conceive of him doing a more thorough job of messing with lives than the Peace Corps has accomplished...

"The Peace Corps has extremely limited capacity to tolerate, much less to include, people of minority backgrounds--in fact, the system has been designed to reject them, one way or another."

The report charges the Indians were not trained for Colombia, were discriminated against on draft deferments, were lied to about assignments and got such miserable medical care that many were ill for weeks with diarrhea, chills, cramps and fever.

The Peace Corps director for Colombia, in fact, didn't even know how many Indians had been assigned to him or where they had been sent. The deputy director thought there was only one volunteer in Colombia, when in fact there were five.

"No one was in control of it. The buck was passed rapidly, sometimes back and forth"...The administrative bungling was unbelievable," states the report.

DOOMED TO FAILURE

The young Indians were told by one training official that "the program was doomed to be a failure." Another Indian youth grumped: "Peace Pipe seems like an effort to make us nice little WASPS so that we can fit in."

An outside consultant, according to the evaluation office, viewed the program with open disgust. Said the consultant: "Anyone who doubts there was racism can look at what Peace Corps did to help the two Indians who had draft problems. Nothing at all--while everyone was killing themselves for some of the white trainees."

Meanwhile the young Indians began to drift. "During 12 weeks of training, the trainees learned virtually nothing about what they would be doing or where they would be doing it." says the report.

"Does Peace Corps really believe that white 23-year-old, urban college graduates constitute our only manpower supply?" ask the evalutors. Quite the contrary should be true, they reply.

"Young American Indian men and women....have the basic skills and the savvy our host (countries) are asking for--in agriculture, in animal husbandry and in general knowledge of the possiblilities for change in rural life."

The report urges another try at Peace Pipe, which Blatchford has rejected. However, Peace Corps insiders say that Blatchford has at least learned from the Peace Corps report. His handling of minority volunteers is more sensitive than in the days before the Peace Pipe program's "unqualified disaster."

In fact, this week Blatchford named William Tutman, former Peace Corps country directoy in Tanzania, as head of a new Office of Minority Affairs. Tutman is supposed to guide minority business to Peace Corps contracts and to press recruiting of minority volunteers into the Peace Corps.

EGYPTIAN MISSILES

Intelligence reports partially confirm the Cairo claim that Egyptians are manning the missiles in the Suez truce zone. Apparently the Russians will remain only long enough to teach the Egyptians how to operate their sophisticated new missiles.

The Russians have tried to keep their men out of combat in the Middle East except in emergencies. Soviet pilots, for example, flew some combat missions during the final stages of the fighting and a number of Soviet pilots were shot down.

Proof of this was picked up by the U.S. monitors which listened in on the secret radio frequencies that the pilots used. There is evidence, however, that the Soviets want to keep their men out of the fighting.

Shoot to Kill Police -Fire Fighters' Fury Over Militants Threatens Liberal-Labor Coalitions Strength

Washington: -- These are tough times. There's blood in the gutters -- policemen's blood. So there's tough talk. Just a few days ago husky Ed Kiernan, leader of the New York City's 25,000-member Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn., jabbed a finger at this columnist and said his men want the right to "shoot back and to shoot to kill."

They do not have this right. But, says Ed Kiernan, "my men are engaged in guerrilla warfare just as the soldiers are in Vietnam and they should have the same latitude as the soldiers in the field to protect themselves..."

Neither Ed Kiernan nor any of the nation's 325,000 uniformed patrolmen want anyone's blood on their hands. But cops scare, too. Especially in ambush. And today there are young cops -- averaging between 24 and 28 years of age in many big cities. So in New York the other day the PBA demanded a shotgun be standard equipment in "every radio patrol car."

This came shortly after the unaffiliated patrolmen's union had asked Mayor John Lindsay for what appears to be a $250 million annual wage-fringe-pension increase in exchange for the old 27-month pact expiring New Years's Eve. Later Ed Kiernan -- himself still a cop -- told me, "I don't doubt for 30 seconds there will be job action if we don't get what we want."

That's shop talk for strike. The cops are angry. So are the unionized fire fighters. They are polarized. They say there's just not enough money to compensate for the assualts on them, the sneak attacks, the killings while they're on duty -- not killings by thieves or thugs or organized gangsters but by militants.

It was to end this polarization, I believe, that Al Barkan, National Director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), invited into his office a month ago John Cassese, former PBA chief who now is organizing the International Brotherhood of Police Officers.Also asked in was William Howard McClennan, president of the International Assn. of Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO). Here in COPE'S office, Alex Barkan, his publicists and the two men personifying the nation's cops and firemen developed some depolarization plans for the interim between that day and Election Day.

Director Barkan's point had simple political logic. The cops -- some 30 of whom have been killed since July 1 and some 600 injured -- have been fighting mad. They have blamed the assaults and the lack of authority to shoot back automatically on incumbent office holders. The uniformed men have equated this with "permissiveness" -- and permissiveness with the liberal-labor coalition.

So strategist Barkan asked "Howie" McClennan and John Cassese to do a team bit. He urged them to hit the hustings for the following week and speak to uniformed men and their families in states with close senatorial and gubernatorial races. In these states a few thousands votes could make or break a candidate.

So Messrs. Casses, whose national union now has 41 police locals, and McClennan went on the road, shuttling between New York and Washington at one end, and Utah and Califronia at the other - with stops, of course, in Ohio and Indiana.

They barnstormed for such liberal-coalitionist as Indiana's Vance Harke, California's John Tunney, Ohio's Howard Metzenbaum and John Gilligan (gubernatorial candidate) and Utah's Frank Moss.

Their argument as they went side by side pivoted on the belief that the labor coalition candidates would support bills already in committees on the Hill which would make it a federal offense to attack a policeman or fire fighter while on duty.

These bills would also guarantee an adequate income to widows and families of police and fire fighters killed on duty. Also for the men themselves if they survived the assaults but were disabled.

Labor.s politicos appeared indeed satisfied with the duo's campaign appeal. For, on Oct. 28, fire fighters chief McClennan received the following telegram from Alex Barkan:

"Reports I have had from our people in California, Utah, Indiana, Ohio and elsewhere indicated excellent results from their meetings and from the special program you have helped establish. This could be extremely significant in these key states. I really appreciate your help in this and I am convinced it will be most effective."

Just how effective was the appeal to the cops and firemen can't be judged. Not for weeks until the election's final figures are broken down precinct by precinct, union by union.

Strength of this vote, however, will only measure the anger of men being moweddown in unprovoked attacks. The unformed men are polarized, all right. Ed Kiernan, for example, now is lobbying for a bill which would give the states or the federal government, the right to set up policemen's human rights commissions. The cops want a tripartite review board of federal or state officials, policemen's leaders and prominent citizens. The police want a board to which to go for redress, just as there are civilian police review boards.

It's true that such cops' unions as the New York PBA want big money -- $88 million in wage hikes alone in one year. But it is also true they want an additional 20 per cent across-the-board hazard pay while on duty -- any duty. This could come to more than $75 million a year.

But the cops say what good is money if you get mowed down in ambush or unprovoked attacks. So say the fire fighters.

What say the people -- all the people, every single one?

Gray Ridge participates in clinic

Friday morning, 58 children participated in a physical examination clinic at the Big Ridge Head Start Center. This clinic was conducted in conjunction with the health program that was initiated in 1964 by Sargent Shriver and Pediatrician J. Richmond, Dean of Syracuse Medical School.

Each child was given a complete and comprehensive physical examination by Alan S. Gubin, M.D., Medical Director for the Delta Area Program. Dr. Gubin was assisted by Mrs. Jeanne Littell, Nursing Coordinator; Mrs. Darlene Gilliam, Big Ridge Center Nurse and Mrs. Mary Malone. Mrs. Malone was in charge of taking blood samples to check for anemia.

Twenty of the children examined were from Gray Ridge Head Start. they were brought to the Big Ridge Center by Mr. Max Owens, Center Coordinator, in order that they might participate in the clinic.

The clinic was completed by noon. After lunch, the children were given a Halloween Party. Each child had a gingerbread man, games and a sack of Halloween candy to take home.

Mrs. Jean Geske is coordinator for the Big Ridge center.

NEW YORK (AP) — Guns have entered the fashion world.

Designer Rudi Gernreich didn't crack a smile as his models came out Wednesday in buff knit pants outfits, toy shoulder rifles, GI dog tags, goggles and caps. No one else smiled either.

Finally, Gernreich said, "At this point you probably all think that I'm a member of the silent majority," and the audience laughed.

If there was puzzlement, at first, over Gernreich's militant look, perhaps it was because so many designers are doing old world clothes with ruffles and flounces for spring.

Not Gernreich. As always, his clothes are pared down for action.

This season's fashion mood is meant to reflect the times in general, he said.

However, when one model saw the collection for Harmon knitwear– $35- $85 – she commented, "Oh, you're doing a back to school collection:"

Gernreich said, "Some people will say that I'm for war. I'm not... I certainly hope that guns won't become chic...

"I do know that clothes must relate, and designers today are totally funking out. In a way, I'm saying to them, 'Don't you know what's going on?"

BUILDING CHANGES

NEW YORK (AP) — "By the middle of the 70's almost no one will be building single-use building spaces for individual congregations," says the Rev. Dr. Edward S. Frey, head of an architecture commission of the Lutheran Church in America.

Most future church "building and remodeling and salvage will be carried out by clusters of congregations under consolidated denominational boards," he said, with separate denominational agencies left to concentrate on planning, education and ministries rather than buildings.

Wig News

by Dorothy Wardlaw

In our study of Wigs we find that the custom of wearing wigs dates back to ancient times, and down thru the years they have been a fashionable item of dress. But to many wigs are still one of our newest beauty accessories. One reason this is true, until in recent years they were so expensive only the very rich could afford them. But much progress has been made in the manufacture of wigs, both in quality and price.

Hair fashions today and for the future will be one of the most comforting beauty accessories of all time when the facts of ease and beauty are brought to your attention.

Next week we will start our discussion on how wiga are made.

Sex education not plot by Communists says reader

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who lives in California. I am just sick about what has happened to the sex education program out here. A bunch of people got together and decided sex education was a Communist plot and they threw the whole program out of the public school system.

The idea that children should learn the facts of life from their parents is beautiful.. It also is impossible in most families. For example, my mother is a lovely lady but she is the last person in the world I'd talk to about sex. When I asked her some questions two years ago (I was 12 then) she blushed and got flustered. Finally, she offered to make an appointment with our family doctor because "he could explain things better." I told her not to bother. He is older than my grandfather and has a very stiff personality.

Not one of my girl friends has been taught about sex by her parents. Either the parents are too embarassed or they goof it up by tring to scare the kids to death. I asked a teacher in school (she is against sex education) if she really believed it was a Communist plot. She said, "No. The real reason is that adults are afraid if they talk about sex in school the kids will get aroused and go out and experiment!" What do you think about this? ---Ignorant In Orange County.

Dear I.I. O. C.: While I do not endorse all the material which has been prepared for use in public schools, most of it is excellent. I'd hate to see the entire program scrapped because of some tasteless cartoon of chickens and dogs copulating and a mama doll and papa doll in bed.

The ideal place for children to learn about sex is at home. But for the reasons you stated, very few children DO learn at home. The information they pick up on the street is often incomplete or incorrect and it makes kids think sex is dirty. The notion that sex, if discussed in school, will arouse kids and encourage experimentation is a joke. Kids ARE experimenting, they have always experimented and they will continue to experiment. Sex drives are inborn. Pretending they do not exist will not cause them to disappear. Kids need to accept their sexuality as part of a well intergrated personality. Moreover, they must be taught to handle their sexual impulses in a socially acceptable manner.

Dear Ann Landers: May I comment on the letter from Mrs. 888-- the woman who was mad because the 3-year-old boy next door ran around the yard naked and "cheapend the neighborhood."

As a mother of eight children I can tell you that boys are a lot harder to raise than girls. I had four of each. Every one of my boys used to take off his clothes and run outside whenever my back was turned. The girls never did this.

Our youngest boy was the worst. He could get his clothers off faster than a streak of lightening. We'd be on the way to church, Ann, our son walking a few feet behind (in cold weather, too) and when we'd arrive at the church steps we'd discover he was stark naked and his clothes had been dropped piece by piece for blocks.

So tell Mrs. 888 that the boy's mother might not be to blame. Kids do peculiar things. ---One Who Knows

Dear One: Never having had a boy, I can't say from experience that you are right or wrong. I do have a four-year-old grandson, however, and so far as I know he has always kept his clothes on outside. Thanks for writing.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become to hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Committee Chairmen Workshop was the program when King's Highway Chapter DAR met with Mrs. F. D. Rolwing in Charleston, November 2. Members from East Prairie, Charleston and Sikeston attended the meeting.

Mrs. Alex C. Waters, Jr. accepted the Motion Picture Chairmanship for 1970 - 71. This committee was restored to national status in April, 1966. Purposes of this Committee are: encourage motion pictures favoring the American ideals and emphasize parental responsibility in motion picture selection. Pictures are previewed by a workshop Committee of 12 national organizations, including DAR, called the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations. The resulting composite opinion forms "Film Reports" (published monthly) is available without charge to libraries, schools, community centers and similar institutions. This national Board meets once a week to discuss films and give a suggested classification of motion pictures.

In addition to chapter committee plans, Miss Margaret Harris gave a study of the Resolutions adopted by the Seventy- ninth Continental Congress of the National Society.

Flood's Pact Needs Approval

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Curt Flood's contract with the Washington Senators is a conditional pact that still requires the approval of attorneys involved in his suit against baseball, The Associated Press learned today.

At the same time, it also was learned that the contract calls for a salry of $110,000 for the 1971 season—$20,000 more than Flood was paid in 1969 during his last active season with the St. Louis Cardinals.

In announcing Flood's signing, the Senators implied that all outstanding issues had been resolved. But a source close to the controverial outfielder, who still has a $4.1 million antitrust suit pending against baseball, disputed that.

According to the source, "the contract is conditional because of a special covenant which says attorneys on both sides must agree on the wording of a stipulation that the signing is without prejudice to the lawsuit."

The Senators said Flood has signed the standard player's contract containing the reserve clause that binds a player to the club which signs him until he is either traded, sold or released, and that Commissioner Bowie Kuhn had approved.

"The legal aspects were worked out with the help of Arthur Goldberg, Flood's attorney," the club said.

"Mr. Goldberg has not seen the contract," the source explained. "All that he has seen is a special covenant which simply states that the entire contract is conditional on the attorneys for both sides agreeing on the language with respect to the fact that the contract-signing would not prejudice the law suit."

The wording is considered extremely important because Flood has signed a contract that contains the same reserve clause that he is challenging in court. He sat out the 1970 season while his case was heard in Federal Court in New York.

The Federal Court ruled against Flood in the first phase of the case and an appeal now is pending. It is expected that there will be no final determination until the issue is set before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The $110,000 contract would make Flood the third member of the Senators to be paid in excess of $100,000 a year. The others are slugger Frank Howard and controversial pitcher Denny McLain, another recent addition.

According to the Senators, Flood signed the contract in New York Tuesday night after Kuhn cleared the way by approving a trade with Philadelphia that sent utility outfielder Greg Goossen and minor leaguers Gene Martin and Jeff Terpko to Philadelphia.

The Phillies, who originally acquired Flood from St. Louis in the Richie Allen trade, had given the Senators permission to negotiate with Flood with the proviso a trade would be concluded in compensation if Washington could get him to sign.

The schedule for Flood calls for him to get his belongings together in Copenhagen, Denmark, where he has personal business, then report to the Senators' team in the Florida Winter Instructional League at St. Petersburg.

Breathless Situation

BRANSON — For the last several years, the fabulous trout fishing in Lake Taneycomo has had fishermen gasping. Now, water pollution has the trout doingthe same.

Fish, just as humans, need oxygen to stay alive. Because of a continuing flush of low-oxygen water from Table Rock Lake, there is barely enough oxygen in the entire 21-mile length of Taneycomo to keep the famed trophy trout alive.

The condition apparently started about the first week in October when fishing success suddenly ceased and may continue until December when the annual "turnover" of Lake Table Rock mixes enough oxygen to revive Taneycomo.

The situation came to light when oxygen tests by the Department of Conservation showed readings below three parts per million of oxygen in Lake Taneycomo.

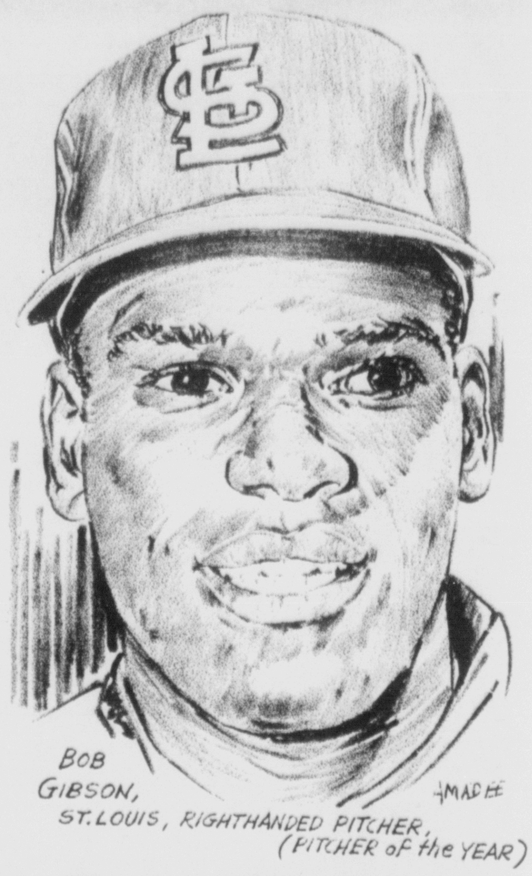
The Department has launched an intensive investigation into the cause of the drastic oxygen loss. It immediately requested the Corps of Engineers, which operates Table Rock Dam, to pump water through no more than two of the four generators which take water through the bottom of the dam, and mix in an amount of water equivalent to the flow through the other two generators by letting oxygenrich surface water over the top of the dam.

The Corps did pump water over the top for one night, Oct. 27-28, but then shut down and resumed pumping low oxygen water the next morning.

Lake Taneycomo runs for 21 miles below Table Rock Dam and water levels fluctuate considerably, depending on how many of the four generators at the dam are running.

Always before, oxygen tests of Taneycomo showed saturation of about 12 parts per million. Virtually all fish life is threatened any time readings fall below four parts per million. In the past year, two state record fish -- rainbow trout and carp -- have been caught from Lake Taneycomo. Last year, one of the nation's largest walleyes (16 pounds, eight ounces) was caught in the lake.

A stopgap solution of sorts could come when Table Rock Lake "turns over" in December. Lakes, such as Table Rock "turn over" or exchange layers of cold warm water twice each year (spring and fall) at which time oxygen is thoroughly mixed in the lake.



A-State Pads Grid Poll Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas State, after boosting its record to 7-0 with a 69-7 rout over Lamar Tech last Saturday, increased its first place lead over Montana this week in The Associated Press College Division Football Poll.

With five first-place votes, one more than last week, Arkansas State compiled 242 points in the balloting by sports writers and sportscasters throughout the country while Montana had two top votes and 199 points.

Arkansas State led only 257251 the previous week when Montana also had four firstplace votes. Montana, 8-0, squeaked past Portland 31-25 last Saturday.

Montana also stood in danger of drooping as North Dakota State, 7-0-1, took third place, switching places with Tampa on the strength of a 35-0 victory over South Dakota State. North Dakota totaled 194 points; Tampa, with one top vote after a 1410 victory over Louisiana Tech for a 7-0 mark, had 181.

Western Kentucky, No. 5, switched places with Tennessee State, No. 6, while Southwest Louisiana made the biggest jump from ninth to seventh after a 9-7 victory over Northeast Louisiana.

Delaware dropped one uotch to eighth; Wofford, No. 9, moved up one place, and Southern Illinois dropped two places to 10th despite mauling Bradley 69-3.

Eastern Kentucky made the biggest jump in the Top Twenty, from 19th to 14, while Boise State dropped from 15th to a tie for 19th.

The only new team is Jacksonville, Ala., No. 18, while Springfield, Mass., which held that slot, fell from the rankings.

The Top Twenty teams, with first place votes in parentheses and total points on 20-18-14-12-10 through 1 formula:

1. Arkansas State (5) 242
2. Montana (2) 199
3. North Dakota State 194
4. Tampa (1) 181
5. West. Kentucky (1) 169
6. Tennessee State 137
7. Southwest Louisiana 108
8. Delaware (1) 103
9. Wofford (2) 100
10. Southern Illinois (1) 59
11. Wittenburg 57
12. Texas A&I (1) 55
13. Alcorn A&M 48
14. Eastern Kentucky 47
15. Linfield (Ore.) (1) 42
16. Abilene Christian 34
17. St. Olaf 31
18. Jacksonville (Ala.) 24
19. (tie) Boise State 22
Grambling 22

The Reason

In the Middle Ages, the people of Europe made maps by reading the Bible. In the Bible, it says that Jerusalem is surrounded by cities, therefore they put Jerusalem in the center of their maps.

Jones Boys Pace Pros

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was another perfect night for the Utah Stars and the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association, something the Cougars could do without.

The Stars rolled up their eighth victory this season without a loss by staving off the Indiana Pacers 102-99 at Indianapolis, Ind., in a battle of Western Division contenders.

But on the other end of the court, the Cougars were running their record to 0-9 by collapsing before the Kentucky Colonels 127-105 at Louisville, Ky.

In the only other game, the Memphis Pros held off the Floridians 112-106 at Memphis, Tenn.

In the National Basketball Association, Phoenix clobbered Cincinnati 133-115, Boston nipped Philadelphia 115-113, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 110-108, Seattle mauled Buffalo 126-101, Detroit moved past Atlanta 117105, San Francisco whipped Baltimore 111-100 and New York downed San Diego 109-100.

The Stars, expected to battle the Pacers and Denver for the West crown, took an early lead, but Indiana pulled even at 83 with seven minutes left. However, Don Freeman, who scored 24 points, put the Stars ahead to stay with a basket moments later.

Freddie Lewis had 28 points for the Pacers, now 7-4 after winning the East and the ABA title last season and then switching divisions.

The hapless Cougars fell behind midway through the first period and never caught up, although Kentucky played most of the contest with high-scoring center Dan Issel on the bench in foul trouble. Louie Dampier led the Colonels with 20 points while Joe Caldwell had 22 for the Cougars.

Memphis jumped to a 61-41 lead, then 76-53, only to have Mack Calvin, the ABA's leading scorer, and Warren Davis pull the Floridians within 106-102. But Steve Jones hit two baskets and Jimmy Jones one to pull the Pros ahead 112-102.

Alcindor Scores 53

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Alcindor seems to have shifted into high gear as the Milwaukee Bucks begin to pick up speed in their chase after Detroit, but the Pistons don't seem to be slowing down.

The Pistons, the surprise club of the National Basketball Association, beat the Atlanta Hawks in Atlanta 117-105 Wednesday night for their 11th victory in 12 starts this season.

The Pistons, picked to finish far behind the Bucks in the Midwest Division, thus held onto their lead, although Alcindor poured in 53 points to lead the Bucks past the bedraggled Cleveland Cavaliers 110-108 in Cleveland.

The Cavaliers are now 0-12, three defeats shy of the NBA record for consecutive losses at the start of a season and six short of the record for any time.

In other games, Seattle added to the woes of Buffalo, another expansion team, beating the host Braves 126-101; Boston nipped Philadelphia 115-113; visiting Phoenix outshot Cincinnati 133-115 and on the West Coast, New York trimmed San Diego 109-100 and San Francisco turned back Baltimore 111-100.

The hero for Detroit this time was reserve guard Howard Komives, who hit three baskets in a row at the start of the fourth period to turn an 83-81 lead into an eight-point spread, leaving the Hawks behind to stay.

Dave Bing led Detroit with 25 points, and Lou Hudson had 21 for Atlanta, the Central Division favorite now saddled with a 2-6 record.

Cleveland took a 62-51 lead at halftime despite Alcindor's 35 points. However, the Bucks, now 6-1, pulled ahead 101-96 with four minutes left. The Cavaliers got within 106-104 and then 110-108, but John Johnson missed a final shot and Alcindor grabbed the rebound with 11 seconds to go.

Seattle shot into a 23-5 lead and Buffalo never got closer than 13 again as the Braves lost their seventh straight for a 1-8 mark. Tom Merschery had 22 points for the SuperSonics and Don May 23 for Buffalo.

John Havlicek, who totaled 37 points, and rookie Dave Cowens scored seven straight points in the final minute, 34 seconds to lift Boston from a one point deficit to its third straight victory.

Clem Haskins, Dick Van Arsdale and Connie Hawkins each scored 25 points as Phoenix took a 15-point lead in the first quarter and sailed in.

Walt Frazier powered New York's 11th victory in 13 games at the expense of San Diego with 25 points, 16 in the first half. Substitute Mike Riordan contributed 23 points for the Knicks, who built a 56-46 halftime lead. Stu Lantz topped the Rockets with 28.

San Francisco's triumph over Baltimore broke a three-game losing streak as Jeff Mullins led the way with 35 points for the Warriors. Earl Monroe of the Bullets captured game scoring honors with 30.

Barber, Gibson Top Area Scoring

The Southeast Missouri prep grid scoring race shapes up between members of the southern division as the season moves into its ninth week Friday.

Charlie Barber, Malden's hard-charging back, has accumulated 16 touchdowns and 16 extra points for 112 points in eight games while Dexter's Terry Gibson has totaled 13 TD's and six extra points for 84.

Barber and Gibson will clash in the season final at Malden when Dexter calls in a battle for the Southern Division title, that could also take on the battle for the district scoring championship as Gibson will likely move in on Barber, who's team is idle this week, in a game with Kennett tomorrow evening.

East Prairie's Henry Franklin is a distant third in the race, with 54 points on nine TD's while the Northern Division's lead is held by Poplar Bluff's J. B. Hayes with 36 points ad the Bootheel is headed by a tie between Amick and Dodson of Illmo-Scott City.

Carl Cross, Cape Central's extra point specialest, tops the district's kickers with 16 extra points and four field goals. Caruthersville's Mike McKaskle has 15 extra points and one field goal while Mike Girvin of Portageville has 13 extra points and four field goals.

The Northern Division has only three players scoring over 30 points this season while the Southern has 14 players past that mark, including seven with 40 or better, one with 50 or better, one with 80 or better and one over 100.

Ali-Bonavena Fight Expected

NEW YORK (AP) - There's big doings in boxing today.

Madison Square Garden is hosting a press conference, with all the fixings, at which formal announcement is expected to be made that Muhammad Ali and Oscar Bonavena will meet in a 15-round heavyweight bout at the Garden on Monday night, Dec. 7.

Harry Markson, director of boxing at the Garden, did not specify the principals or the date in announcing the press conference.

The Associated Press learned that the occasion was to be the setting for the formal signing for the fight by Ali also known as Cassius Clay, and by the South American socker from Buenos Aires.

Bonavena was scheduled to leave Buenos Aires Wednesday, but his departure was delayed until today because his mother-in-law underwent an operation.

Thus Bonavena is not expected to be at the press conference which Markson said would go on as scheduled.

"Ali will be there and Bonevna's manager," Markson said, pointing out that under New York rules a manager can sign a contract for his fighter.

Markson, a veteran in the sport, said "I never said the fight would be on Dec. 7." He added: "I have learned not to announce anything until the contract are signed."

"I'm going to beat Clay," Bonavena said in Buenos Aires Wednesday night. "I'm not going to repeat Quarry's mistakes. I intend to attack and hit hard. Clay had better take care to avoid my punches if he doesn't want to be beaten by a knockout."

He referred to Clay's three round TKO over Jerry Quarry in Atlanta on Oct. 26 in the first bout for the former heavy champion in 3½ years.

The Bonavena fight would be Ali's second on the road he hopes will lead to a title bout with Joe Frazier, the current heavy king of the world.

Irish Are The Best!

CHICAGO (AP) — Which is the better team — Notre Dame or Ohio State or possibly Michigan?

The Ohio State-Michigan argument will be resolved Nov. 21 when the two teams meet. But what about second-ranked Notre Dame and third-ranked Ohio State?

They don't play, but a couple of coaches who took their lumps from both teams shed some light on the matter.

Northwestern's Alex Agase, who opened the season by losing to Notre Dame 35-14 and last week lost to Ohio State 2410, flatly says, "On the days we played them, Notre Dame was the better team and Joe Theismann was a more effective q7arterback than Rex Kern."

Agase's thinking apparently has been reflected in The Associated Press poll which has seen Om8o State slip from No. 1 to No. 3 behind Texas and Notre Dame 8n two weeks despite the fact the Buckeyes have remained undefeated. 6D7ffy Daugherty of Michigan State apparently also leans towards Notre Dame although his Spartans lost to both powers.

Northwestern's Alex Agase, who opened the season by losing to Notre Dame 35-14 and last week lost to Ohio State 2410, flatly says, "On the days we played them, Notre Dame was the better team and Joe Theismann was a more effective quarterback than Rex Kern."

Agase's thinking apparently has been reflected in The Associated Press poll which has seen Ohio State slip from No. 1 to No. 3 behind Texas and Notre Dame in two weeks despite the fact the Buckeyes have remained undefeated.

Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State apparently also leans towards Notre Dame although his Spartans lost to both powers by identical 29-0 scores.

"Ohio State is more explosive on offense," Daugherty told the Chicago football writers via a telephone hookup Tuesday. "Notre Dame is stronger defensively, has more consistent quarterbacking in combining the running and passing games."

Daugherty's Spartans also lost to fifth-ranked Michigan, 34-20, and he said of the Wolverines:

"Michigan defensively is equal to or better than both teams and its quarterback, Don Moorhead, is great on third down plays against Wisconsin and he did the same thing against us.

"A quarterback of this stature inspires a team," added Daugherty. "And he also gets you on the scoreboard."

Ara Parseghian, who makes no bones about the fact that Notre Dame's main objective is to win the national championship and to do so, a team has to finish No. 1, had an explanation for Ohio State's slide from first to third.

"Pollsters are influenced by the method of winning," said Ara. "Polls at best are guesswork which distinguish teams which are winning.

"There is small, if any, difference between teams ranked No. 1 or No. 2 or even No. 9 or No. 10 for that matter."

Parseghian agreed that the possibility is strong for a rematch of top-ranked Texas and Notre Dame in a postseason clash.

"So many things can happen," cautioned Parseghian. "It is conceivable the two teams could again meet in the Cotton Bowl. It is conceivable Notre Dame might go to another bowl and it is conceivable that Notre Dame will not go to any bowl."

N. Pemiscot Is Favorite

WARDELL—North Peniscot was placed in the favorite role by the eight coaches who have entered teams in the annual North Pemiscot invitational basketball tournament, which begins Nov. 16 at the Ross high school gym.

Holcomb, Caruthersville and Risco were rated in that order behind the host in the tournament which will feature a losers bracket.

Action gets underway on the 16th as North Pemiscot goes against Clarkton at 6:30p.m. and Risco meets Naylor at 8p.m. First round action ends Tuesday as Holcomb collides with Campbell at 6:30p.m. and Caruthersville faces Gideon at 8p.m. Winners move toward the title while the losers go into the losers bracket.

Glance At Poetry

By Charles Francis Brady

Today's column contains an interview with a contributor to this column, the second time I've conducted something like this.

Charlotte Rae Brady, 23, Monett, Mo., is my guest. She is also my sister.

Miss Brady is a very energetic person, very much caught up in today's world, and very much concerned with American society with all its trials and tribulations.

She is a very sensitive person with definite religious beliefs who cares about her fellow man. Although strongly a part of America and being a young person in an explosive epoch of time, she strangely blends a part of the past in her life.

She is very much a supporter of America and all it stands for -- the democratic government system, law and order, freedom of all kinds, and the stars and stripes. I guess you could call her super patriotic for whatever connotation that word has applied to it now when it seems every belief has some sort of name tag or double standard. I just call her an American. We need more people like her.

Now to the interview:

Ed. - When did you first get interested in poetry as near as you can remember?

C.R.B. - During my senior high school English class when we were studying Canterbury Tales by Chaucer.

Ed. - Why do you write poetry? By that, I mean, what motivates you to write?

C.R.B. - My own inner feelings.

Ed. - Do you write any specific type of poetry? Why or why not?

C.R.B. - No. Because I write my poetry about the way I feel when I'm writing.

Ed.- What is your favorite theme in writing a poem?

C.R.B. - Life.

Ed. - Is there any particular style of poetry that you like to write best, such as a sonnet, free verse, blank verse, etc.?

C.R.B.- Lyric poetry.

Ed.- Do you need to be in a certain mood to write?

C.R.B. - Yes, usually depressed to write my best poetry.

Ed.- What is your most common poetic mood?

C.R.B.- Lonely.

Ed.- What is your favorite type of poem to read and your less favorite to read and why?

C.R.B. - My favorite type to read is humorous. My less favorite is free verse by contemporary poets. Humorous because I like to notice the originality of poets adapting poetic styles to humor. Free verse is my less favorite because free verse today seems to pertain to subjects that don't interest me.

Ed. - Do you have a favorite poem or poet and, if so, what and whom?

C.R.B. - Yes, "The Epitaph" by Dorothy Parker, is my favorite poem. My favorite poet is William Blake.

Ed.- There is much talk these days about poetry in popular music. Do you think there is any relation?

C.R.B.- Yes, I do. The free verse that's in popular music is the best poetry there is. An example is "Summer Rain" by Johnny Rivers.

Ed. - What is your favorite poet- songwriter?

C.R.B. - Neil Diamond.

Ed. - Do you think there can be poetic expression in music without the words?

C.R.B. - Yes.

Ed.- Can you cite an example?

C.R.B. - "Love is Blue" by Paul Mauriet. Music expresses personal feelings the same as poetry.

Ed. - Have you had any of your poetry published?

C.R.B. - In newspapers, yes.

Ed. — Do you plan to sell some of your poetic works?

C.R.B. - No.

Ed. - Are you interested in any other type of writing?

C.R.B. - Yes, I'm interested in composing music.

Ed.- What are your future plans concerning poetry, writing, and music?

C.R.B. - Probably I'll use my free time for those interests.

AND THE POET...

The web of words is spun within her mind
And empty pages begin to live once more.
With each new song she shows a sign
Of need inside her private door--
And the poet spins her lore.

Silent now, she takes her rest
But her mind is not at peace.
The cobwebs have met a new test
Whose torture will not cease.
And the poet must find release.

The world has offered her new life
But she must conform and thus would lose
Her free soul amid the strife.
There is no compromise or truce--
And the poet has to choose.

Everywhere there are hands to touch--
She accepts a solitary embrace
And the pain involved is very much
Like the end of her own life's race
And the poet sees a new face.

Reaching out she removes the mask
And finds peace-- the flying dove.
It is finished-- complete is her task.
Two Hearts embrace in the darkness above
And the poet meets her love.

Inflation Alters Light On Savings

NEW YORK (AP) — It is an honored American tradition to save one's pennies until they accumulate to one dollar and then put the dollar into a savings account.

Everybody has been taught the story. The dollars grow into hundreds and then thousands. It may take many years, but through the magic of compound interest, those pennies eventually become a fortune.

The savings tradition still exists in frugal America, which in recent months has been putting about 7.5 per cent of take-home pay into savings of one sort or another, an extraordinarily high rate.

Savings banks vigorously promote the concept of small savings being the road to security. Who in the past few months hasn't seen a chart showing how money invested in certificates of deposit can double in less than 15 years?

But there is a perceptible change now in the old tradition. Inroads have been made, perhaps permanently. Savers have become more sophisticated, a bit more cynical and much more impatient.

Rising inflation and taxes have been major factors behind the change. Social Security has lessened fears of insolvency in old age. And there has been a quite perceptible broadening of the attitude that money should be used now rather than at some later date.

Analyzing the old tradition, a good many savers have concluded that the process of turning pennies into dollars may have made some enduring fortunes, but for the heirs rather than for the savers.

And most Americans suspect, if they don't know for sure, that while the bank may tell them their money will double in a specified number of years, the truth is it may not grow at all or may even decrease if inflation isn't contained.

One thousand dollars placed in a commercial bank in 1959 was worth, in real dollars,only $1,124 in 1969, which is hardly the road to wealth. An equivalent in U.S. Savings Bonds gained only $19.

Among the most frugal of the penny savers have been those with whole life insurance policies which they expected to provide cash value in their retirement years. But millions have found the payoff shriveled by inflation.

At the same time, none but the unsophisticated could fail to understand the forces at work in equity markets.

In the same 10-year period in which $1,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds earned only $19, the same amount in industrial stocks grew to more than $1,700. And even larger increases were common in real estate investments.

This realization is forcing changes in financial institutions.

Secret Service Exhibits Dents In Nixon Car

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) -- The Secret Service has exhibited dents in President Nixon's limousine as proof that it was the target of a barrage by anti-war demonstrators during his appearance in San Jose Calif.

Lilburn E. Boggs, assistant director of the Secret Service for protective forces, said Tuesday the visible damage "could only have been caused by rocks or other hard objects."

Arthur Godfrey, deputy special agent in charge of presidential protection, said that at a guess the vehicle was hit 10 times while running a gauntlet of missile-throwing dissidents.

Following statements that reports of the violence were exaggerated, the Secret Service took a group of newsmen to the Western White House and asked them to inspect the vehicle which came under attack on Thursday night following a speech by the President.

The inspection showed the limousine was marred or dented in several places.

San Jose Police Chief Ray Blackmore had said Monday the President never was in danger, only a few rocks were thrown and reports of the violence had been exaggerated.

Elaborating Tuesday, Blackmore said, "I was in the lead car and it wasn't hit. The President was in the second car right behind me and I have verified that it was hit several times and had to be repaired."

White House Press Secretary Ronal L. Ziegler issued a statement in which he said, "published and broadcast reports of the incident were in no way exaggerated.

"It was a serious and unfortunate incident that I personally hope never would occur again around the President of the United States and those accompanying him."

Nixon had appeared in San Jose for a speech in behalf of Sen. George Murphy, R—Calif., running for re-election.

Hearnes Urged To Probe K.C. Police Dept.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was asked Friday for an investigation of the Kansas City Police Department. The request was in an open letter sent by the executive committee of the Police Officers Association and said "The low morale of rank and file members brought about by loss of confidence in the leadership of Chief Clarence M. Kelley is reaching a critical point."

The letter added "We feel that Chief Kelley has wasted men and money on unproductive projects and is more interested in his public image than solving our department problems.

"We urgently request that you send a representative or appoint a committee to conduct an investigation of these conditions."

The letter was signed by the executive committee.

Total Enrolled at Four MU Campuses Reaches 46,966

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Total enrollment at the four campuses of the University of Missouri has reached a record high of 46,966.

School officials announced the figure shows an increase over a year ago of 524.

This fall's enrollment by campus include:

Columbia 21,680, an increase of 599 over a year ago.

St. Louis 9,681, up 83.

Kansas City 9,515, down 159.

Rolla 6,089, a gain of one.

The figures show 30,201 male students and 16,765 female.

Word's Origin

The word "gimmick" originated in carnival slang to describe a device to control the speed of a spinning "wheel of fortune." By use of the gimmick — which was always hidden—the operator or grifter could control the pay-off, if any.

Briton Says Soviets Testing Satellite to Erase U.S. Vehicles

LONDON (AP)--A British Scientist says the Soviet Union has been testing satellites designed to destroy U.S. military satellites. Kenneth Gatland, vice president of the Britian Interplanetary Society, said in an interview Monday that this was the mission of Cosmos 373, 374 and 375, launched in the past two weeks.

He said Cosmos 373 was launched into an orbit 300 to 350 miles above the earth and that Cosmos 374 was put into a higher orbit but then descended into 373's orbit and blew up. He said six large fragments from it have been identified.

Gatland said Cosmos 375 launched Oct. 30 was another test of the same system.

Space scientists say that if U.S. military reconnaissance and navigation satellites were destroyed in orbit, America's ability to retaliate to a nuclear attack would be made negligible. A U.S. official and a British space scientist, Geoffrey Perry, said in February that the Soviet Union had successfully tested a satellite that could destroy other spacecraft.

Oddball Shirley MacLaine Publishes Autobiography

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As is its custom, Hollywood was quick to categorize Shirley MacLaine when she came to films. She was a kook, a pixy, an oddball with a marriage that made no sense to anyone but her and Steve Parker.

Miss MacLaine has now written an autobiography, "Don't Fall Off the Mountain"—her husband's suggestion when she left for the Himalayas. The book will probably not change the Hollywood assessment of her. But less prejudiced readers will find her a warm, compassionate, perceptive woman.

Also a good writer, if we can believe her publisher's claim that nobody ghosted the 270 pages for her.

"Don't Fall Off the Mountain" is actually two books of equal length. The first details her childhood, her rise to stardom and the hell that ensued.

The second half concerns her travels: "My life expanded and opened up on all levels when I began to travel," she writes. "I've always felt that I would never develop into a really fine actress because I cared more about life beyond the camera than the life in front of it."

Her wanderings took her into black life in the Deep South, to a Paris brothel to research "Irma La Douce," to village existence among the Masai in Africa, and to the Hiltonesque— James, not Conrad—Bhutan on the roof of the world.

Her accounts of these adventures demonstrate that the girl has guts, as well as a keen, observing eye.

The author's tone is generally kind, but there are some heavies in her book. One is the late columnist Mike Connolly, whom she slapped—her lawyer had warned her that a closed fist would be assault.

Other victims of Miss MacLaine's pen are her father and producer Hal Wallis.

Her father, Ira O. Beaty, is pictured as an uptight Southerner who did everything possible to humiliate her ambitions to become a performer. In later years he declined to allow Shirley to bring Sidney Poitier to dinner—"It's not that I wouldn't be delighted; it's the neighbors ... I have to live here when dinner is over. You don't."

Producer Wallis brought the actress to Hollywood after seeing her on Broadway in "The Pajama Game"—she was the understudy for Carol Haney, who had broken a leg. She complains about her servitude to Wallis—nine pictures at an average of $15,800 each. Shortly after she bought her freedom from him, she was making $800,000 per film.

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

WE WASTE OUR TRASH

As a nation that produces an estimated 720 billion pounds of household waste alone every year, we are in danger of being buried under our own trash.

The problem goes beyond just the question -- difficult though it is – of where to put everything we discard, from bread wrappers to abandoned automobiles. It also involves the need to conserve some dwindling natural resources.

Though it may sound silly, we waste our trash. It has become evident in recent years that much of what we throw away and either burn or bury could be "recycled," or turned back into reusable materials.

Not only that, but it has become equally evident that we can no longer keep exploiting our natural resources on the false assumption that they are limitless – they are not – especially when other economical ways to obtain materials could be developed.

USE TECHNOLOGY

Recognizing this, Congress enacted into law, and the President signed last week, the Resource Recovery Act of 1970, a bill that will significantly alter the way this nation handles its trash.

The emphasis will be on developing ways to extract everything usable from trash, as well as on finding new ways to dispose of the non- reusable residue.

For centuries trash disposal was simple: Burn it. But in recent years, because of the foul odors and the air pollution caused by open burning, both big cities and less urban areas have turned in large part to landfills.

But even these dumping sites are fast disappearing, and the oceans have already become partly contaminated from dumping.

And, besides, this is strictly a disposal, not a recovery, method.

RECYCLING

The Resource Recovery Act will provide incentives, to American science and technology backed by federal money for research and for innovative projects, to develop not only environmentally safe ways of disposing of unreclaimable trash, but also ways of reclaiming what could be used again but is now lost.

In Japan, for instance, some kinds of solid wastes are compacted and used as building blocks. In Sundeburg, Sweden, trash from a 250- unit apartment complex is put into a pipe and swept along in an air stream 1.7 miles to an incinerator which is part of a heating system for the apartment complex. These are the kinds of things we can and will be doing in this country.

Special emphasis will be given to research on the recovery and refuse of agricultural crop wastes, which amount to an estimated 550 million tons annually, with the purpose of improving the farm economy through the resultant savings.

Canalou News

CANALOU — Mrs. John Chaney was chairman of the annual Unicef party which was held in the Canalou School gym Saturday evening. This event is sponsored each year by the 4-H club, with refreshments being supplied by the Women's Club. The program was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. Terzah Perry

Mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Quinton Malloy

Parade of Costumes (judges, Sister Perry, Floy Gruen and Marguerite Harrison)

Pledge to Flag, Treasa Malloy

Pledge to 4-H Flag, Mary Chaney

HIGH-RISE AND FALL in Buenos Aires. This apartment house complex in the Argentine capital's fashionable Belgrano district has been declared unsafe for occupancy. Police stand guard against return of evacuated tenants. In the last few months, at least two of Buenos Aires' modern skyscrapers have crumbled, killing 35 persons. Many other new buildings have been torn down after being condemned by the government. Nobody has yet determined or given an official explanation for the rash of collapsed buildings.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Shortening May Remove Lipstick, Grease Stains

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR OLLY—Coleen could probably get the pink lipstick off her white spread by doing as we do at our motel. Spread vegetable shortening on the stain and rub, rinse it off well, then wash the bedspread in the usual way. Bleach in the wash water also may help if the spread can take bleach. This method can often be used for other grease stains, too. —SUSAN

DEAR POLLY—In a home economics experiment, I found that smearing petroleum jelly on lipstick stains and then scrubbing with an old toothbrush takes it out. This should be repeated two or three times to make sure every trace is out and then wash the article as usual.—SONYA

DEAR GIRLS—Both the readers and I were at a disadvantage in answering the question as Coleen did not say what material was used for making her bedspread. Both the above were tested on white cotton, which naturally is washable. Specific information is needed for really specific answers.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—My good wool carpet needs its first cleaning. I would like to get down on my hands and knees and do this myself but do not want to get it too wet because of the waffle-design rubber pad underneath. I know that if this pad got too wet it would never dry out under the carpet. If someone has solved this same problem, I would like to know what sort of soap they used and how they went about scrubbing the carpet.—MRS. P. K.

DEAR POLLY—When my family goes to a carnival, fair or festival, I buy a helium-filled balloon for each child and adult in the group. There is always a balloon man selling them. I tie the end of each balloon string to a suit strap, child's bracelet, purse handle, etc. If one person strays away from our group, he can be located in the crowd because of the colorful balloon floating at the end of the long string several feet above his head. This technique saves a mother from the panic of searching for a lost child and helps a frightened child locate his parents. Simple though it is, this has been the most useful of my collection of homemaker hints.—MRS. B. W.

Pilot Wounded by Hijacker Enjoys Dual Life as Farmer

PERRY, Kan. (AP)—Dale C. Hupe is a Kansan with his head in the clouds and his feet on the ground.

He is in the clouds when he is flying—he has logged about 23,000 hours in the air and has been a Trans-World Airlines pilot 23 years.

The rest of the time he is a man of the soil, operating a 1,000-acre farm near Perry in northeastern Kansas. At the moment he is processing about 1,000 animals in his pig feeding operation.

The contrast between Hupe's dual careers was never more clear than when his TWA 727 with 51 passengers aboard was hijacked last June 4 en route from Phoenix, Ariz., to Washington, D. C. Hupe, 51, was shot in the stomach trying to disarm the hijacker.

Now fully recovered and back flying, Hupe reflected on the closest call in his career and said he has been unable to come up with a complete answer to hijackings.

Such measures as armed guards on planes, electronic devices to detect weapons and selective searches of baggage can reduce the number of hijackings, he said, but they can't stop them completely.

Hupe said he can think of nothing he would have done differently during the hijacking experience.

Nothing?

"Well, maybe move a little faster when I went for the gun," he said.

Hupe's tense, eight-hour ordeal started while his plane was still over Arizona. A stewardess came to the pilot's cabin and told Hupe a man wanted to see him.

"He has a gun," she said.

The man showed a revolver—Hupe could see the bullets in the chamber--and said he wanted some messages sent. Hupe agreed, although he hadn't had time to decipher what was written on the piece of paper handed him.

The message was to federal officials. It demanded $100 million ransom for the plane, its passengers and crew.

"I knew from the time I heard the demand for money that we were dealing with an irrational man," Hupe recalled. "We could only try to humor and pacify him."

A compact man of medium height, Hupe said there was one moment he might have been able to get close enough to disarm the hijacker. He didn't try because "you have to think of your passengers."

He added, however, he never had any doubt about the outcome.

"I always knew we were going to come out on top."

When the plane landed at Dulles International Airport in Washington, a bag containing more than $100,000 was taken aboard the jet.

It was the first time a ransom was paid a skyjacker.

But it was not the end. When the man saw some dollar bills in the bag he said he had been cheated and ordered Hupe to "put the plane in the air" without letting the passengers off.

As the plane circled over the Eastern Seaboard the crew talked further with the man. Finally, another demand was relayed to Washington, This time the hijacker wanted 100 mail sacks filled with $100 bills.

After the jet landed at Dulles the second time, FBI agents shot out its tires and a fire truck was moved in to block its path.

"Then I heard shots and I tried to get behind the man and get the gun," Hupe recalled, "but he turned and it went off in my stomach."

In the ensuing scuffle, the man identified as Arthur G. Barkley of Phoenix was subdued. Charges still are pending against Barkley.

Hupe refused to undergo surgery until he telephoned home.

"I wanted them to know I was okay.

Hupe and his wife, Doris, have two children, Dennis, 19, and De Ann, 11.

Hupe still is very much the Belvue, Kan., native who moved 50 miles to Perry to work the land.

Hupe, who was released from the hospital June 18, said he has no hobbies; the farm claims all his time not spent flying. And that's the way the holder of a BS degree in agriculture from Kansas State University wants it.

He said he treasures the life of a small town of 500 after the pressures of piloting a commercial jet in crowded airways and of the bustle of big city airports.

Asked once about being both a farmer and a flyer, Hupe replied:

"When I get disgusted with farming I can go fly. And when I get tired of flying I can go to the farm."

UN Sponsors Auto Race to Promote Road

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — The United Nations is going in for big- time auto racing. Fantastic as that may seem, the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East is sponsoring one of the toughest auto rallies on the international circuit, the Teheran-Dacca race. Set for Saturday through Nove. 15, the Second Asian Highway Motor Rally will serve to publicize completion of the Asian highway project.

It took more than 10 years and $2 billion to complete the 37,300 mile network, which spans the whole Asian continent. In connecting 14 countries, the highway crosses such rugged terrain as the Luk Desert of Iran, the Hezarajat Mountains of Afghanistan and the water-locked regions of Bengal. In April 1969 a trial rally was held from Vientiane in Laos to Singapore. However, this first race was something of a joke, with trucks and chauffeured limousines taking part alongside professional teams.

The 1970 rally is not for the amateur: It covers more than 4,150 miles of often- grueling territory. Although the rally's regulations state that its purpose is to dramatize "the fact that the Asian Highway is a reality, ready to serve the economics of the countries through which it runs," to most spectators and competitors it is a nine- day test of stamina and endurance. For the hardy, the rally is merely part of the larger London - to - Tokyo race which takes drivers from England to Calcutta, on to Tokyo by boat, and finally to Osaka. However, ECAFE is only underwriting the $7,500 in prises for the Teheran - to-Dacca run. Considering the United Nations' finances, it can't afford much more than that.

"A story of young lovers. . . . a writer of indisputable talent."

--Los Angeles Times

SHEILA by Gunard Solberg (Avon N338/95cents/224pp.)

A Literary Guild Selection and soon to be an important motion picture, SHEILA is Gunard Solberg's novel about two young people in love and each seeking his identity.

Shelia is Black, but not Black enough. She is an honor student who would rather push grass than pull A's...a dynamite child-woman who is afraid of really getting involved with anything or anyone--and terrified of being left alone. A little girl lost, Shelia is struggling to come to terms with her middle class backbround and her longing for status as a member of her race who is "cool" and "hip."

Wayne, a troubled young white student, yearns for Sheila's love and fights against his own guilt and the warning voices out of his white past as he reaches out to her. United in their battle against the confining suburban world of parents, teachers and things, Wayne and Shelia embark on an odyssey of mutual exploration, seeking their own particular freedom----

Dear Sir,

As President of the Gatooma Chamber of Commerce I was delighted to receive your message of goodwill and friendship.

This was presented to me by Pastors SINGLETON, QUILLEN and HACKNEY.

On behalf of the Gatooma Chamber it is with very much pleasure that I convey through your emissaries the sincerest greeting of all people in this district.

For your interest Gatooma is the center of a large cotton growing area and, within the precincts of the town we have a well equipped and modern ginning plant. This is coupled with textile manufacturing in its various divergent forms.

We are also the centre of intensive cattle ranching and allied industries.

It is fortunate that we also have closely to us rich mineral deposits which support a large mining complex.

Once again, my sincerest greetings to the people of your town.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,

FAST FOOD

NEW YORK (AP) Americans will spend about $124 billion for food and beverages this year, and meals at "franchised fast food outlets" will account for between $5 and $6 billion of the total, according to Arthur D. Little, Inc., a research, engineering and management consulting firm. "Drive-in" restauranis with a limited menu and little service have grown from about a half-billion dollars in sales 10 years ago, and are expected to reach $11 or $12 billion in the next five years.

The cure for cancer.
If you put up the money, we'll put up the brains.

The people and the tools it will take to find the final cure for cancer are going to cost a lot of money. Hunting the cause of cancer...and ways of preventing it ...are expensive. As research goes forward and new leads open up, costs snowball. And today's research funds, like all budgets, buy less than they did a few years ago.

There are no bargains in cancer research.

That's why your help is so urgently needed. Help us fight cancer...until the job is done.

Nerves Bother Fifth of Adults

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service has reported evidence suggesting nearly one in five American adults has experienced a nervous breakdown or felt one coming on.

In disclosing some findings it termed surprising, the agency reported nearly 60 per cent of the adult population is fidgety and tense at times to the point of being bothered.

The agency questioned 6,672 adults representing the nation's 111-million population of civilian, noninstitutional persons between 18 and 79. Eighty-eight per cent were white; 10 per cent black.

Persons interviewed were questioned not only on their history of actual, or threatened, nervous breakdowns, but also on whether they had ever been bothered by:

Nervousness, psychological inertia, insomnia, trembling hands, nightmares, perspiring hands, fainting or blackouts, headache, dizziness or heart palpitations.

In one of its major findings, the report declared:

"The over-all per cent reporting having had a nervous breakdown was 4.9 per cent and an additional 12.8 per cent reported having felt an impending nervous breakdown ... without its actual occurrence ... for a combined rate of 17.7 per cent —or almost one out of five with an estimated 20 million adults having experienced such severe psychological distress.

The survey found proportionately more women than men reported nervous breakdowns. Black women had a significantly higher rate than white women.

Women reported breakdown threats almost twice as frequently as did men, and had significantly higher rates for the 12 distress symptoms.

But the report found only two symptoms with significant differences by race for the same sex for both men and women.

"These were nervousness, with white men and women having a rate more than 15 per cent higher than Negroes; and dizziness, wherein Negro men and women had slightly higher rates than whites ..."

The survey found more symptoms of distress among less-educated and lower-income groups. On a geographic basis, Northeastern adults had lower rates, while Southerners had higher rates than average.

Among unexpected findings, the Public Health Service reported lower rates of breakdown among persons who had never married—especially white women—and among working men and women compared with retired men and women housekeepers, respectively.

Farmers and service workers tended to experience more nervous symptoms than did professional, clerical and operating workers.

Jarvis Thankful For Scout Support

In the tradition of Thanksgiving, appreciation was extended this week to those who support Scouting in this area by Earl Jarvis, president of the Southeast Missouri Council, Boy Scouts of America.

"We are most thankful to the thousands of men and women in Southeast Missouri who make it possible for boys to have the advantages of Scouting," he said.

"More than 200 chartered institutions sponsor Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops, and Explorer Posts so that over 7,000 boys may be Scouts in their own neighborhoods.

"At this significant time of year, we pause to give grateful thanks to so many people who support Scouting with their time and money."

He also expressed "heartfelt appreciation to the 271 leaders of Scout units who have dedicated themselves to deeply involve boys in a quality Scouting program.

"We say that 'America's Mainpower Begins with BOYPOWER,' but it is only through the devoted attention of parents, Scouting's volunteers, and those who support the Southeast Missouri Council financially that we can do our share to help boys be mentally and physically fit and to become men of character trained for citizenship."

The Southeast Missouri Council is a member agency of Cape Giradeau, Jackson, New Madrid, Butler County, Kennett, Senath, Cardwell, Malden, Charleston, and Dexter United Funds.

Future of Agnew Still Speculative

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political future of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew remains a question mark following what President Nixon has described as a Republican victory in Senate and House contests.

Some members of Nixon's inner circle remain divided on whether Agnew should be nominated for second place on the ticket in an expected Nixon bid for re-election in 1972. Some of Agnew's critics within the administration say they will be watching how the vice president conducts himself in the months immediately ahead.

The subject of Agnew's future was much discussed in the closing days of the 1970 campaign, following publication of a report he might be supplanted two years hence by Rep. George Bush of Texas, provided Bush won his Senate race against Democrat Lloyd Bentsen.

Bush's loss to Bentsen has not ended speculation about Agnew's prospects. While it is true talk of "dumping" the vice president has been common to almost all recent administrations, at least some Nixon associates continue to have that question very much in mind.

Following Tuesday's balloting, Nixon limited his victory claim to Senate and House races "in which I have been campaigning." Talking briefly to newsmen Wednesday at the California White House before flying back to Washington, the chief executive made no mention of Agnew's more strenuous —and controversial—campaigning.

Herbert Klein, the administration's communications director, spoke to reporters Tuesday night about "a lot of criticism in terms of the vice president's role in the campaign."

However, Klein added that Nixon looks upon Agnew as the GOP campaigner who was out front where the heat was hottest and felt the vice president had been very effective on the stump.

In his post-election statement, Nixon claimed Republicans had gained "a working majority in both the House and the Senate for national defense and also for foreign policy."

He referred to the ideological attachments of members of the Congress that will meet in January rather than party labels. Democrats, of course, will continue to control both houses.

He predicted the election results, "as far as the Senate is concerned, will not go unnoticed abroad."

The chief executive noted both Democrats and Republicans are making victory claims "as is usually the case in an off-year election." He even bolstered the legitimacy of such a claim by Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, saying O'Brien "with justification points to the fact that in state races his party picked up several governorships."

But then he went on to draw a distinction between these contests and "national races" in which he said he had campaigned. Actually, Nixon put in a good word for GOP gubernatorial candidates in all 23 states along his campaign route.

Evans was a farmer in the Wolf Island Community and a member of the Assembly of God Church of Thirty-four Corner. Surviving are his wife, the former Dean Belle Johnson; one daughter, Mrs. Carol Mathis, Chicago, one son, Edward Evans, Paducah, one half-sister, Mrs. Deanie Davis, Milburn, Ky.; and three grandchildren.

MARY SNELLING

PORTAGEVILLE — Mary L. Snelling, 81, died Wednesday at her home in Marston.

She was born Feb. 14, 1889 in Booneville, Miss. and was married Dec. 24, 1919 to Walter Snelling.

Survivors include her husband, two daughters, Lois Harris and Opal Dial of Benton Harbor, Mich.; five sons, John of Little Rock, Grady of Everett, Wash., James, Hillard and Willard Snelling, all of Benton Harbor; one sister Maggie Woodall of the state of Indiana, 26 grandchildren and 9 great grandchildren.

Services will be Friday at the Delisle Funeral Chapel with the Rev. William Shanberger, pastor of the church officiating.

Burial will be in the Portageville cemetery.

IRTIE THOMASON

ANGEL CAMP, Calif. — Mrs. Irtie Thomason, 82, formerly of Vanduser, died Monday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Claud Fugler.

She was born in Sikeston, Mo., Dec. 9, 1887.

Her husband, the late Levi Frank Thomason, died Sept. 13, 1957.

Surviving are one son Thomas Eaton, St. Louis; four daughters, Mrs. Fugler, Mrs. Zella Radford and Mrs. Earlene Timentale, both of Alameda, Calif., and Mrs. Lucille Dye, state of California; one stepson, Guy O'Guinn, Clear Lake, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. O.F. Spann, San Martin, Calif.; Mrs. Lucille Wren, Clear Lake, Calif.; and Mrs. Myrtel Ferguson, St. Louis; and one brother, Ray Richards, Sikeston.

Services were in Alameda. The body will be brought to the Welsh Funeral Home in Sikeston, Mo. Friday morning.

Services will be in the First Baptist church in Vanduser, Saturday at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Larry McClary officiating.

Burial will be in Forest Hills Memorial Gardens near Morley.

Senath Pastor Found Dead of Heart Attack

SENATH — Church of Christ Minister Fred Killebrew was found dead Tuesday afternoon at the steering wheel of his car.

Family freidns said the Rev. Mr. Killebrew died of an apparent heart attack, and had been dead about two hours before he was discovered by his wife in his car in the driveway of his Senath home.

Formerly associated with the Binghampton Church in Memphis, the Rev. Mr. Killebrew moved to Senate in 1945, where he assumed his duties at the Senath Church of Christ. He was a member of the Senath Ministerial Alliance.

State Student Will Keynote Sales Parley

CAPE GIRARDEAU — For the fourth time in five years, a Southeast Missouri State College student has been selected to keynote the annual sales conference of the Sales and Marketing Executives Association of Metropolitan St. Louis.

The 44th annual conference, expected to attract about 2,000 persons, will open Nov. 24 at the Chase Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

The student from Southeast Missouri State is 24- year-old Gary J. Cannella. He was chosen over representatives from St. Louis University, Washington University, Florissant Valley Community College, and the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses of Southern Illinois University.

Each gave a talk on the topic "Why I Chose Selling as a Career" at a recent meeting of the Sales and Marketing Executives Association in St. Louis. Neither the students nor the colleges they represented were disclosed until after all had spoke and the winner chosen.

Cannella will kick off the annual sales conference with the same talk he delivered in the competition.

The president of the Southeast Missouri State chapter of the American Marketing Association, Cannella won the right to represent Southeast Missouri State in the St. Louis competition by first competing against other members of the organization he heads.

Three semi- finalists were selected, and the final choice was made by the Cape Girardeau Toastmasters' Club.

The membership of the Sales and Marketing Executive Association consists of sales managers and sales personnel that headquarter in the St. Louis area.

Cannella, who is also a member of the Veterans Corp. at Southeast Missouri State, is majoring in marketing and minoring in economics. Originally from St. Louis, he is married and lives at 315 North Frederick in Cape Girardeau.

Watercolors Go on Display

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A collection of watercolors by John Bisignano, a faculty member of the Art Center of Orange, N.J., will go on display Friday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The exhibit, consisting of paintings of an experimental nature and on unconventional textures, will remain up through Nov. 21.

It may be viewed by the public Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the hall gallery of the Art- Home Economics Building on the campus.

According to Roy Schoenborn, associate professor of art and education at Southeast Missouri State, Bisignano's paintings have taken many awards and are included in many public and private collections. Bisignano has exhibited widely, Schoenborn said, in both one- man shows and national group exhibitions, and he works equally well in all media.

All of the paintings to be displayed at Southeast Missouri State are for sale. The exhibit is circulated by the Old Bergen Art Guild of Bayonne, N.J.

Republicans Improve Position in State

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Republicans went a long way Tuesday toward making Missouri a truly two-party state.

By winning one statewide race by a wide margin and losing the other in a close contest the GOP now has two state officials in vital positions to keep a critical eye on the administration of Democratic Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Young Christopher "Kit" Bond of Mexico, Mo., rolled up a 200,000-vote margin to snatch the office of state auditor away from Democrat Haskell Holman.

Bond is in a position to look into the financial actions of all state offices as well as those of local government officials.

U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., was re-elected to a fourth term but with less than 40,000 votes. He knew he had been in a battle with Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, the 34-year-old Republican who two years ago became the first of his party to win statewide in 22 years.

Now by losing he remains in the attorney general's office and he, too, is in a position to have a hand in the major decisions of the state government. He is a member of the State Board of Public Buildings and helps decide what the structural picture of Missouri's government will be.

Bond and Danforth must depend on a Democratic Legislature to provide the financing for their offices. Such situations have caused difficulties in the past and with the austerity situation in Missouri's government financing they can't expect to be treated on any more than a survival basis.

Hearnes announced today he will call a special legislative session to convene Nov. 13 but has not yet indicated what sort of revenue producing measure he might recommend. But he has said in the past that defeat of the income tax proposal last April has suggested to him the people might more easily accept a sales tax increase.

Bond has said he hopes to meet with the governor on a plan to change the system of depositing state funds in banks around Missouri.

Now it's strictly on a partisan basis, with the benefitting banks those which have been friendly to the administration.

Bond has suggested the money be deposited in banks where it would do the most good for the Missouri economy.

Bond has also said he would see to it that certified public accountants would man the supervisory positions in the auditor's office after he takes over in January. And that he would seek standard accounting procedures to be used by state agencies and local government officials.

Holman hasn't any CPA's on his staff now although some are accountants of considerable experience. He regularly returns money to the state treasury at the end of the fiscal year because, he has said, he has not been able to get the sort of men he wanted for the money he has available.

Holman will be 62 late this month and when he leaves office in January he is almost certain to be given a position in the Democratic administration somewhere so he can finish out those last three years, retiring at 65 with full pension benefits.

Another important effect of the Tuesday election is that Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, will start another term in January.

He is the controversial senator who led the successful fight last winter and spring against the administration's income tax increase plan.

Cole Grand Jury in Recess

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Cole County grand jury was recessed today while Judge James T. Riley considered a motion to quash an effort to get a look at State Treasurer William E. Robinson's income tax returns.

Thomas J. Guilfoil, Robinson's attorney, argued Wednesday the subpoena for income tax records violated the dictates of the Supreme Court.

Riley gave attorneys for both sides time to show whether the material is needed for the grand jury to proceed in its investigation of alleged wrongdoing in the treasurer's office.

36 MONTHS GUARANTEE WITH 14 MONTHS 100% ALLOWANCE

Foremost Protection-Guarantee. Your Foremost tire protection guarantee covers all Foremost passenger tires (except our special application tires with separate guarantees) against all road hazard or defect failures. You are protected for the entire stated months of guarantee. If your tire fails during the guarantee period, return it to us and we will, at our option, repair your tire, or make an allowance based on the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, toward the purchase of a new tire. We will allow 100% of the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, during the 100% allowance period. Thereafter, we will allow 50% or 25% of the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, toward the purchase of a new tire. (See chart below). Federal Excise Tax adjustment allowance will be made on the basis of the percent of the original tread remaining.

FOREMOST PROTECTION GUARANTEE CHART HERE'S HOW YOUR GUARANTEE WORKS:

Entire guarantee period 36 mos.
100% allowance period 1-14 mos.
50% allowance period 15-24 mos.
25% allowance period 24-36 mos.

Tread Life Protection. We build into every Foremost tire safe traction indicators. They signal when your tire should be replaced. If your tire wears out (except for incorrect alignment) we will make an allowance based on the original purchase price, excluding applicable Federal Excise Tax, toward the purchase of a new tire. We will allow 1/3 during the first half or 1/4 during the second half of the stated months of guarantee. Federal Excise Tax adjustment allowance will be made on the basis of the percent of the original tread remaining.

This guarantee is not transferable. It is only for private passenger cars or passenger station wagons.

Danforth Rules Vote Hauling Not Illegal

CARUTHERSVILLE — "In the opinion of this office, there is no law regulating or prohibiting the hiring or persons to haul voters to the polls in a primary or general election in a third class county" according to Missouri Attorney General John Danforth.

Through State Representative Vic Downing, the Pemiscot County Fair Election Committee had asked the Missouri Attorney General to clear up several questions. Two of these included: legality of the hiring of cars to haul voters to the polls in primary and general elections and the duties and methods of appointment of 'poll witnesses' in primary and general elections.

In a letter to the Attorney General Representative Downing said, "I believe the Fair Election Committee is doing a good job in our County in their efforts to see that we have fair elections, and I will appreciate your opinion on these questions as soon as possible."

Danforth pointed out that Pemiscot is a third class county. "In regard to the first question, we enclose herewith Opinion No. 253 issued by this office September 9, 1969, holding that Section 78.550, RSMo prohibits candidates or other interested persons from hauling voters to the polls with the intent and purpose of influencing their vote. Section 78.550, supra, applies to city elections in a third class city with city manager form of government. It has no application to the state and county primary or general election. There is no statute prohibiting or regulating the use of automobiles as such in hauling voters to the polls in primary or general elections in a third class county."

In answer to the second question concerning poll witnesses Danforth answered, "Section 111.501, provides in part, "no person, other than the judges and clerks of election, shall be admitted into the room or office where ballots are being counted except that a political party may select a representative person who may be admitted as a witness of the counting."

"We are unable to find any express statutory provisions setting out the method to be used by a political party in selecting a person to witness a counting of the ballots. It is our view that a person to be admitted to the room where the ballots are counted, must be selected by the party committee in the manner and in accordance with their constitution and bylaws and the judges of the election should admit such person into the room to witness the counting if they are satisfied such person has been selected by the party committee," said Danforth.

The question of hiring cars to haul voters was brought up during the August primary election.

Armed Forces

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Andrew Dale Wheeler Jr., Sikeston, and Michael Walter Wehmeyer, Chaffee, are enlistees in the navy, according to Petty Officer S. R. Breland.

Wheeler, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, 714 Davis road, enlisted in the navy's seaman recruit high school program, and will be sent to a technical school or may go directly to the fleet after recruit training.

Wehmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Wehmeyer, enlisted in the navy's junior college program and will be assigned to a technical school or to the fleet.

Both have been sent to naval training center in San Diego.

If You Were The Judge

Homosexual Can't Be Denied Library Job

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Mike applied for a job at a state university as a librarian and was advised that he had the position. But then he applied for a marriage liscense and, while applying for a marriage license might not otherwise have raised an eyebrow, Mike's application was to marry another man.

Bizarre? The University officials thought so and, consequently, refused to hire him. In a tizzy, Mike took the matter to court, where he demanded the job.

"Because I'm a professed homosexual," he told the judge," is no reason to prevent me from earning a living for myself and my intended spouse. I don't advocate homosexuality nor do I suggest it for anyone else. Therefore, to deny me the position is outright discrimination."

"While we concede that Mike's qualifications to be a librarian are just fine," responded the university officials," as a homosexual, he's going to commit a criminal act with his bride and we just can't have that sort of thing on campus."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the state university to give Mike the librarian's job?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held that public employemnt is a constitutionally portected right. That a homosexual is a human being and a citizen of the United Stated and, despite the fact he finds his sex gratifications in what most would consider to be an unconventional manner, he is entitled to that protection.

In this case, noted the judge, since Mike is a qualified librarian and his position will not expose him to children of tender age who conceivably cound be influenced or persuaded to his penchant, to deny the job would be unconstitutional

What's more, added the judge, homosexuality is a broad term involving different kinds of sexual activity. Until Mike is caught, it is only speculation that he will commit the particular criminal act feared by the university officials.

Based upon a 1970 United States Destrict Court Decision.

Mrs. Hearnes Talks at Dexter

DEXTER — Missouri's First Lady, Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, spoke Tuesday night at the fall general meeting of the Women's Council for County Improvement held at the high school.

Mrs. Hearnes was keeping an appointment of one year ago, when in the fall of 1969 she was scheduled to address the same group of Stoddard County women when she suffered a fall and a broken arm.

"And how do you say gracefully that you fell over a saw in the dining room?" Mrs. Hearnes asked the audience with a smile.

"There is no dignified way," she continued, adding that the restoration of the Governor's Mansion to its original state had been "well worth all of the work."

And on a light note of humor she added "Tonight I wanted to come in the worst way -- I traveled Highway 67."

But the lightness and humor was brief as Mrs. Hearnes talked to the group concerning the importance of such organizations as the WCCI -- people who care, people who see a task that needs to be done, and then do it.

"We are all aware of the problems in Missouri -- and Missouri women have met problems before -- for kindergartens, the right to vote and now we have a new battle, to get out the vote November 3."

She pointed out the crises our country faces with its riots and undeclared war, adding that "hate has reared its ugly head with lawlessness, inflation and an unsettled war."

"Passion and distemper flood our land and undermine the structure of our government," she continued.

"An uncomprising attitude, an uncompromising political attitude is resulting in a person not being able to speak his opinion and everyone has a right to a difference of opinion and we must defend his right to speak, she added in her commants.

"We must not only let him speak, we must listen," she said.

She stressed the importance of "one vote, one volunteer on election day," and reminded the women "that for a better state and a united nation it will take many groups such as the WCCI working to solve the problems of our state and nation."

As she spoke quietly and seriously of the problems Missouri and the nation face, her audience matched her mood, listening carefully and quietly to her thoughts and her ideas.

Her talk was not long.

But she impressed her listeners with her solemn words, her voice of concern.

And as she finished her remarks with "The First Family of Missouri thanks you for all of your support, we want you to know we appreciate all that has been done in our behalf. It is a privilege to have served as Missouri's First Family."

As Betty Hearnes took her seat on the platform, she received a standing ovation.

Mrs. Lehman Godwin introduced Mrs. Hearnes.

A reception under the direction of the Monday Club, was held from 6 to 7 p.m. as the guests arrived.

Decorations for the event were on a fall and Halloween theme and brought many comments from the guests. The pumpkins were styled in many faces, wore gay hats and were bedecked with felt, yarn and jewels to complete their character portrayal. The stage in the auditorium further carried out the fall motif with shocks of corn and bright orange pumpkins.

Junior Civi Club was in charge of table and stage decorations and the place mats of fall and Halloween were also bedecked with cutout figures for the season, styled and made by the Jaycee Wives.

The Dexter Civic and Study Club had charge of reservations and name tags.

Music for the program was provided by Miss Louise Swinger and a group of fifth grade girls who sang selections from "Sing With Me,' published by Rose Marie Cooper, a sister to Mrs. Warren Hearnes.

Mrs. Stanley Land accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ben Cowan Jr., delighted the audience with her performance on the marimba and also sang a repertoire of music from Carousel.

Brief reports were heard from Mrs. Joe Welborn co-chairman of the Cultural Arts Committee and Mrs. Robert Boon, environmental chairman, who announced a public affairs forum on enviromental problems set for 8 p.m. Nov. 19 at the High School with Dr. Carl J. Merianfield as speaker.

Mrs. Wilson Jarrell, president of the WCCI, introduced officers of the organization as follows: Mrs. Hal Jean, Dexter, secretary; Mrs. Wayne Richmond, Bloomfield, treasurer. Mrs. Dean Swallows, Puxico, vice president. was unable to attend the meeting.

Approximately 160 women attended the meeting from throughout Stoddard County.

FORGET THE MIDI, men, look what the fashion world is offering now. These eye-stopping gowns were worn by opera singer Anna Moffo, left, at a White House dinner, and Princess Margaret at a London reception.

Kansan Hurt

Darrell Duggins, 28, Wichita, Kan., suffered head cuts and possible broken ribs at 9 p.m. yesterday when he lost control of his northbound 1967 Ford pickup truck, ran off the road, and overturned, the highway patrol said.

The accident occurred on route B, one mile south of Wardell.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. (I John 1:8)

PRAYER: O God, we confess that we have sinned against You many times by thought, word, and deed. Forgive us our sins. Instill within us a hatred for all evil and give us a sense of righteousness. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Show & Tell

By Mike Jensen

* *

Last night I courageously donned my black leather jacket plus my protective helmet and ventured to the Malone theater to see HELLS ANGELS ON WHEELS and ANGELS UNCHAINED. WHOOPEE!!

In previous weeks this column has leaned over backwards praising films, but they deserved it. Today is different. My conscience will not allow praise of these two disasters.

HELLS ANGELS ON WHEELS, I must admit, is a pure comedy of errors. As a matter of fact it was so bad that I didn't stay to see ANGELS UNCHAINED, but I honestly don't think I missed much.

ANGELS UNCHAINED was billed as "a war of survival against the cycle freaks and the dune buggy straights." If that isn't enough to make you sick I don't kwow what is.

HELLS ANGELS ON WHEELS does have a few (very few) redeeming factors. The co-star is Jack Nicholson. Most of you will remember him as the pot-smoking lawyer in Peter Fonda's Easy Rider.

Nicholson was obviously just beginning his career when this film was made. He rumbles across the screen playing a young degenerate, running around with other degenerates - and that is the best part.

The movie actually features - now get this - the real Hell's Angels of Fresno, Calif. I'm sure that that thrills you about as much as it does me. Any movie that has to use those slobs to get an audience isn't going to get any brownie points in my book.

The film lasts for 98 long long minutes. At least 75 per cent of that time features this band of merry men and women riding their bikes. The rest of time they are killing sailors, killing cops, killing themselves — really great fun.

I must remind you that the Malco is featuring MASH and PATTON, and that is the most obvious hint that I can give you.

Senses Are Different

All insect senses function through organs far different from ours. The main organs of smell for insects are the antennae. They contain olfactory pits or cones that enable the insects to detect odors.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 1970. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first U.S. president to be elected to three terms in office.

On this date—

In 1605, a conspirator, Guy Fawkes, was seized as he was about to blow up the House of Lords in London.

In 1872, Susan B. Anthony voted for Ulysses S. Grant in a presidential election. She was fined $100 for illegal voting.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected president, defeating former President Theodore Roosevelt and President William Howard Taft.

In 1930, American novelist Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

In 1940, election returns were telecast for the first time.

In 1946, a new career in politics began as 29-year-old John F. Kennedy was elected to the House of Representatives.

Ten years ago—A controversy raged at the United Nations over the return of many Belgian officials and technicians to the Congo.

Five years ago — The U.N. General Assembly voted overwhelmingly, over British objections, for a demand that Britain use military force if necessary to assure complete political freedom in Rhodesia.

One year ago — South Vietnam's Vice President Ky said his country intended to take over the Vietnamese war at a pace which would permit the withdrawal of all American combat troops by the end of 1970.

MOPPING UP OIL, this vessel demonstrates an advanced system for cleaning up leaks such as the one that occurred recently offshore near Santa Barbara, Calif. System incorporates a catamaran-type barge towed by a high-speed power boat. Deployed from the barge, at an acute angle, are two 100-foot flotation booms, constructed of plastic-coated nylon fabric and designed to provide continuous wave contouring in any sea state. Area is transversed to trap oil within angle of the booms, forcing it into a self-contained gravity oil separator tank, capable of processing up to 800 gallons a minute. Oil recovered within a half-hour of spillage can be reclaimed.

Nixon, GOP Able to Claim Little But Historical Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — esident Nixon and the Republicans have overridden history but very little else with the divided verdict of the midterm elections.

The White House may find the new, still-Democratic Senate a bit more tractable—but not that much.

And a Democratic state house sweep of unexpected magnitude confronts Nixon with an array of practical political problems for 1972.

It also gives Democrats crucial strength in the coming struggle over the reshaping of congressional districts to match the 1970 census figures.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Nixon's campaign deputy, said the elections awarded the President "a working majority in the Senate" on ideological lines.

He said Nixon agreed with that assessment.

It seemed optimistic.

The Democratic Senate majority was cut by at least two, and possibly three seats, depending on the outcome in a see-sawing Indiana race.

But even ideologically, the outcome was mixed.

For example, Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., who won a Connecticut Senate seat for the GOP, is not, by the record, a down-the-line administration man.

He succeeds Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, a hawkish Democrat who voted with the administration on virtually every question of defense and foreign policy.

As Agnew pointed out, a Republican critic of the administration was supplanted in New York by a Conservative—James L. Buckley, a solid Nixon man on defense and foreign policy but likely to differ with the administration on the conservative side of such issues as welfare reform.

In Texas, conservative Democrat Lloyd Bentsen takes over a seat now held by a liberal Democrat, and Agnew cited that as a plus for the administration. Both Agnew and Nixon campaigned for Rep. George Bush, the GOP loser.

Democrats, in one election day, overturned what had been a 32-18 Republican statehouse lead.

This victory could be translated into an organizational base, fund raising potential, political manpower, patronage—the stuff of which White House campaigns are fashioned.

For the Democratic presidential prospects, the plurality was the story.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie scored a 63 per cent showing in Maine, big but not towering.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy piled up 63 per cent of the Massachusetts vote, better than the 60 per cent his own men had staked out as their goal to prove he had overcome the political problems raised by Chappaquiddick, but well short of the nearly 72 per cent he commanded in 1964.

Hubert H. Humphrey scored his Senate comeback in Minnesota with 58 per cent of the vote.

There were other names to consider, too, as possible prospects for national tickets: Sen.elect Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois, Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan of Ohio, Sen.-elect John V. Tunney of California.

The two biggest states, New York and l ... California, reelected Republican Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan. But if the conservative victory of James L. Buckley in New York was an immediate boost for the administration, it also seemed likely to foretell a split in New York Republican ranks.

The administration gained Senate allies to supplant Democratic critics in Maryland, in Tennessee, and in Ohio.

But it lost loyal supporters in the defeat of Sen. Ralph T. Smith of Illinois and Sen. George Murphy of California.

And their seats will be filled by Democrats who are on Agnew's campaign list of certified radical-liberals: Stevenson and Tunney.

Furthermore, in Illinois, California and Utah, Republicans saw the impact of their law-and-order issue brought into question.

It didn't work in any of the three states.

Another possible GOP campaign casualty: the so-called Southern Strategy. It didn't work in Florida, where Republicans drummed away at the issue of their opposition to the busing of school children for the sake of racial balance. It didn't work in South Carolina, where Republican Rep. Albert W. Watson challenged for the State House with Agnew's campaign help and the aid of Sen. Strom Thurmond. John C. West, a moderate Democrat, won.

And in Florida, the new Democratic senator will be Lawton Chiles, generally conservative —but certainly less so than the man he succeeds, Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

Tennessee, however, was a major plus for the Nixon-Agnew campaign; it ousted Sen. Albert Gore, the Democratic dove long ago pronounced a top target by the vice president.

That took care of one of the men Agnew denounced as a radical liberal. But names that were on that bitter list will dot the Senate roll call when Agnew gavels the new Senate into session.

Republicans indeed outdid history; a Nixon spokesman said the President was pleased the GOP had "turned the tide of tradition."

The party of a President has increased its Senate strength in only four off-year elections; no Republican had presided over such gains since Theorore Roosevelt in 1906.

And the White House party has lost an average of 29 House seats in the mid-term elections of the past two decades. This time, the Democratic gain was held to less than a dozen.

On the other side of the historical ledger, Nixon was the first newly elected President of modern times to face opposition majorities in both houses of Congress.

Republicans had, in fact, less to lose this year. And, in contrast to history, the presidential party was the party on the attack in the campaign of 1970.

Furthermore, Democrats were defending 25 Senate seats, Republicans only 10. An opportunity of that magnitude will not soon come again. In 1972, there will be 19 Republican Senate seats up for election, 14 Democratic.

With a lopsided hold on the state houses, Republicans had to risk 24 this year, Democrats only 11. But the proportions of the turnabout were nonetheless a surprise.

Boardman Sentenced on Three Counts

CAPE GIRARDEAU Thomas Harold Boardman., former Sikeston certified public account, was given 90 days in prison on each of three counts of failure to file income tax returns in United States district court. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Boardman who formerly owned businesses in Sikeston and Dexter, previously entered pleas of guilty on the charges for the years 1964-66.

His gross income for the three years totaled $113,899.30.

U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith gave him until Jan. 4 to get his business affairs in order. He is to report to the U.S. marshal in St. Louis that day to be committed to the custody of the attorney general.

Boardman was indicted by a federal grnd jury Sept. 9, 1970, and pleaded guilty to the three-count indictment Oct. 5, 1970.

The United States government was represented by Robert B. Schneider, assistant to United States Attorney Daniel Bartlett, Jr. The case was investigated by agents of the ingelligence and audit divisions of the Internal Revenue Service.

Boardman's Attorney reviewed the defendant's personal and business records. He said Boardman entered the Air Force in 1943 and during World War II his plane was shot down and he was in a German prison camp for eight months. He also pointed out the defendant lost a son in Vietnam.

He said the defendant, by working on the job, was able to pass certified public accountant examinations and entered business with a partner at Sikeston and Dexter.

The attorney said Boardman went to Dexter to take over that office in 1960 but had financial difficulties which were increased by a fire which destroyed records of the company and "a year's work."

The attorney said while these facts do not excuse the failure to file the income tax returns, he was asking the court to take then into consideration in passing sentence.

Judge Meredith told the defendant that under normal circumstances he would pass sentence of a year on each count, but because Boardman was in the German prison camp and his son was killed in Vietnam, the sentence would be 90 days on each count

The defendant has sold his businesses and moved to Russellville, Ga.

Three other criminal cases came before the court.

Appearing for arraignment, Michael Dudley Childress, 19, was committed to prison for a 60- day evaluation prior to formal sentencing after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of possession of illegal firearms. His attorney was Alfred Holland of Paragould, Ark.

The government alleged Childress had a .410- gauge sawed- off shotgun on his person at Cardwell on April 18, 1970. It was claimed the gun was not registered as required with the National Firearms transfer records.

Childress said he bought the gun from a boy in Paragould. Upon questioning by the judge, he admitted the charge arose after a roommate was shot, but no further details came out in testimony.

Judge Meredith also pointed out while no arrests were made, Childress had been found in possession of dynamite caps while on the campus of a college he attends. The defendant told the judge he planned to use the caps to dynamite fish.

The judge said he received a report from the probation officer but has not had time to study it.

After emphasizing the seriousness of the charge, Judge Meredith told the defendant, "I would like to know more about you." He then committed Childress to the penitentiary for 60 days for evaluation " to know what makes you tick" before making final disposition of the case.

Two defendants in separate cases were sent to the Springfield Medical Center for psychiatric examination.

One, Joe Roy Boshell, appearing for arraignment, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of entering the Bank of New Madrid on Oct. 24, 1970, with intent of larceny. He told the court he was very drunk on that night and did not remember whether or not he broke a window to enter the bank.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert B. Schneider said the defendant previously told a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent he used his elbow to get in the window of the bank. Mr. Schneider said tellers found papers scattered about and a typewriter knocked off a desk. The defendant was found with $221 in currency hidden in his shoes and $9.20 in his pockets, Schneider stated.

Judge Meredith . said he would not accept the defendant's plea of guilty on the statement he was drunk and did not remember the facts and directed the U.S. attorney to commit Boshell to the medical center.

The other defendant, George Darnell, was to appear for trial Wednesday on a five- count indictment of violation of the Commodity Credit Corp. Charter Act and the Agricultural Act of 1949.

His attorney, Charles E. Hatley of New Madrid, requested the psychiatric examination. Judge Meredith said as the defendant's attorney had told him he was having difficulty understanding what his client told him, he would grant the request.

Jack L. Oliver, Cape Girardeau attorney, read the names of four area lawyers who the Board of Admissions recommended to be admitted to the bar of the court. One, W. Robert Cope of Cape Girardeau, was in attendance. The others are Joseph P. Fuchs of Sikeston, Hal E. Hunter III of New Madrid and Byron D. Luber of Caruthersville.

The courts began taking up civil matters following the criminal suits. Also here for the government is Maurice H. Harris, chief of lands section, U.S. District Attorney's Office.

There are approximately 9,000 golf courses in the United States.

Physics Teachers Will Converge on Cape Girardeau

CAPE GIRARDEAU — About 50 physics teachers from across the state will be on the Southeast Missouri State College campus Saturday for the fall meeting of the Missouri Section of the American Association of Physics Teachers.

This is the first time the Missouri Section has ever met at Southeast Missouri State, said Dr. Sidney E. Hodges, a professor of physics at the college and program chairman for the conference.

Dr. Hodges, president - elect of the organization, said most of those attending the conference will be college professors. He added, however, "We're trying to build up our high school membership and high school physics teachers, especially those in the Southeast Missouri State service area, are urged to attend."

Except for a luncheon and business meeting at the Holiday Inn, the conference will meet in North Hall of Science on the campus. The morning session will open at 9:30 a.m. and the afternoon session about 1:30 p.m.

Six papers will be delivered in the morning and three in the afternoon. They will variously deal with research in physics and curricular developments and developments in the teaching of physics at both the high school and college levels.

Scheduled to deliver papers are Dr. Hsin-i Wu of Southeast Missouri State; John Leake, Gene Moum, and Brian DeFacio, all of the University of Missouri -- Columbia; Richard Anderson and Daniel Jones, both of the University of Missouri -- Rolla; John Northrip of Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield; Joseph Snoble of Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg; and Leonard Livingston of Hazelwood, Mo.

Dr. Hodges will automatically advance to the presidency of the Missouri Section of the AAPT at the spring meeting to be held in Springfield.

President of the organization this year is Dr. Marathon High, head of the physics department at the University of Missouri -- Kansas City.

I find my delight in thy commandments. — (Psalms 119:47)

Divine order in mind, body and affairs means freedom from negative thinking. It means that our minds are peaceful and poised. As we affirm this order, we allow the fullness of all life, all light and all good to come to us. Let us accept the idea that God is working in and through us and that His good is being established in our lives.
